$484,000,000 DEFICIT IN BUDGET FOR 1923, FORECAST BY MELLON

BUT GIVE SURPLUS IN 1922

Change Partly Due to Big Drop in Customs and Internal Revenue Receipts.

BRITISH INTEREST COUNTED

Secretary's Statement Coincident With Republican Senators' Decision to Pass Bonus Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Revised estimates made by the Treasury Department indicate that, while there will be a surplus of receipts over expenditures for the fiscal year 1922 of about $47,000,000, the deficit for the fiscal year 1923 may reach a total of $484,000,000, instead of $167,000,000, as estimated in earlier computations.

This statement of the condition of the governmental finances contained in a letter written by Secretary Mellon under date of April 14, to Chairman McCumber of the Senate Finance Committee, was made public today by Mr. Mellon coincident with the action of Republican Senators in voting, 26 to 9, in caucus to direct the Finance Committee to report a soldier bonus bill within a reasonable time, so that legislation might be adopted during the present session.

The situation thus created served again to emphasize the controversy in which the executive and legislative branches of the Government have been engaged for months over the soldier bonus problem. The fact that the deficit in 1923 might approach the half-billion mark was sufficient to attract wide attention. The statement came as a distinct surprise to many of the legislators, especially those who had not made a close study of the decrease in tax returns for the first quarter of the present year.

Secretary Mellon's letter was in response to an inquiry made recently by Senator McCumber for the latest estimates covering the finances of the Government. While Mr. Mellon did not refer directly to the soldier bonus problem, the significance of the publication of the letter at this time, with its intimation that the Government was in no condition to assume further heavy obligations unless new forms of taxation were provided, was generally accepted.

Figures Surplus for 1922.

Taken purely as an analysis of governmental finances, the Mellon letter was of unusual interest. The compilation showing a surplus for the fiscal year 1922 is based on the extention into 1923 of aggregate payments of about $200,000,000, which will have to be made by the United States Railroad Administration and the Interstate Commerce Commission in connection with the railroads. On the other hand, credit extensions of about $190,000,000 made by the War Finance Corporation, most of them to agricultural interests, add heavily to the 1922 expenditures.

The heavy deficit for 1923 is based largely on an estimated drop in customs and internal revenue collections to a total of $2,396,000,000, the necessity to pay out $200,000,000 to the railroads, and the fact that in January, 1923, accumulated interest of $125,000,000 on war savings certificates will fall due.

It also is of interest that in his estimate of receipts for 1923 Secretary Mellon includes $200,000,000 to be received from the British Government as interest on the wartime obligations held by the United States. Mr. Mellon explains that, while he has no official knowledge that this sum will be paid, he has accepted unofficial reports to that effect for the purposes of tentative budget making. He makes no reference to possible payments by other foreign nations of interest due on the war debts, and the conclusion was drawn that Mr. Mellon felt uncertain of obtaining substantial payments of interest except from the British Government, at least until after the fiscal year 1923.

In table accompanying the letter the accumulated interest on War Savings certificates of the series of 1918 is not included, thus putting the estimated deficit for 1923 at $359,000,000. Explanation is made by Mr. Mellon, however, that the $125,000,000 of accumulated interest properly is chargeable as interest on the public debt, thus increasing the actual deficit raised to $484,000,000. While the interest on the certificates may be apportioned, thus leaving the deficit somewhere between the two figures, Mr. Mellon contends that the $484,000,000 deficit actually will exist.

Mr. Mellon points out that in arriving at this deficit no provision has been made for any outlay that might be authorized under the proposed ship subsidy legislation.

What Mr. Mellon Says.

Mr. Mellon's letter to Senator McCumber, a copy of which was sent to Chairman Fordney of the House Ways and Means Committee, follows:

April 14, 1922.

Dear Mr. Chairman:

In accordance with your request I am submitting herewith statements giving the Treasury's latest estimate of receipts and expenditures for the fiscal year 1922 and the fiscal year 1923, with supporting schedules for each year showing the details of the ordinary civil expenditures and fixed debt charges. These statements give estimates revised as of about March 31, 1922. For the fiscal year 1922 the

2,057 Tariff Amendments Made in Senate Committee

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Senate clerks with a statistical turn of mind have totaled up the amendments made to the Fordney tariff bill by the Senate Finance Committee majority.

They place the number at 2,057, which is declared to be something of a record in Senate rewriting of a House bill.

SENATORS IN CAUCUS VOTE TO PASS BONUS

HARDING HOLDS TO STAND

Will Not Sign the Measure, It Is Declared, Unless a Tax Is Provided.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Senate will pass a soldiers' bonus bill, it was decided by a caucus of the Republican members today. By a vote of 26 to 9 the caucus approved a resolution informing the Committee on Finance that it was the opinion of the Republicans that a bonus measure should be enacted at this session. The committee was requested to report the bill to the Senate "within a reasonable time."

President Harding, it was said on high authority tonight, has not bulged an inch from his stand that any bonus legislation passed by Congress should also provide means for paying the bonus. Any bill that he would sign must measure up to his views. A sales tax remains, it is understood, as about the only revenue producing proposal which the President might approve in regard to a bonus.

The nine who voted against the bonus resolution were Senators Calder, Edge, Moses, Nelson, Newberry, Pepper, Sterling, Wadsworth and Weller. Borah, Ernst and Warren, who have announced their opposition to this legislation, were not in the caucus room when the vote was taken. Du Pont and Fernald, who voted for the resolution, did so with the reservation that their votes did not commit them to the support of the bill when it comes into the Senate. Frelinghuysen and Phipps, who were not recorded in the vote, are listed as "doubtful," which indicates a Republican opposition to the bill of from twelve to sixteen.

The Democratic opposition will number seven and perhaps eight Senators. The seven who are against the bill in any form are Glass, Dial, King, Myers, Shields, Underwood and Williams. Smith of South Carolina is the "doubtful" Democrat.

The opposition to the bill, therefore, appears at this time to be anywhere from nineteen to twenty-four Senators. Should the former figure be correct it would mean a majority for the bonus of 59, while should all the "doubtful" swing to the anti-bonus column the majority for the measure would be 48.

Senator Lenroot of Wisconsin, who, following the pigeon-holing of the bonus plan in the last session of Congress, announced that the Republicans would pass such a bill before the adjournment of the regular session, argued that there should have been a definite, clear and unmistakable bonus policy on the part of the Republican majority without further delay. He had the support of a large majority of those present, and at no time was the passage of the bonus resolution in doubt.

Some ardent bonus advocates wanted the resolution so worded as to direct the Finance Committee to report the bill within a specified time, one suggestion being ten days and another four weeks. The matter was finally compromised by substituting the words "within a reasonable time." Senator Watson of Indiana, one of the Administration leaders and a member of the Finance Committee, expressed the opinion that the bill would be in the Senate in about four weeks.

A phase of the bonus situation which caused considerable argument in caucus was the revenue feature. The opinion seemed to be that the Senate would not tack a sales tax provision to the House bill, as to do so would violate the Constitutional provision which requires that all revenue-producing measures must originate in the lower chamber. It was suggested that the Constitutional restriction might be overcome by passing a revenue provision in the form of an amendment to the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill. No decision was reached on this part of the problem, and it will be considered at a future conference.

It appears probable that when the bonus bill is reported to the Senate the tariff will be laid aside temporarily. This would mean that the final vote on the tariff bill would be deferred until some time in July.

CRIME DRIVE SPEEDS TEN TOWARD PRISON; LIFE FOR SLAYER, 17

SIX POLICE CARS VOTED

Aldermen Grant High-Power Autos After Wrangle—Enright Silent on Needless Arrests.

One bandit received a maximum sentence of life imprisonment for slaying his victim and two others were sentenced to long terms in Sing Sing yesterday in a continuation of the efforts of the Judges of ten criminal courts in New York County to clear the overcrowded calendar of criminal cases to aid the drive against lawlessness in this city. During the day eight men pleaded guilty to crimes of violence and two others were convicted. Two additional parts of the Court of General Sessions, provided by the last Legislature, opened yesterday, and eleven criminal courts of the higher jurisdiction will be open in this county today.

The Board of Aldermen passed a resolution authorizing the purchase of six high-power automobiles for the Police Department, after considerable debate during which Republican members maintained the existence of a crime wave and greeted with laughter the assertion by Democrats that Richard E. Enright was "the best Police Commissioner New York City ever had." These automobiles are desired by Commissioner Enright to enable the Detective Bureau to cope with automobile bandits. Their purchase previously had been authorized by the Board of Estimate.

Four Escape Murder Trials.

Four of those who pleaded guilty of crimes of violence had been indicted for murder in the first degree. They were permitted to plead guilty of lesser crimes, because District Attorney Banton believed he could not convict for the major crimes.

Louis Gardella, 17 years old, 9 Henry Street, pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree. He was sentenced to from twenty years to life by Judge McIntyre in General Sessions. Gardella admitted that on the evening of Feb. 23 last he shot and killed Demosthenes Santonineau, a jeweler, while he was attempting to rob his victim in the latter's jewelry store at 27 Madison Street. A commission reported yesterday that the youth was an epileptic. It was also reported to the court that the father of the slayer was under observation as a psychopathic at Bellevue Hospital.

Charles Ulings, sent to Elmira Reformatory several years ago on a robbery charge, was found guilty before Justice Finch in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court of having robbed Eugene Merritt, a milk route collector, of $280, and was sentenced to seven years' imprisonment. He said he lived at 31 East Twenty-fourth Street.

Induct Judge Johnstone.

Judge Johnstone presided in Part VIII., and when he mounted the bench was greeted by several hundred friends, including District Attorney Banton and William Travers Jerome, former District Attorney, who appointed Mr. Johnstone as one of his assistants twenty years ago. Judge Alfred J. Talley of General Sessions presided at the induction of the new Judge. Mr. Banton and Mr. Jerome made speeches praising Governor Miller for his selection of Judge Johnstone. Assistant District Attorney Wallace then presented Judge Johnstone with an ivory gavel on behalf of the staff of the District Attorney's office. Chief Justice Frederick Kernochan of Special Sessions also greeted Judge Johnstone and turned over to him Part VI. of Special Sessions for the trial of cases.

Mr. Banton said later that the judges of General Session had notified him that during the Summer months they would keep open six parts of that court to aid in the immediate disposal of indictments returned against men accused of crimes of violence. He said it was likely that another part would be added to the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court within a few weeks. He said it was expected that by that time twelve courts, including four parts of the Supreme Court, would be engaged in the disposal of indictments charging crimes of violence.

He said that he had received a letter from Governor Miller assuring him there would be little difficulty in providing

Atlantic Fliers Arrive at St. Paul's Rock; Completing Third and Most Hazardous Leg

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, April 18 (Associated Press).—Captains Countinho and Sacadura, in their flight from the Cape Verde Islands for Brazil, arrived at the cliffs of the St. Paul's Rock, just above the Equator, northwest of the Island of Fernando Noronha, at 6 o'clock this evening, Brazilian time (8 P. M. New York time).

PORTO FRAYA, Cape Verde Islands, April 18 (Associated Press).—Captains Coustinho and Sacadura hopped off at 5:00 o'clock this morning for St. Paul's Rock on the third and probably most dangerous leg of their flight from Lisbon to Rio de Janeiro.

Their route lay over 900 miles of water, devoid of markers or guideships.

The landing at St. Paul's Rock was expected to be difficult, as there is only a small bay or opening between the two islets on the northeast side. This bay or cove is only 50 yards across at the entrance and 100 yards long, and presents some difficulties, even to vessels, except in the most moderate weather.

The seaplane was swalted at the Rock by the Portuguese cruiser Republica, which carries a supply of gasoline and oil.

From St. Paul's Rock the venturesome airmen plan to fly to the Island of Fernando Noronha, approximately 350 miles off the Brazilian coast, and from there to Pernambuco.

Oser Not Coming to America; McCormicks Sail in Month

CHICAGO, April 18.—Miss Mathilde McCormick, daughter of Harold F. McCormick and granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, will sail for Europe with her father in a month or two and will marry Max Oser, Swiss riding master, in Switzerland, Howard A. Colby, friend of the McCormick family, announced today. Oser, he said, would not come to this country.

Asked whether Mr. Rockefeller had given his consent to the marriage, Mr. Colby said:

$1,300,000 ESTATE INVOLVED

Administration Papers Denied Pending a Contest—Executors Delve Into Mrs. Burton's Past.

A contest of the will of Frank V. Burton, millionaire merchant, land owner and member of an old New York family, who died on March 11 last at the age of 66, was revealed yesterday with the filing of papers in the Surrogate's Court in Newburg, Orange County, N. Y.

Mrs. Clara Louise Burton, his second wife, who was cut off without a penny in favor of the five children by Mr. Burton's first wife, has asked for temporary letters of administration of the estate, valued at $1,300,000, and has served notice of her intention to contest the will.

The executors named in the will—John Howes Burton, a brother; Frank V. Burton Jr. and Van Duser Burton, sons, and Howard F. Clark, partner—filed an answer to her petition yesterday. They contend that the widow "is not a proper person to be appointed a temporary administrator of the estate or to be granted any power or control whatsoever in respect of the property and affairs of said decedent." The executors asked that letters of administration be issued to them.

Three Administrators to Be Named.

Mrs. Burton's petition said the grounds on which she intends to contest the probate of the will are those of mental incapacity and undue influence. She asked temporary letters of administration pending the proceedings. The filing of the answer by attorneys for the executors was in response to an order to show cause, returnable yesterday, why she should not be appointed temporary administratrix. George F. Hurd of Greene & Hurd, 43 Exchange Place, are counsel for the executors, and Cassidy & Cassidy of Newburgh are the attorneys of records. Herbert Noble of Noble, Morgan & Scammell of 115 Broadway is counsel for Mrs. Burton.

Surrogate Ellwood C. Smith denied Mrs. Burton's petition to be appointed temporary administratrix. He announced that he would appoint three administrators—one to be nominated by Mrs. Burton, one by the executors and one by himself. The executors intend to nominate former Governor Benjamin B. Odell of New York. Counsel for Mrs. Burton announced that they intended to contest the probate of the will, and received one week's time in which to file written objections with the Court.

"Typical" Letters Produced.

In support of their statement that Mrs. Burton is not a proper person to control the estate, the executors charge that about 1908 she acquired notoriety because of relations with the late Charles T. Yerkes, the Chicago traction magnate, that she had had many "affairs" in this country and in Europe from 1904 to 1913, and that she had lived with Mr. Burton before she married him in 1919.

The executors attached to their answer copies of letters, memoranda and other documents they said Mr. Burton had found in his wife's possession in 1920 and which they say resulted in a separation. According to the executors, about 200 letters were found in a trunk. They submitted to the Court what they called typical letters, dealing with Sam M. Powers in London, a Major Fritz Brinck, and a Gustav Phillip, said to have been a manufacturer of polish in Germany.

"These letters, documents and memoranda," the answer says, "indicate beyond peradventure that for many years petitioner lived the life of a promiscuous woman of adventure and was, in part if not entirely, supported by contributions given by or exacted from various men with whom she had relations of the character described."

The executors further state that Mr. Burton entered into an ante-nuptial agreement with his wife whereby she specifically waived all rights to inherit from his estate. A copy of the agreement was attached to the answer. Before the marriage, they say, Mrs. Burton conveyed to his affianced bride cash and securities from which she was enjoying an income of $20,000 a year at the time of his death.

"Monstrous," Says Mrs. Burton.

Mrs. Burton, who is occupying an apartment at 605 Park Avenue—her husband died in his apartment at 570 Park Avenue—indignantly denied, in an interview last night, the charges made against her by the executors.

"I wish to refute these statements as strongly and earnestly as possible," she said. "They are all vicious and malicious calumnies, monstrous falsehoods, which would defraud me of my inheritance. I am astonished and grieved that such awful statements should be made."

Mrs. Burton said she had no comment to make about the ante-nuptial agreement. Her father was William Flotow

BERLIN ELATED, BUT DOUBTS

MARK DECLINES 21 POINTS

Reactionaries Applaud Policy, but Think Reds at Home Will Be Emboldened.

MOVE CALLED A BIG GAMBLE

View Is Expressed That Failure of Coup Will Involve Germany Seriously.

By CYRIL BROWN.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 18.—Awaking after four days of Easter holiday making, German public opinion was completely taken by surprise today by the first news of the German-Russian treaty. Simultaneous reports of the sensation caused by the treaty in Genoa conference circles evoked mixed emotions tinged with misgivings.

The Boerse was completely dominated by the development, and the mark dropped twenty-one points. Having closed yesterday around 270, it opened this morning at 280, and late in the afternoon the dollar was quoted at 291.

The treaty also had the effect of bringing trading in Russian specialties almost to a standstill on the Boerse as well as from bank to bank. These Russian specialties are developing remarkable strength with an active demand and a scanty supply forthcoming, it being believed that the German Government will now have to indemnify German holders of Russian bonds and railroad securities guaranteed by the Czarist Government and that therefore the treaty has brought indemnification in sight in the near future as against the doubtful and distant prospect of the Bolsheviki ultimately being replaced by a Russian Government which would and could acknowledge and make good the Czarist obligations.

Russian bonds of 1902 gained four points, the Petrograd International Bank of Commerce 14 points and the Russian Bank for Foreign Commerce 4 points. For most of the other Russian specialties no rates were fixable, because none came on the market.

Praise and Criticism Mixed.

There is a curious and unprecedented unanimity from communists to reactionaries, in expressing satisfaction that a treaty has been concluded by Germany and Russia, though for very different reasons and this satisfaction is mingled with mental reservations and some outspoken criticism. Reactionaries and nationalists hail the fact that the German Government has at last found the will to play active and aggressive foreign politics. Their criticisms are first that Russia gets the lion's share of the benefits out of the treaty; second, that an aggressive policy should have been adopted much sooner and, third, that the treaty may strengthen the Reds in Germany.

The satisfaction of Government supporters is based on the belief that by this treaty Wirth and Rathenau have frustrated the grave danger of Germany at Genoa suddenly being brought face to face with a fait accompli in the form of an agreement between the Allies and Russia at Germany's expense, without Germany having had a chance even to be heard. This section of public opinion has doubts, however, as to whether the time and place were politic for concluding the treaty and it makes a mental reservation pending the receipt of inside information as to why Wirth and Rathenau sprung the sensation on the conference.

Communist Hopes Raised.

The Communists feel satisfaction because they see in the treaty a big tactical and strategic help to Russia and an important step toward a Red revolution in Germany. The Communist organ Die Rote Fahne finds a big overturn in Rathenau's policy, saying:

"Formerly England was the Alpha and Omega of Rathenau's policy and Russia a negligible piece to be shoved hither and thither on the chessboard at England's dictation. But Genoa is apparently a good laboratory lesson for Rathenau. The complete elimination of Germany from all the discussions forced Wirth and Rathenau to place themselves openly on the side of Russia."

The Independent Socialist Freiheit explains the conclusion of the treaty on the ground of an increasing realization of German self-interest in Russia and a consequent decisive influence on the Wirth Government by the powerful industrial interests. It says:

"After Soviet Russia had long been abused and combated, German industrial circles gradually realized the advisability of Russia's economic reconstruction and consequently that Germany would have to recognize the hated Bolshevist regime."

The Democratic Vossische Zeitung, recalling the "ill-fated treaty of Brest-Litovsk," says:

"It was Germany's as well as Russia's misfortune that the present treaty was not concluded five years ago. We have paid for the lessons of the last

GENOA, April 18 (Associated Press).—The text of the allied note to the German delegation regarding the treaty signed with Russia reads:

The undersigned powers learned with astonishment that in the first stage of the Genoa conference Germany without reference to the other powers assembled has secretly concluded a treaty with the Soviet Government.

The questions covered by the treaty are the subject of negotiations between the representatives of Russia and those of all the other powers invited to the conference, including Germany, and the German Chancellor himself declared at the opening session that the German delegation would co-operate with the other powers for a solution of these questions in a spirit of genuine loyalty and fellowship.

The undersigned powers therefore express to the German delegation in the frankest terms their opinion that the conclusion of such an agreement while the conference was in session is a violation of the conditions to which Germany pledged itself on entering the conference.

By inviting Germany to Genoa and offering her representation on every commission on equal terms with themselves the inviting powers proved their readiness to waive memories of the war and granted Germany an opportunity for honest co-operation with former enemies in the European tasks of the conference. To that offer of good-will and fellowship Germany replied with an act which destroys the spirit of mutual confidence indispensable to international co-operation, the establishment of which is the chief aim of the conference.

At all conferences unofficial conversations between parties are permissible, often desirable. They are helpful so long as they are designed to facilitate the common task and so long as the results are brought to the conference table for common discussion and decision. But that is not what the German delegates have done.

This treaty is not subject to any examination or sanction by the conference. We understand that it is final and that it is not proposed to be submitted to the judgment of the conference. It is, in fact, a violation of the principles on which the conference is based.

In these circumstances the undersigned do not consider it fair or equitable that Germany, having effected her own arrangement with Russia, should enter into a discussion of the conditions of an arrangement between their countries and Russia; they therefore assume that the German delegates have by their action renounced further participation in the discussion of the conditions of agreement between Russia and the various countries represented at the conference.

LONDON QUESTIONS EFFECT OF TREATY

SEES A MENACE TO PEACE

Press Condemns Russo-German Agreement as Attempt to Wreck Versailles Treaty.

Copyright, 1922, by The New York Times Company.

LONDON, April 18.—While there is no attempt here to minimize the importance of the diplomatic move involved in the Russo-German treaty, there is some doubt as to whether that agreement can ever be put into practical effect. Germany's renunciation of all claims for losses of German citizens on Russian soil undoubtedly raises difficulties for England and France; but the question is asked here, How will the German industrialists take it? The German investments in Russia before the war differed materially from the French. France lent money directly to the Russian Government; German investors were deeply interested in Russian industry. They supplied skilled personnel and were actively interested in carrying on Russian factories, and their Government is now apparently asking them to forego any hope of reimbursement for all the war and the revolution has cost them. Their one hope would be to recoup themselves through obtaining new and still greater concessions, but it is questioned here whether the German industrialists will be as well content with this as the German politicians appear to be.

The Evening Standard, commenting on the treaty, says tonight:

"Taken piece by piece, the compact analyzes itself as worthless without the concurrence of the powers; it wipes out the balance of the war debt; and here neither had anything to hope from the other, because whatever Germany can spare belongs to the Allies by way of reparation, and whatever Russia can yield should go in restoring her to normal conditions. As for recognition, this is premature, but inevitable, and the favored nation treatment was practically the same so long as the Soviet remains in charge. On the whole, what Russia needs is funds, and Germany on her own showing has none to spare."

The Pall Mall Gazette thinks that the most unfortunate feature of the treaty is the evidence it affords of Germany's continued preference for underhand methods.

"As for the closer economic relations which are foreshadowed between the two countries," it says, "the agreement will only accelerate in one direction what it is the aim of the conference to bring about in a general sense. In bringing the resources of Russia into a common pool of commercial exchange it would have been necessary in any case to utilise Germany's organization, knowledge of the country and other facilities."

Calls Russian Advantage Barren.

The Daily Chronicle says:

"We deplore the strange lack of tact which led the Germans to sign the treaty. There is nothing to suggest any deep-laid scheme on their side, nor do they pocket any obvious gains from signing. The gains, such as they are,

French Cabinet Views Treaty as Violating Versailles Agreement, but Defers Decisive Action.

EXTREMISTS GAIN GROUND

Liberals Admit That Germans Have Given Nationalist Bloc New Lease of Life.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 18.—The original attitude of the French Government toward the Russo-German treaty was in glaring contrast—not to say opposition—to the allied note handed to the German delegation at Genoa. It is the opinion of Premier Poincaré that the new treaty constitutes an open violation of Article 200 of the Treaty of Versailles, to say nothing of the Cannes agreement. At the meeting of the French Cabinet this morning this view prevailed unanimously. The logical conclusion was that the new treaty must be immediately annulled.

Until this evening the French Government was under the impression that the Allies at Genoa were going to demand annulment. The French delegation had been thus instructed, and the Cabinet supposed the rest of the Allies would take the same view. The announcement that the Allies had contented themselves with the expulsion of Germany from the Russian Commission—just when Germany had completed the settlement of Russian affairs to her own satisfaction—struck Paris, therefore, as lamentably inadequate. The further news that even this somewhat platonic expression of allied disapproval had aroused protest from the neutrals caused a positive chill.

There was a pause for reflection. What followed was singular in the circumstances, but not surprising in view of M. Poincaré's cautious character and dislike of violent measures, the feeling of the French that in this matter at least they have a considerable measure of sympathy in England, and perhaps also in America, and the realization that imprudent action might mean war. The ominous word "war" was uttered this afternoon by no less responsible an organ than the Temps, which more than ever at present reflects the official point of view.

But at the moment the Temps editorial was written the French Government was still out for the annulment of the Russo-German treaty and had not received the news of the allied action at Genoa. War, even if presented under the guise of a triumphant advance into Germany, has an ugly sound in French ears. War takes men from the farms; war costs money; war may mean further sacrifices whose end none can foresee. It must be remembered, too, that the French have from the outset underestimated the importance of the Genoa conference in the eyes of Europe.

As the days pass M. Poincaré gets a better understanding of the sentiment about Genoa, and as his understanding widens, so grows his reluctance to break up the conference by his own deliberate act. It was understood this afternoon that a Cabinet Council had been set for this evening to decide what action should be taken after the members had had time to learn what had happened at Genoa. Now it is said that there may GENOA, April 18. — Premier Lloyd George has apparently held the Genoa conference together for the present. But his dream of the creation of a pan-European spirit of general unity and common co-operation of the nations of the Continent has gone glimmering and there is every indication that the biggest result of this meeting will be to divide Europe more clearly than at any time since the war into one camp led by the Allies who conquered Germany and another camp led by Germany in co-operation with Russia.

The convening powers and Little Entente today adopted a resolution censuring the Germans bitterly for having concluded a separate compact with the Russians on Easter Sunday giving them just what they demanded from the Allies and which the Allies had refused. The penalty adopted against the Germans is to exclude them from all future negotiations with regard to Russia. As the Germans said tonight, having concluded their treaty with Russia, the penalty did them no damage. Dr. Rathenau said that whether or not the Germans would withdraw from the conference because of the censure would not be decided until tomorrow. It is doubted that they will.

Germans Assert Lloyd George Knew.

A heated controversy, in which the word "lie" is being used, has arisen between the British and German camps as to whether or not Lloyd George knew what the Germans were doing.

Dr. Rathenau told me tonight that four times last week officials of the German delegation had informed officials of the English delegation that the Germans, being unable to accept the London memorandum and being excluded from the Quarto conferences, would have to make a separate agreement with Russia. Dr. Rathenau said that Friday night an emissary from Quarto came to him with the knowledge of Lloyd George to tell him that the negotiations were proceeding well with the Russians. Dr. Rathenau declared he sent Lloyd George word that if the Allies were going to act without consulting Germany, Germany was going to make a separate treaty.

He said he tried Friday, Saturday and Sunday morning to see Lloyd George, but that the British Prime Minister was too busy. His office received at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon a message from Lloyd George saying Dr. Rathenau was expected at Quarto in one hour, but at that time Dr. Rathenau was at Rapallo signing the treaty with the Russians.

Mr. Lloyd George denies most emphatically that he knew the Russians and Germans were making a separate treaty. He declared that the treaty was trickery, and not in the spirit of the Genoa conference. Little better was expected of the Russians, but, said the Prime Minister, Germany, which could play such a great role in the reconstruction of Europe, had absolutely failed to abide by the word or adhere to the conditions of the Cannes resolution.

Resolution Written by Lloyd George.

The resolution of censure of the Germans was penned by Mr. Lloyd George's hand. It says that the powers "have learned with astonishment" that Germany, without consulting the other powers, has signed a separate treaty with the Soviets. It sets forth that the German Chancellor at the opening session of the conference promised co-operation in a "spirit of genuine loyalty and fellowship."

The resolution expresses to the German delegation the opinion that Germany violated the conditions to which she pledged herself on entering the conference. The powers, it says, had given Germany an opportunity to waive the memories of the war and work in a common task, and adds:

"To that offer of good-will and fellowship Germany has replied with an act which destroys that spirit of mutual confidence which is indispensable to international co-operation, and the establishment of which is the chief aim of this conference.

While the resolution continues, the conference was sitting and while commissions with German members on them were discussing the various problems connected with Russia, the German delegates "behind the backs of their colleagues" concluded in secret a treaty with Russia on the very questions they had undertaken to consider in loyal conjunction with the representatives of other nations."

The resolution sets forth that the treaty is not subject to consideration by the conference. It is final, and in these circumstances the powers believe that Germany, having made her own treaty with Russia, will not participate any further in discussions of the Genoa conference concerning Russia.

The resolution is signed by the chief delegates of England, France, Italy, Japan, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, Rumania, Jugoslavia and Poland.

Technically the incident may be closed. It is unless the Germans withdraw. But the effects of the incident are just as important from a political point of view perhaps as if the conference had broke up tonight. There is now no doubt that the week before the Genoa conference opened the Germans and Russians agreed in Berlin to spoil the allied plans with regard to Russia if they could. By the terms of this agreement Germany was to get special advantages in Russia, and in return back the Russians at Genoa.

The Germans showed superior cleverness in the way they played their cards. Thirty-six hours before the Russians left Berlin the treaty was drafted. It was written on three sheets of German Foreign Office stationery, and it was the expectation of M. Tchitcherin that it would be signed before he left Berlin. Dr. Rathenau failed to keep an appointment with the Russian Foreign Minister to sign the treaty. Both brought their copies to Genoa.

Put beside the fact that M. Tchitcherin tried three times during the first week of the conference to get Dr. Rathenau's signature the statements Dr. Rathenau made to the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES this afternoon and you get an idea of the German game. Intending all the while to work toward an alliance with Russia, the German Foreign Minister, after having initialed the treaty with Russia, withheld his formal signature until sure he could gain nothing by playing the allied game at Genoa. Finding himself shut out from the conference at Cuarto, and seeing that the French would allow no reduction of reparations at Genoa, Dr. Rathenau, by his own admission today, signed the treaty at the moment when the Allies were waiting for the Russian answer on the debts and German support could do most for the Soviets.

Statement by Rathenau.

Dr. Rathenau offered to give a frank statement about the treaty. Here is a summary of what he said in a half hour's talk:

"I have heard with great surprise that there is amazement about the treaty we have made with Russia. There should be no astonishment. In its general lines the treaty has been drawn for two months, and two weeks ago it was drafted practically word for word as it was signed Easter Sunday.

"I have heard little criticism of the contents of the treaty. We renounce certain demands we might have made. Russia renounces certain demands she might have made. It is said by some that we have violated the Versailles Treaty. Well, I am not going to make a speech now about what I think of the Versailles Treaty. But we have renounced only what belonged to us, and that on condition that Russia makes the same arrangement with other powers.

"We are reproached that during the conference we have been treating privately. You have been to these conferences and you know that at them all separate treaties have been made between powers. Now, we heard that private conversations between the Allies and Russians were going on at Lloyd George's villa. We did not complain. But we saw that no attention was being paid to our interests. We waited. Nobody asked us what we wanted, and so I thought we had better look out for our own interests.

"The London program contains articles which Germany would never sign. Germany would have gotten no rights, only obligations. I saw what was coming. We were going to have some day placed before us a contract to be signed on the dotted line.

"I did not sign the contract with the Russians before I came here. I came with my hands free to see what Germany would get at Genoa. When I saw that she would get nothing I acted just as if there had never been the Genoa conference.

"It is a lie to say we acted in secret. I tried three times to see Lloyd George and tell him about it, and each time he put me off, and so I ordered that the British be informed. Four times officials of our delegation had long conversations with officials of the British delegation, fully and openly. We reported we could not accept the London arrangement and were going to make our own settlement.

"This conference ought to have been a real peace conference. Some good may yet be done, but I do not think it will lead to quick improvement in the world's economics. I have not criticised the exclusion of disarmament and reparation, but have felt all along that the conference could never have achieved its ends with these questions shut out. Speaking of peace, we have made a real peace treaty with Russia. The treaty is such as all peace treaties ought to be and such as I hope all peace treaties will be—a mutual resignation of claims and forgetting of the past."

Dr. Rathenau is known as a philosopher. He divulged a striking bit of philosophy when Colonel Repington asked him if Germany in accepting the Cannes conditions had not agreed to Russian recognition of debts, whereas the new treaty had wiped them out between Germany and Russia. Rathenau replied:

"We have renounced mutually our debts. You cannot renounce a thing without recognizing it; therefore, we have fulfilled the Cannes condition."

Asked why he chose Easter Sunday to sign the treaty, Dr. Rathenau said:

Denounces Censure Resolution.

Shown the allied resolution of censure, Dr. Rathenau commented:

"It is unjust, unfair and full of lies. I don't see how Mr. Lloyd George could have signed such a document."

Asked what the Germans were going to do about it, he said he could not tell until he had consulted his colleagues.

It is to be noted that the Germans make no pretense of having kept any one but the British informed. As for Mr. Lloyd George, he denies most emphatically Dr. Rathenau's assertions that he kept him in touch with the German-Russian negotiation.

In speech to the allied and Little Entente delegates this morning when the censure was approved he said he regarded the act of the German delegation as a "serious and unintelligible breach of the spirit in which all the powers are working here." Germany had definitely undertaken a work of loyal cooperation and a status of equality with all the powers had been given her. In spite of that she had made a separate treaty with Russia which included matters on which negotiations were still going on.

The British Prime Minister pointed out that the convening powers were trying to get the Russian claims down to a basis on which the conference, Germany included, could do useful work. Germany was no more left out than Russians and French by such [illegible] had an even greater interest than Germany in the Russian problem. When matters were sufficiently advanced they would have been brought before the commissions for consideration.

Grievance Not Against Russia.

The grievance which everyone felt, he said, was against Germany and not against Russia. Russia was not a recognized power and almost an enemy. She was entitled to conclude what agreements she liked which might give her an advantage vis-a-vis other powers. But for Germany to do so was an act of disloyalty to the other powers with whom she was on equal terms, and she was well aware of the disloyalty of her act.

Officials of the German delegation called on Ambassador Child today and presented their case at length, informing him that they had kept Mr. Lloyd George in touch with their negotiations and that they had sprung no surprise. Curiously enough, two hours later, a delegation of Italian Journalists visited Mr. Child and informed him they understood that America had entered the conference and taken sides with Germany and Russia. Mr. Child had a difficult half hour convincing them of their error.

Germans Drafting Reply to Note.

GENOA, April 18 (Associated Press).—M. Tchitcherin, head of the Russian delegation, called on Chancellor Wirth and Dr. Walter Rathenau of the German delegation at their hotel today while the Big and Little Entente powers were meeting to decide what they would do about the Russo-German treaty, and had a long conference with the Germans, who displayed no uneasiness about the possibility of dire consequences if the treaty is not abrogated. The Archbishop of Genoa called while M. Tchitcherin was there and met the Soviet Foreign Minister.

The German delegates were engaged tonight in drafting a reply to the note of the Allies and Little Entente denying the German right to participate in the commissions dealing with Russian affairs. The note will state that the Allies began secret negotiations with the Russians before the Germans did, and, furthermore, that the full conference of the thirty-two powers, and not eleven powers, alone has the right to exclude the Germans.

The neutral countries, headed by Denmark, which are not pleased because the small powers have been almost eliminated from the conference by reason of the private sittings of the Entente powers, have held several meetings and have protested against Germany's exclusion from Russian affairs without a full vote of the conference.

The representatives of the powers which convened the Genoa conference, together with the Little Entente, decided tonight after an all-day discussion to continue the economic conference, regardless of the attitude of Germany and Russia.

The meeting was held at the Villa Raggio, Premier Facta's home, and was continuous, with the exception of brief periods for lunch and tea, when more intimate conversations were carried on between the various delegates.

The discussions at the meeting were calm and dignified, although considerable differences of opinion existed. Two groups formed, one led by England and the other by France, while the Italian delegates displayed a conciliatory attitude. Some of the extremists are said to have proposed breaking up the conference, but a majority favored awaiting Moscow's reply to the allied demands.

According to information from French sources, Mr. Lloyd George emphasized the necessity of adopting a severe attitude toward both Russia and Germany, but especially against Germany, pointing out that Germany had signed the Versailles Treaty, whereas Russia had not.

Signor Schanzer, the Italian Foreign Minister, favored an attitude of moderation in the interests of the conference. Mr. Lloyd George replied that it was no time to display weakness. He counseled sending a note to Germany and Russia declaring they must modify their attitude if they expected to be permitted to discuss Russian affairs at Genoa.

At the evening session there was a discussion as to the advisability of insisting that Germany either revise the treaty with Russia or be expelled from all commissions of the conference.

The Italians entertained the delegations at a great dinner this evening, which the Germans attended. Although Dr. Rathenau knew the contents of the note excluding Germany, it was not officially delivered to him before the dinner, and consequently the Germans were able to be present.

Insist British Were Informed.

There is evidence that the German-Russian rapprochement is progressing smoothly, at least between themselves, and, according to the Germans, the signing of the treaty did not come as such a great surprise to the British as some at first believed.

Baron von Maltzahn, who is in charge of Russian Affairs in the German Foreign Office, informed The Associated Press today that the Germans had frequently mentioned to the British the conversations the Germans were having with the Russians and had made it clear that the Germans felt a great injustice was being done them by the Allies, who failed to let them into the conference at Mr. Lloyd George's villa, where Russian affairs were being adjusted without consideration of German interests.

Furthermore, Baron von Maltzahn said he had informed Sir Cecil Blackett of the British delegation on Sunday night that the treaty had been signed that day. It would therefore seem unlikely that Mr. Lloyd George was unadvised, although it is doubtless true that he had not seen a copy of the treaty before the meeting held last evening to discuss what the Allies would do about it.

The Germans contend that they would have been responsible for reparations, and their property and commercial rights in Russia would not have been protected if the Entente powers had reached an agreement on Russian questions without consulting Germany. Consequently, the Germans took the bull by the horns and effected a treaty which puts them in the position of a favored nation and insures that their rights in Russia will be equal to those o rthe Entente.

No Alliance, Says Litvinoff.

M. Litvinoff informed the Associated Press tonight that the conference had not sent to the Russians any protest against the signing of the Russo-German treaty, and expressed surprise that the conference should object to negotiations between Germany and Russia, when nothing was said about the protocol which Russia, the Baltic States and Poland signed at Riga, and the Entente had offered no objections to the neutral conference at Berne and the "Little Entente" conferences held in preparation for the Genoa meeting.

"As a matter of fact," said M. Litvinoff, "the Russians and Germans prepared the treaty when the Russians were in Berlin on their way to Genoa, but Dr. Rathenau explained that the Germans could not sign then as it must be submitted to the Cabinet. So, it was signed here Sunday. Perhaps it would have been better to have signed at Berlin, but we cannot understand why so much stir is made about it. Germany had already granted the Soviet Government recognition de jure in the Brest-Litovsk treaty, so, no objection can be offered on that ground.

"The Mirbach tragedy was the single barrier which had prevented the Russo-German treaty from being completed long ago. The Germans insisted upon apologies for their Ambassador's death of a sort which Russia could not grant. That question has now been settled and we have restored normal relations. That is all—it is no alliance."

It is not impossible, says the Lavora today, that owing to the complications that have arisen from the Russo-German treaty Premier Lenin of Soviet Russia may come to Genoa himself and submit to the conference and to the world the situation in Russia. It says he will upnold the necessity for reconstruction of Russia in the interest of reconstruction of Europe.

PARIS PAPERS DEMAND ANNULMENT OT TREATY

Temps Calls Russo-German Agreement 'in Reality a Preparation for War.'

PARIS, April 18 (Associated Press).—Condemnation of the Russo-German treaty by the Paris afternoon newspapers today ranges from charges of bad manners to accusations of treason.

Most of the newspapers voice the official view that the agreement violates the Treaty of Versailles, while the Communist organ, The Internationale, asks what all the fuss is about, continuing: "What are Russia and Germany doing, if not what all the other nations should do if they really wish to rebuild Europe; that is, renounce the war debts and base peace on respect to each other's rights?"

The Temps and the Journal des Debats counsel calm recognition of the fact that Germany and Russia have been negotiating the agreement for some time. They call attention to the fact that the German Foreign Minister, Dr. Rathenau, mentioned the negotiations publicly in the Reichstag, and to other facts indicating clearly that such an accord was under consideration.

The Temps suggested that the world should not get excited, saying: "Indignation perhaps makes good verses, but bad politics." The Temps, like most French newspapers, emphasizes the idea that Genoa is Premier Lloyd George's show, and that most of the responsibility belongs to him.

"Let it be said without malice," says The Temps, "that Lloyd George has been fooled like a child. After he did everything to smooth the way for the Russians and Germans, even repeatedly sacrificing the interests of France and even those of England to humor Germany and to placate the Russians, he sacrificed not only the interests, but the principles, that were considered inviolate."

Even if the Allies obtain annulment of the Russo-German treaty, the Temps continues, it will be only an empty success, for the text might be destroyed, "but the spirit would remain, and the spirit is much more dangerous. It is quite apparent that the treaty is neither complete nor definitive in form. It is a basis of policy. It lets it be understood that economic arrangements are in preparation and lets it be supposed that there are being prepared, if not already concluded, political and even military agreements."

"Therefore," the Temps concludes, "the treaty accomplished at the conference to consolidate peace is in reality a preparation for war."

Auguste Gauvain, editor of the Journal des Debats, takes a lighter and more sarcastic view, laying stress upon the success of the Soviet delegates, but expressing the opinion that Germany has made a bad bargain. He interprets the economic clauses as constituting a warning to the Allies: "If you don't get together with the Soviets Germany will monopolize the Russian markets." To this he adds: "What bluff!"

The Journal des Debats feels that the Germans and Russians have formed one of those groups which Mr. Lloyd George was trying to prevent; but "it is vain to try to make the whole world keep house together."

Jacques Bainville, writing in the Liberté, says: "We went to Genoa to be mocked at," and adds that, if France does not insist, there is no longer any reason for the conference, and that "within forty-eight hours the Russo-German accord will pass as a faithful translation of Lloyd George's program and as a preliminary of the United States of Europe."

The Intransigeant says:

"There is a perceptible feeling almost of satisfaction among the newspapers supporting the national bloc at what they consider a distinct hit against Mr. Lloyd George, and at the same time the "clumsy blunder of German psychology," which, as Saint-Brice puts it in the Journal, will perhaps "pull us out of the Genoa wasps' nest."

"Mr. Lloyd George never thought, when he admitted the Berlin and Moscow people on an equal footing," the Journal's editor continues, "that they might interfere with his manoeuvres. He counted without his hosts. The Germans and Russians have just proved it to him by concluding behind his back an agreement which they certainly think very smart, but which might very well spill the beans. That is where the total lack of a critical spirit among the worthy Germans again betrays itself."

The Figaro, of a deeper hue of nationalism than the Journal, thinks that Louis Barthou, head of the French Genoa delegation, guessed what was coming and wished to take his precautions at his first encounter with George Tchitcherin, head of the Soviet delegation.

"That is why," writes Alfred Capus, the editor, "the comedy put on by the Soviets places France in a less humiliating position than the other European nations. It will be curious to see how British and Italian opinion reacts; but we may be assured that whatever the Soviets lose in European opinion will be gained by France."

GARIBALDI ASSAILS LLOYD GEORGE POLICY

Says Admitting the Germans and Russians on Equal Terms Was a Mistake.

GENOA, April 18 (Associated Press).—General Ricciotti Garibaldi, the last surviving son of the Italian patriot, will leave Genoa for France tomorrow. He said today that he hoped to be able to get as far as Paris, as he desired to congratulate M. Poincaré, the French Premier, for his attitude with regard to the economic conference and for not having come to Genoa.

"The conference can only result in strengthening the enemies of France, who are the enemies of the Allies," said General Garibaldi. "It may seem very cruel, but the old saying, 'Woe to the conquered,' still holds good.

"Naturally, I do not mean that we ought to exterminate our conquered enemies, but if we admit them at once to sit with us at a conference, in a position of perfect equality, they will take advantage of this to conspire against us and get ready to beat us the next time. This is the mistake for which Mr. Lloyd George is chiefly responsible—for insisting on having the Germans and Russians at the conference here on the same footing as delegates of other countries.

"As for the surprise expressed by most of the delegates on being informed of the Russo-German treaty, I do not believe in it at all, as any one who has followed European politics knew the Russians and Germans always work hand in glove, and this treaty is merely tangible proof of their partnership.

"Bolshevism was invented in Berlin, when Germany wanted to punish the Czar and his Government for taking up arms on the side of Germany's enemies. Germany still controls Bolshevism, which she employs from India to Greenland, hoping to succeed in securing revenge for the defeat she suffered in the last war.

"German troops are being organized in Russia, while German airships are being built in Switzerland, Holland and Sweden, even in France. If Mr. Lloyd George's plan is to check the European preponderance of France with the help of the Russians and Germans, he would be doing his country a very poor service, as, after destroying France, the Russo-Germans would turn against England, which is their real enemy, and England would have a poor chance of standing up against them."

WASHINGTON SHOWS NO CONCERN ON TREATY

Officials Minimize the Importance of Genoa Developments to American Interests.

WASHINGTON, April 18 (Associated Press).—Although the American Government is neglecting no opportunity to inform itself of what is happening at Genoa, officials here show no anxiety over the latest developments as far as American interests are concerned.

Upon the highest authority it was said today that in the view of the Administration the new treaty between Russia and Germany meant nothing to the United States. Unless later information convinces them otherwise, President Harding and his advisers, it was said, would accept the treaty at its face value as a financial and peace settlement without sweeping political significance.

On the basis of its present advices this Government is declared to be of the opinion that nothing in the treaty conflicts with the separate peace treaty between the United States and Germany, interferes with American interests in either country or materially alters the status of Russia in the general world situation.

The State Department is said to be firm in its belief that the Soviet régime in Russia could not be recognized, but it is not disposed to question the right of another sovereign power to extend that recognition, nor does it apparently expect that recognition by Germany alone will have any important effect toward giving Bolshevism a real standing in the family of nations.

It is realized, of course, that if the German-Russian rapprochement of Genoa were to become a stepping-stone to an offensive and defensive alliance, a much altered political situation might confront Europe. On that subject, however, no official will speculate beyond making the prediction that no immediate elements of danger are perceptible. The whole tendency of officials is to minimize the importance to the United States of all that has occurred in the Genoa conversations.

"Even Russia's, however, is a barren advantage. Suppose she says to the Allies in effect: 'You ought to modify your demands for the recognition of debts, seeing that Germany has agreed to clean the slate.' Our retort is obvious; Germany might agree to clean the slate because she had nothing else to give; but the Allies will not, because they are in a very different position. They hold in their hands the main possibilities of Russia's economic revival.' Behind this fact the clever Soviet diplomatists cannot go."

The Westminster Gazette says:

"We cannot see that the incident provides any reasonable grounds for dismay on the part of the chief allied Governments or any one else. A definite rapprochement between the Governments of Russia and Germany has been inevitable ever since the armistice. The simple fact is that Germany and Russia are two of the five leading powers of Europe, and the attempt to treat them as pariahs and outcasts, unworthy to take anything but a humble and submissive part in the task of the reconstruction of Europe, was bound to end, if not in disaster, at least in disillusion. Whether the Supreme Council will gain new wisdom from the rather crude and tactless lesson which Rathenau and Tchitcherin have administered remains to be seen; but at any rate it will have to take its head out of the sand.

"It is nonsense, and always was nonsense, to imagine that France and Italy and Britain could maintain successfully and for long the rôle of dictators of Europe. Even the sacred right of a victor must in the long run prove subordinate to the claims of necessity and common sense."

The Daily News says that, considered in the abstract, the treaty is not merely just and reasonable, but as the ultimately inevitable recognition of unchangeable facts, it is a necessary step in the economic restoration of both countries.

"The two grave arguments against the treaty," proceeds The Daily News, "are the manner in which it has been sprung upon the conference and its apparent exclusiveness. The first may merely be stupidity born of rather crass cynicism. The second objection is much more serious; it applies equally to any exclusive agreement between any group of two or three powers. In so far as they are exclusive they are an attack on the spirit which is embodied in the League of Nations and a permanent menace to the peace of the world. It is a crime against humanity, whether it be perpetrated by Germany and Russia or by England and France."

The Daily Mail says:

"Mr. Lloyd George has been duped, and the new brand of British diplomacy has been made to look ridiculous. The Prime Minister was warned that if he fraternized with Bolshevist rogues and criminals he must expect to have his pockets picked."

The Daily Express says:

"Germany has chosen deliberately to cut across the policy of the Allies for the restoration of Europe. For this she will [illegible] account, and [illegible] between her and the Allies [illegible] and the stern demands of France. The Bolshevik have been astute in strengthening their own hand and have lured the usually blundering diplomats of Germany into a trap."

The Morning Post says:

"Lloyd George has been fooled at Genoa. Amid all the uncertainties and obscurities that stands out with damning clearness! Genoa was to be a one-man show. The master was going to dazzle all the delegates and to charm and bind them by that much-advertised round-table conference manner. The sycophants who already had been anticipating at Genoa the glorious progress of their hero must now be feeling somewhat foolish. For the one-man show is over. He promised us a surprise, and it has come with a vengeance, but not from the direction of the Villa Albertis. The Genoa conference has been struck a mortal blow and Lloyd George might as well look to Ireland as to Italy for successful electioneering ticket."

The London Times says: "The worst policy at the present moment would be a policy of weakness,' that was the counsel which the Prime Minister yesterday addressed to the delegates summoned to consider the insult offered the Pan European conference by the German-Bolshevist treaty. It was immediately followed, as a counsel of such character ought to be, by the proposal for prompt and definite action. The immediate preparation and dispatch of a unanimous note to German was urged. His colleagues hearkened to his advice and the text of the note is before use. It is not, however, the original draft. The language of that was so vigorous that it had to be modified on the representation of Signor Facta, who was apprehensive. We are assured that it might have driven the Germans away and so brought the conference to an untimely end."

As regards the decision to exclude the Germans from further representation on diplomatic commission and subcommission No. 1, The London Times says: "They would seem to retain all their other rights and privileges as good and loyal workers in the work of the conference. The decision can only be compared to the action of the Prince in the comic opera which old playgoers may remember, who when complaint was made to him about the ravages of a marauding cow ordered his Prime Minister to 'drop a sharp note to the cow.'

The Bolshevists, apparently, are to escape even from the anodine penalty inflicted on their new allies. Lloyd George has indeed admitted that they are not free from blame, but he has sought throughout to distinguish their case from that of the Germans. Have the Bolshevists not been guilty of the same ingratitude and of the same duplicity? Every one of the charges in the note applies equally to the two accomplices. The Bolshevists were invited to the conference on the same terms as the Germans. The inviting powers had granted Russia the same opportunity for honest co-operation, and she replied to it by joining Germany in the same act for which Germany is so justly rebuked."

'WAIT AND SEE,' POINCARE'S POLICY

be a Cabinet meeting tomorrow, and even that is not certain.

In other words, M. Poincaré prefers to wait and see. Doubtless M. Barthou has received and will continue to receive instructions to take a firm stand, but it is more than doubtful if he will be too uncompromising unless Nationalist pressure overcomes Poincaré's reluctance to break up the conference at a time when France and England are back again, more or less, on the same side of the fence. For the moment, at any rate, there is a tendency toward moderation.

The news of the signing of the Russo-German Treaty struck Paris like a thunderclap. Owing to the Easter holiday, there was practically no editorial comment in this morning's papers, but the headlines showed their sentiment sufficiently. "Easter Bomb for Genoa Conference," or "Genoa Conference Torpedoed," or "German Mine Bursts Suddenly at Genoa"—all these showed French indignation.

But behind this indignation there was little dismay—quite the contrary, in fact. If the first reaction was surprise, the second was certainly: "We told you so; what sane man would have thought that you could trust the Bolsheviki? While, as for Germany—anyway, France knows what the Germans are, even if the rest of the world is too blinded by its own selfish interests and by German propaganda to remember."

Still a third reaction, especially in Government and Nationalist circles, was satisfaction. On the one hand the new treaty is undoubtedly a slap in the face for Premier Lloyd George; on the other it lets France—that is, the present French Government—out of an unpleasantly tight place.

Two days had passed France felt that she was isolated in the face of an unsympathetic world. She realized that Tchitcherin had put Barthou in the wrong at the very outset and that the conference she had disliked from the beginning was proving fully as disagreeable as she had expected.

Today on the contrary, neither England nor America can fail, the French think, to realize the danger of a Russo-German alliance.

"Your [illegible] was perhaps not directly [illegible] by the [illegible] Genoa and European or world politics, we can but feel that the new treaty has given a new lease of life to the Nationalist bloc.

That the Russians should sign such an agreement is comprehensible. They have everything to gain and nothing to lose. But Germany, if only she knew it, is playing into the hands of the French military party, to whom she has given a war-cry which is beyond their wildest hopes."

Small wonder, therefore, that L'Action Française, which from the beginning has bitterly opposed French participation in the Genoa conference, prints in large type on its first page: "Private agreement signed at Genoa between Boches and Bolsheviki. When does M. Barthou take the train for Paris?"

five years with blood and tears. They must not have been in vain."

The Vossiche Zeitung's chief editor, Georg Bernhard, who is a member of the German delegation, telephones from Genoa:

"It is to be hoped that after the first astonishment is past the French will see a Russo-German treaty as a bridge to Russia which will be at their disposal, too."

Theodor Wolff, chief editor of the Tageblatt, telephones from Genoa:

"Now that Germany has come to an understanding with Russia, the other powers will want to do likewise. The treaty, therefore, serves as a conference idea and a European idea. The leaders of the German delegation looked after Germany's interests, as was their right."

The Centre Party Organ, Germania, hopes that "after the first excitement in Genoa subsides the conference members will give the treaty quiet, sober, matter-of-fact examination," and that they will take no umbrage at it.

Called a Big Gamble.

The nationalistic Lokal-Anzeiger expresses the mixed feelings of the reactionaries, saying:

"That the treaty was concluded just at this time and in close proximity to Genoa testifies to a will for an active policy which has been missed in the German governments of recent years. This is an act of will calculated to exert a determining influence on the course of the conference. But does this treaty justify giving up or jeopardising the relatively favorable position which our delegation enjoyed at Genoa? Moreover, Germany's unlimited concessions have a very real content, while Russia's waiving of Article 116 of the Versailles Treaty possesses no practical importance.

"Everything stamps the signing of the treaty as a gamble of the first magnitude. If the game succeeds, Wirth and Rathenau will have secured trumps which cannot be outtrumped and they might well boast of extraordinary success. If the game fails, even their best friends will not know what to say about this kind of statesmanship."

Versailles Treaty Violation Denied.

BERLIN, April 18 (Associated Press).—No violation of the Versailles treaty is implied in the Russo-German treaty, in the opinion of the Berlin newspapers, among them the Kreuz-Zeitung, which declares:

"Germany is an independent State, which is not prevented by any provision of the treaty from entering into treaties with other powers, especially a pact like that now concluded, which is no violation of the notorious Article 116."

The Bourse Gazette believes that an attempt to forestall the treaty through the application of Article 116 has been definitely defeated. It looks upon this as one of the chief accomplishments of the Russo-German treaty, which, it asserts, is primarily a German-German affair, even if the Versailles treaty is referred to in it.

The ultra-conservative Tägliche Rundschau hails the treaty as a belated achievement in German foreign politics. It professes to see in the recent improvement in the mark in Wall Street American approval of Germany and Russia.

Vorwärts suggests that the same result might have been achieved a bit later without complicating the foreign situation.

The Frankfort Gazette declares that the treaty signifies progress in the task of rehabilitating Europe and might even prove to be a cornerstone, although it, too, suggests that tactically it would have been better if [illegible] was completed before [illegible] was called to order.

Weekly Sailings to Liverpool

Headed by the famous 24,541-ton Adriatic, formerly with the Olympic in the Cherbourg-Southampton route, four splendid liners are operated by the White Star Line in the service from New York to Liverpool, calling at Queenstown.

The others are the Baltic (23,800 tons); the Cedric (21,000 tons) and the Celtic (21,000 tons).

These ships maintain a regular schedule of Saturday sailings. Aboard them the traveler enjoys a standard of comfort provided by the same experienced White Star service which has made the international reputation of the Olympic and which today obtains as well on the magnificent Homeric and the world's largest ship, Majestic.

You land in the greatest gateway to English travel near the Welsh Mountains, the Shakespeare Country, the famous English Lake District and Scotland.

Early sailing dates:

Cedric—April 22, May 20. Baltic—May 13, June 10.

WORLD MEETING ADVISED

Common Action for Return to the Gold Standard Held to Be Urgent Need.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENOA, April 18.—That the United States Chamber of Commerce be asked to take a hand in the reconstruction of international commerce is one recommendation of the Experts' Commission to the Financial Subcommission of the Genoa Conference.

The commission reports that in its opinion a world conference of experts, including representatives from the United States and South America, ought to meet as soon as possible "to examine the situation and indicate, in case they recognize the necessity and advantage of a combined action, the countries which have need of assistance, those which ought to have it and the general conditions under which this assistance ought to be granted."

Russia is excluded from the countries which would figure at the conference. The ground of this exclusion is presumably that she is on a different plane from the others.

World Action Held to Be Needed.

Added to the recommendation for holding a conference of experts is a long explanation of the reasons for believing it necessary. The commission takes from the start a gloomy view and indicates that the victors as well as the vanquished in war are being so crushed by the burden of taxation and difficult trade, owing to the depreciation of money, that it is impossible to deal with any country or any group of countries separately, but that the interests of the whole world are involved and the world must take part in making any attempt to escape from the present vicious circle of increased cost and depreciation of money.

In outline the experts indicate some principles to be followed. These include loans by countries whose commercial balance and exchange are favorable. The loans, it is proposed, are to be for long terms, limited strictly to the needs of the countries whose production it is sought to revive and on conditions which will put the national and international trade of these countries outside the restrictive control of Governments. First mortgage privileges ought to be granted by the borrowing States to the lenders, it is urged, the guarantees to include in the cases of Germany and the new States a special claim on export and import revenues.

The subcommission to which this report has been presented will, it is expected, call a world conference for the early Summer in Paris or London, unless some other centre is suggested.

Eleven Resolutions Framed.

In a further report, the experts set forth in eleven resolutions with annexes their findings on the actual monetary situation in Europe and their recommendations for reforms. These resolutions stipulate:

First—That an essential condition of the economic reconstruction of Europe is that each country shall stabilize the value of its money.

Second—That all emission banks be removed from political influence and that where central emission banks do not exist they should be established.

Third—That constant co-operation between the central banks should be encouraged and that a meeting of representatives of the central banks, not necessarily confined to Europe, be held as soon as possible with this aim.

Fourth—That all European money should be based on a common standard.

Fifth—That this standard should be gold.

Sixth—That all European Governments should declare forthwith that the establishment of the gold standard is their final aim, and should show how they propose to achieve this aim.

Seventh—For this purpose budgets must be balanced and the only effective way is by a reduction of expenditure. In the cases of countries with large foreign debts, loans will have to be made.

Eighth—Each country must consider and decide whether to maintain the old parity or adopt a new parity near the present exchange value of its monetary unit.

Ninth—An international convention must be concluded to maintain the gold standard, each country's object in this convention being to centralize and coordinate the demand for gold and prevent fluctuation in prices. Economy in the use of gold is advocated by means of a system of international compensations.

Tenth—It is not essential that all States even in Europe should participate in this convention, but no program having for its object the stabilization of monetary units can be fruitful if Europe does not establish in concert with the United States the measures to be taken, and the United States must be invited to collaborate.

Eleventh—A basis is outlined for the proposed international conference.

SEES GERMAN ERROR ONE OF PROCEDURE

Was Not in Making Treaty but Failing to Consult Conference, Observer Says.

By HERBERT SIDEBOTHAM.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENOA, April 18.—Strong children are said to have measles worst, and by analogy this conference must be a very strong child. The present attack seemed likely to be mortal last night.

"What would you think about it if you were a Frenchman?" said a British delegate to me this morning. "The French came here reluctantly and protested that the Russians and Germans would be up to mischief, and now Russia and Germany are seen working together. We feel we have been let down, but to the Frenchman the idea of a Russo-German combination is as terrible as the last trump."

I give his words in fairness because I have so often had to criticise the French. A separate Russo-German combination would be as fatal to European unity as would be a separate combination between France and Russia against Germany, which one sometimes hears talked about here, or a Franco-German combination directed against Britain. We want to get rid of a diplomacy which divides the European powers into two opposing sides and plays a game of chess with human lives and fortunes for pawns. Genoa has to erase this stain on the escutcheon of democracy.

One often hears it said that the British knew about the negotiations between Russia and Germany. The fact is that the news that the treaty had been concluded came as a complete surprise to Mr. Lloyd George yesterday and made him very angry.

Blunder of First Magnitude.

It was known that Russia and Germany had been negotiating for some months and known, too, that they were having conversations with a view to an agreement being reached. Had they reached an understanding and submitted it to the conference for its approval before signing it as a treaty little harm would have been done. But to face the conference suddenly with the accomplished fact was a blunder of the first magnitude and is justifiably regarded as an act of disloyalty both to the centre idea of European unity and to the Cannes resolutions.

One of those resolutions provides for compensation for damaged property, and indeed, as M. Litvinoff admitted to me yesterday, it is on that principle that Russia herself relies on making her own demands for compensation for war damage. But the clause of the Russo-German treaty waiving these demands for damaged or confiscated property is irreconcilable with the Cannes conditions which Germany accepted when she came to the conference.

I am satisfied that Germany did not act from ill will, but is now as before merely clumsy and heavy-footed in her diplomacy. She was undoubtedly piqued by her exclusion from the negotiations with Russia over debts, and stories of a violent quarrel between Lloyd George and the Russians last week undoubtedly came from German—and French—sources. She may have wanted to show what a fine job she could make of it and to get Lloyd George out of step with the French and in step with the German. If so, it was a strange miscalculation.

I hear from German sources that it was the Russians who insisted on their agreement being signed in treaty form. It is the old and weak excuse, "The serpent gave it to me and I did eat." But I hear a circumstantial story that the Germans twice tried to get through on the telephone to a British high official in order to get his views on the conclusion of the treaty and failed. I hope I am not being rude to our admirable Italian hosts, but from my own experience of Italian telephones I am quite prepared to believe that everybody failed to get through to anybody on them.

French More Calm Than Expected.

The five powers have been in consultation all day about the treaty and M. Barthou has presumably moved his resolution that the Germans be no longer heard. That would mean the break up of the conference and it would be a disaster if it were carried. The French have taken the incident rather more quietly than I expected. I hear a story about a telephone quarrel between M. Poincaré and M. Barthou which if not historically true may express the logic of the situation.

Poincaré to Barthou—"Why don't you pack up your traps and come home?"

Barthou—"I'm not a plenipotentiary and cannot act alone. But if you give me orders to come home I'll be delighted."

Br-r-r-r!

The truth is that the hopes of the conference have been fixed so high and been seen to be so fair and so popular that no one would take the responsibility of breaking it. Besides, the French would be delighted to drive a wedge between England and Germany, which they could not do if they were to break up the conference. Moreover a break up would confirm and give dangerous point to the new Russo-German combination.

I hear that a new committee of experts agrees with the German contention that exchange cannot be stabilized without the balancing of budgets nor budgets balanced without taking reparations and foreign debts into account. This reinforcement of the German amendments to which I alluded in a recent message increased the astonishment that Germans should have risked so much in concluding a Russian treaty for so little apparent gain.

SHIP BOARD VESSELS NAMED FOR PRESIDENTS

All Except Four Chief Executives Honored Under New Nomenclature for Liners.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The United States Shipping Board announced today that it had adopted a new nomenclature for the passenger liners owned by the board, which have been named for Presidents of the United States. Heretofore the nomenclature has followed the popular names of States.

Up to date, according to a list furnished by the Shipping Board, all the Presidents have been honored except John Tyler, Millard Fillmore, James Buchanan and Andrew Johnson. Their names were skipped in making up the list, but it was said at the offices of the board that they would be honored when new liners come into service. The two Adamses, John and his son, John Quincy, and the two Harrisons, William Henry and his grandson, Benjamin, will not have a vessel each named in their honor. There will be one President Adams and one President Harrison.

Tyler, Fillmore and Johnson were Vice Presidents who succeeded Presidents William Henry Harrison, Zachary Taylor and Abraham Lincoln, all of whom died in office. Buchanan was elected President. Why they were skipped in the initial renaming was not explained.

Following is the list of liners renamed up to date:

| Old Name. | New Name. |
|---|---|
| Blue Hen State | President Garfield |
| Centennial State | President Adams |
| Granite State | President Polk |
| Old North State | President Van Buren |
| Panhandle State | President Monroe |
| Creole State | President Hayes |
| Wolverine State | President Harrison |
| Buckeye State | President Roosevelt |
| Hawkeye State | President Wilson |
| Bay State | President Madison |
| Keystone State | President McKinley |
| Pine Tree State | President Grant |
| Silver State | President Jackson |
| Wenatchee | President Jefferson |
| Lone Star State | President Taft |
| Peninsular State | President Pierce |
| Empire State | President Cleveland |
| Golden State | President Taylor |
| Hoosier State | President Lincoln |
| Leviathan | President Harding |
| Princess Matoika | President Arthur |

SEIZE TOMBSTONE FOR DEBT

Unpaid Stone Cutters to Sell Monument at Public Auction.

For the first time in New York State it has been decided that a tombstone located on a plot in a cemetery can be seized for an unpaid balance on the stone and can be sold at auction to satisfy the debt. The decision was handed down yesterday in the Queens Supreme Court by Justice John C. MacCrate, in favor of Tedeschi & Tedeschi Company, monument makers of 632-636 Boulevard, Long Island City, against Joseph Brandi of 329 Third Avenue, this city.

Brandi contracted for a monument on a plot in Calvary Cemetery, paying $475 and leaving a balance of $775. His father, mother and two sisters were buried in the plot.

When Brandi failed to pay the instalments on the monument the Tedeschi firm sued, obtaining service by publication and filing a lien on the monument. After hearing evidence Justice MacCrate gave judgment for the plaintiff and granted permission to sell the tombstone.

"We intend to hold an auction," said a member of the Tedeschi firm. "Our attorney is now arranging for the sale."

Pennsylvanians Re-elect Schwab.

Charles M. Schwab was re-elected President of the Pennsylvania Society at its meeting and luncheon in the Bankers' Club yesterday. Other officers chosen were Thomas E. Kirby, John Markle, Joshua H. Hatfield and Moorhead C. Kennedy, Vice Presidents; the Right Rev. Thomas J. Garland, Chaplain; William Guggenheim, Treasurer, and Bart Ferree, Secretary. The Rev. Dr. Samuel G. Trexler, a former chaplain in the A. E. F., spoke, and Robert Underwood Johnson, former Ambassador to Italy, read a short poem of his own writing entitled, "To One Who Despaired of the Republic."

Tar and Feather California Editor.

OAKLAND, Cal., April 18.—Philip Riley, editor of The Free Press, a local weekly publication, was seized by three men late last night, taken into the hills and tarred and feathered.

ALLIES ASK MORGAN TO ADVISE ON LOAN

American Banker Invited to Sit on Board to Consider Advance to Germany.

MEETING IN PARIS APRIL 30

Important Developments for American Finance and Government Policy May Follow.

PARIS, April 18 (Associated Press).—The Allied Reparation Commission, it was announced today, has asked J. P. Morgan & Co. to accept membership on the financial subcommission which will convene in Paris on April 30 to consider the possibility of floating an international loan for Germany.

The Reparation Commission, it is stated, is particularly anxious to have J. P. Morgan act personally, but would welcome any member of his firm whom he should designate.

The subcommission as now made up is composed of former Premier Delacroix of Belgium, Chairman; Signor Damelio of Italy, Vice Chairman; Karl Bergmann, Germany; Sir Robert Kindersley, Great Britain; Charles Sergent, France; Dr. G. Vissering, Holland.

Washington Expects to Be Consulted.

WASHINGTON, April 18 (Associated Press).—The request of the Allied Reparation Commission for co-operation of the American banking house of J. P. Morgan & Co. in considering an international loan to Germany may lead to important decisions both by American bankers and the American Government in regard to the general scheme of Germany rehabilitation.

Although the Morgan firm, if it accepts membership on the financial subcommission at Paris, presumably would be vested with no power to commit in any way the United States Government, officials here, it is believed, undoubtedly would be closely in touch with the problem under discussion and would make their influence felt in the ultimate rehabilitation plan.

On the specific question of a loan to Germany the American State Department never has indicated its attitude, nor were officials willing to discuss the subject tonight, in the absence of official information. There has been apparent no disposition, however, to place obstacles in the way of the suggested formation of an international consortium of bankers for floating such a loan as a private investment, wholly independent of governmental participation.

Regarding the broader proposition of foreign loans generally, the department has taken the position repeatedly that such proposals should in all cases be submitted to Washington before consummation. In a formal department statement issued on March 3 last the undesirability of throwing foreign securities on the market promiscuously was discussed in detail, and the attitude of the department was summed up in this way:

"The Department of State cannot, of course, require American bankers to consult it, but it will not pass upon the merits of foreign loans as business propositions nor assume any responsibility whatever in connection with loan transactions. Offers for foreign loans should not, therefore, state or imply that they are contingent upon an expression from the Department of State regarding them nor should any prospectus or contract refer to the attitude of this Government.

"The department believes that in view of the possible national interests involved it should have the opportunity of saying to the underwriters concerned, should it appear advisable to do so, that there is or is not objection to any particular issue."

In view of this attitude, the expectation here is that the Morgan firm will communicate soon with the department, should there be any intention of participating in the Paris subcommission proceedings. The first decision, however, must rest with the firm itself, and officials indicated tonight that they would reserve their advice until it was requested.

J. P. Morgan, when questioned yesterday afternoon, said he had not yet received any invitation from the Reparations Commission to advise on the proposed international loan for Germany. He did not intimate what his probable course might be in the event of such a development.

Thomas W. Lamont, a member of the firm, is now in Paris, but his trip has to do entirely with conferring with foreign interests regarding Mexico, it was explained.

AUTO'S GAS KILLS TEACHER.

D. C. MacIntire of Newtown High School Dies in Garage.

Donald C. MacIntire, teacher of agriculture in Newtown High School at Elmhurst, L. I., was found dead beside his automobile in a garage yesterday. An autopsy disclosed that death had been caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. His death from poisonous exhaust gases in a confined room recalled several similar accidents, the victim of one of which was Nat Wells, the comedian.

Mr. MacIntire kept his automobile in a garage at the rear of the home of Mrs. Margaret Coughlin at 35 Maurice Avenue, Elmhurst. She saw him enter the garage last Saturday morning. He had on a soiled suit that he used when working on the car. For a time afterward Mrs. Coughlin heard the engine of the automobile running.

Yesterday about noon Mrs. Coughlin opened the garage, and was startled to see the man's body on the floor. She gave an alarm. MacIntire apparently had been dead for several days. Near him were tools he had been using, and apparently the engine had run until the fuel was exhausted.

MacIntire was a graduate of the University of Maine, and was assigned temporarily as a teacher in the Newtown High School two years ago. His wife and one child live in Biddeford, Me., and MacIntire had intended to bring them to Elmhurst soon.

At the Newtown High School it was said that MacIntire was a very competent instructor. He was active in local affairs and in several Masonic organizations. His body will be sent to the home of his parents, in Biddeford, Me.

ROBBED OF $200,000 GEMS.

Part of Loot Taken on Train From New York Salesman Is Found.

Special to The New York Times.

RICHMOND, Va., April 18.—Sidney Palmer, a negro, was held today at Lynchburg on the charge of stealing a grip containing more than $100,000 worth of diamonds from David Stocker, salesman for the jewelry house of Samuel Koshers, 10 Kenmare Street, New York City. Gems valued at $34,900 were recovered. It was said that jewels valued at $76,000 were still missing.

Stocker, who was on his way South on a business trip, did not miss the bag until he reached Abingdon, near Bristol. Upon learning of the arrest of the negro at Lynchburg, he returned to that city from Abingdon on the first train.

It appears that the thief after stealing the bag boarded another train and abandoned the bag after rifling it of its contents. Stocker was traveling in a parlor car and is said to have been asleep at the time of the theft.

MIGHT SUSPECT LANDLORD.

Goldfogle Doubts If Any Will Ask Increased Assessment on Property.

Henry M. Goldfogle, President of the Board of Taxes and Assessments, yesterday, scouted the idea that landlords, because one of the recent housing laws makes the assessed value of property the basis for fixing a fair rent, would apply for increased assessment valuations.

"Assessments will be based upon the market value and any landlord who would come to us with a plea for increased assessment would be looked on with great suspicion," he said. "We certainly would not increase assessments at the request of the landlord even though it would mean a greater return to the city in taxes."

Doctors Seek $12,000 Carnegie Gift.

The New York Association for Medical Education has issued an appeal to physicians to subscribe $3,000 in order to receive a gift of $12,000 from the Carnegie Corporation conditioned on the former amount being raised. In its appeal the association points out that the organization aims to make New York a progressive medical centre by co-ordinating existing institutions and organizations so that men all over the country may be attracted by the opportunities here for studying medicine. The committee in charge is composed of Drs. Haven Emerson, James F. McKernon, Otto V. Huffman and George W. Kosmak.

Slayer of Sister Freed.

FREEHOLD, N. J., April 18.—Mrs. Herminie Renzelman was acquitted this evening of the murder of her sister, Miss Gesine Wessels, at the Renzelman home, in West Long Branch, on Jan. 15. The jury was out only thirty minutes. Mrs. Renzelman went on trial this morning before Supreme Court Justice Kalisch and a jury.

The jury returned its verdict at 6 o'clock, finding Mrs. Renzelman "not guilty because of temporary insanity at the time of the shooting."

Joffre to Sail on April 29.

Marshal Joffre will sail on April 29 aboard the White tar liner Celtic for Liverpool, accompanied by his wife and daughter, four staff officers and Samuel Hill, brother of the late James J. Hill, builder of the Northern Pacific Railroad, whose guest he has been on the coast. After attending some official functions in London the Marshal will leave for Paris via Dover and Calais.

of Chicago, who was born in Germany, and her first husband was a man named Hyllested of Chicago, whom she divorced on the ground of desertion in 1908.

Mr. Burton was well known in society. He was the son of John and Lucia Clark Burton, and his father left him real estate, including property at Fifth Avenue and Thirty-eighth Street, which originally was his father's farm. Mr. Burton built the Lord & Taylor Building on this site, and owned a one-half interest in the building, which he conveyed to his children in 1920. He was the founder and senior member of the firm of Burton Brothers & Co., converters of cotton goods, 267-9 Fifth Avenue, being one of the largest cotton traders in the country, as well as a prominent real estate trader. He was a member of many clubs, including the Metropolitan, Union League, Racquet and Tennis, Riding and Jockey.

His first wife was Katharine Van Duzer, daughter of Leiah Van Duzer of Newburgh. She died in 1913, leaving five children—Frank V. Burton Jr., 30, and Van Duzer, 26, both members of the firm; Mrs. Owen Johnson, wife of the novelist; Mrs. Morgan Wing of Millbrook, N. Y., and Mrs. Walter B. Eaton of Cedarhurst, L. I.

Married Second Wife in 1919.

According to statements made in the papers filed by the executors, Mr. Burton married his second wife in St. George's Church in Stuyvesant Square in November, 1919, and left her in July, 1920.

In telling of the discovery of the letters, the answer says that after the final separation Mrs. Burton made such serious threats against her husband and his children that he made an investigation into her previous life and record.

"In the course of his investigation," the answer says, "decedent opened one of the trunks, and found some two hundred odd letters directed to petitioner. Twelve of these letters were attached to the answer as exhibits.

Two of the letters submitted as exhibits are alleged to have been written by Sam M. Power. One was dated March 17, 1913, at St. James Place, S. W. A second was undated, but bore the address, "2 Ryder Street, St. James, S. W."

"Dear Clare," read the copy of one of them submitted as Exhibit B. "I cannot be too formal to you, so begin my note as you said I might. I send you the little naughty verses and definitions which I repeated last night and which you were so anxious to have."

A copy of the verses was also submitted.

Exhibit D is a copy of a letter alleged to have been written to Mrs. Hyllested in Paris by Major Fritz Brinck of the German Army, dated Oct. 18, 1913. The writer is quoted as saying in part: "The scenes and insults have upset me so that I must ask you not to look upon me as a friend any more, and I fear your threat to inform my wife of what has happened would cause the unhappiness of an innocent and good person. I, therefore, beg you to be generous and allow me to send you a remembrance of 2,500 francs, and to send you a Christmas present of another 2,500 francs."

Several letters offered are alleged to deal with Gustav Phillip, German polish manufacturer. Exhibit L, the executors say, is a letter in the petitioner's handwriting, addressed to Gustave, dated the Hotel Hauffe, Leipsig, Nov. 2, 1912. It said in part:

"Think, dear Gustav, I idolized you, believed that your love and promise to marry me to be the word of a man of honor. If the world knew how heartless and without conscience you treat me you wouldn't have the respect of the lowest person. You have played with my life and ruined it."

"It appears from the correspondence," the answer of the executors says, "that the said Gustav Phillip was not willing to marry the petitioner, and that petitioner, after some correspondence with the said Phillip, brought two actions in the courts of Germany against Phillip, one for breach of promise and one for an alleged insult."

A copy of Mr. Burton's will, dated March 2, 1921, states that he married Claire Louise Hyllested on Nov. 20, 1919, and made ample provision for her support before the marriage.

$484,000,000 DEFICIT FORECAST BY MELLON

estimates are based on the actual results of the first nine months, with the Treasury's estimates as to receipts, for the last quarter of the year, and, as to expenditures, with the latest figures received by the Bureau of the Budget from the several departments and establishments as to estimated expenditures for the fiscal year.

The estimates as to the fiscal year 1923 are based on the estimates which appear in the budget submitted in December, 1921, after taking into account, first, an indicated shrinkage in internal revenue collections of about $215,000,000; second, an estimated falling off of about $25,000,000 in Federal Reserve Bank franchise tax receipts; third, estimated additional miscellaneous revenue of about $200,000,000 on account of payment of interest by the British Government; fourth, estimated collections by the War Finance Corporation of about $100,000,000; and, fifth, estimated additional expenditures on account of the railroads to the amount of about $200,000,000.

The budget for 1923, as submitted to Congress, did not include any item of expenditure on account of railroads, but the indications now are that, owing to delayed settlements of matters arising out of Federal control and under the guaranty for the six months following Federal control, there will be payments of about $100,000,000 under the Railroad Administration and about $100,000,000 under the Interstate Commerce Commission during the fiscal year 1923.

The postponement of these payments to 1923 is, of course, reflected in a corresponding reduction of railroad expenses for the fiscal year 1922, and partly on this account and partly on account of the proceeds of sale of about $230,000,000 of equipment trust notes of carriers, the item of railroad expenditures in the enclosed statement of estimated receipts and expenditures for 1922 shows an estimated credit of about $56,000,000, as compared with estimated expenditures of about $337,000,000 when the budget was submitted.

This shift in the situation as to railroad expenditures is offset in part by withdrawals of about $190,000,000 by the War Finance Corporation during the fiscal year, but the net result is an indicated surplus of receipts over expenditures in the fiscal year 1922, with an indicated deficit in a corresponding larger amount for the fiscal year 1923.

Deficit Turned Into Surplus.

It appears from the estimates for 1922 that there should be an excess of receipts over expenditures of about $47,000,000, as compared with an indicated deficit when the budget was submitted of about $24,468,703. For the fiscal year 1923 the statement submitted shows an indicated deficit of about $359,000,000, as compared with an indicated deficit when the budget was submitted of $167,571,977. The budget figures, moreover, did not take into account $125,000,000 of accumulated interest on War Savings Certificates of the series of 1918, and, as explained in the footnote to the estimates for 1923, this item properly represents interest on the public debt and will appear as an ordinary expenditure. If this accumulated interest is taken into account, the indicated deficit on the basis of the figures now available would be $484,000,000 instead of $359,000,000, and the budget deficit would have been $202,000,000 instead of the $167,000,000 indicated in the budget as submitted.

Many of the important appropriation bills for the fiscal year 1923 have not yet been enacted into law and it is, therefore, impossible to estimate with precision the probable expenditures for that year. The figures given do, however, show the latest estimates available, and, as far as possible, have been checked by the Treasury with the departments and establishments concerned.

There are also uncertainties in the 1923 figures from the point of view of receipts. The Treasury has not, for example, had any official notification that interest will be paid in that year on the British obligations held by the United States, though there have been several official announcements in Great Britain of an intention to include that item of expenditure in the British budget for the current financial year.

The estimates do not take into account any expenditures which may be made during the fiscal year 1923 under the proposed ship subsidy legislation, if it should be enacted into law, nor do they allow for any expenditures on account of rivers and harbors, public buildings or good roads, beyond what is already authorized by existing law or under the regular annual appropriations.

Very truly yours,
A. W. MELLON, Secretary.

Estimated Receipts.

In the table of expenditures and receipts for the fiscal year 1922, Secretary Mellon places customs receipts at $330,000,000, income and profits taxes at $2,089,000,000, miscellaneous internal revenue at $1,126,000,000 and other miscellaneous revenue at $450,000,000, a total of ordinary receipts of $3,994,000,000.

Ordinary civil expenditures, exclusive of war and navy, are put at $345,000,000; War Department, $389,000,000; Navy Department, $468,000,000; veterans' relief $477,000,000; fixed debt charges, including interest on public debt of $1,000,000,000 chargeable against ordinary receipts, $1,423,000,000; War Finance Corporation, $190,000,000.

These are the more important expenditures. The total net expenditures are $3,947,000,000 and the excess of receipts over expenditures, $47,000,000.

For the fiscal year 1923 customs receipts are placed at $330,000,000, as in 1922; income and profits taxes, $1,500,000,000; miscellaneous internal revenue, $896,000,000, and other miscellaneous revenue, including $200,000,000 interest from Great Britain, at $572,000,000, giving a total of ordinary receipts of $3,296,000,000.

Ordinary civil expenditures for 1923, exclusive of War and Navy Departments, are put at $341,000,000; War Department, $370,000,000; Navy, $400,000,000; veterans' relief, $800,000,000; railroads, $200,000,000; roads, good, $125,000,000; fixed debt charges, including $975,000,000 interest on public debt, chargeable against ordinary receipts, $1,300,000,000. These are the principal items of expenditure for 1923. A special credit is allowed for $100,000,000 to be returned by the War Finance Corporation. The estimated net expenditures are $3,657,000,000 and the excess of expenditures over receipts $359,000,000.

TWO 'YOUNG TURKS' MURDERED IN BERLIN

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, April 18.—The criminal police today arrested fifteen Armenians in a big round-up, seeking to destroy what is alleged to be a secret murder organization whose headquarters, the Berlin police say, is in America, whence the Berlin branch is financed. This activity results from a double political murder committed early this morning of which two young Turks were the victims. They were Djemal Azmy Bey, former Governor General of Trebizond, and Baha Eddin Chakir, a prominent member of the Pro-German Committee of Union and Progress.

They were returning with their wives and children, as well as the widow of Talaat Pasha, who was murdered here last year, and other Turkish friends from a gathering at a fellow Turk's house. They were passing through Uhlandstrasse, a fashionable residential street, when two slim, undersized, swarthy men lurking in a doorway rushed out, thrust the women aside and fired several rounds pointblank at the two objects of their vengeance and made their escape under cover of revolver fire which was directed at the Turkish party by confederates across the street.

The murders caused great excitement in the whole section. Coming so soon after the murder of the Russian, Nabokov, they were the news sensation of Berlin today.

In view of the political character of the murders, the police have offered the unusually large reward of 50,000 marks for the apprehension of the assassins.

Prominent members of Berlin's large Turkish colony have long been living in fear of their lives. Several weeks ago they appealed to the police for protection and special measures were taken to safeguard them. One Turk who was politically active in Turkey and Armenia during the war said that he and his friends had frequently received anonymous threatening letters and expressed the fatalistic belief that he, too, would be killed by Armenian avengers in the near future.

BRIDAL PAIR NEARLY STARVE

Policeman Finds Them Penniless and Feeds Them.

Hungry and destitute and with no home, Martin Stanaway, 21, and his bride of two months, Regina Stanaway, stopped Policeman George Stocker of the Poplar Street Station at Myrtle Avenue and Bridge Street, Brooklyn, yesterday morning at 2 o'clock and begged to be taken to the station house. "We have no money and no place to sleep," Stanaway said. "We can't stand it any longer."

Policeman Stocker bought them a meal in a nearby restaurant and then took them to the station house, where Stanaway told how they had come to New York two weeks ago from Jersey City, lived in a $5 a week furnished room until they became penniless a week ago, and then had ridden up and down Manhattan in the subways, sleeping in the stations or where they could. "I think that all last week we had only two square meals," said the young husband. His wife tried to obtain work in a restaurant, he said, but she was too weak to work.

Later in the day yesterday the couple were arraigned before Magistrate Liota in the Adams Street Court and pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy. The Magistrate remanded them to jail and delayed sentence pending an investigation of their case. The court clerks took up a collection for the couple.

SEEKS TO FIND $468,000 MISSING FROM BANK

Chicago State's Attorney Examines Former Official — Directors Make Up All but $25,000.

CHICAGO, April 18.—Investigation of an alleged shortage of $468,000 in the funds of the Milwaukee-Irving State Bank here by the State Attorney's office today resulted in the examination of former officials and a statement that evidence gathered would be submitted to the Grand Jury. The deficit, except $25,000, has been made good by the Directors, according to Edgar Jonas, Assistant State's Attorney, and the $25,000 will be posted when arrangements can be made with a surety company.

Officials of the institution today said that its condition was sound and that the State Attorney's office was trying to fix the blame.

H. W. Anderson, former cashier, appeared voluntarily. According to Mr. Jonas, A. H. Sporleder, former President, and Everett R. Peacock, former President and Chairman of the Board of Directors, are to be examined.

According to the investigators, the missing money has never been located. A woman, said to be a relative of one of the former officers, is to be examined, it was asserted. The shortage, according to officials, was discovered last October, and the Directors immediately started to make up the deficit.

WU PEI-FU MOVES NORTH.

Seizes Japanese Cotton Mills in China for Garrison Purposes.

PEKING, April 18 (Associated Press).—General Wu Pei-fu is apparently moving northward the entire army he has recently been concentrating rapidly in Central China. He has seized Japanese cotton mills for garrison purposes in the vicinity of his mobilization centre, the junction of the Yellow River and the Peking-Hankow railroad, according to reports made today by American gunboats on the Yang-tse-kiang to the legation here. Traffic on the Peking-Hankow line remains open, but the southbound trains are passing into the possession of Wu Pei-fu. Travelers from Shanghai over the Peking-Suchow railroad report the trains filled with troops, northward bound. So far there has been no conflict of any kind.

The announcement of the alliance between General Chang Tsao-lin, Governor of Manchuria, and Sun Yat-sen, head of the South Chinese Government, seems to have had a reassuring effect here. The hope is expressed in many quarters that it will cause Wu Pei-fu, sandwiched between the north and the south, to seek a compromise and support the program for a new Government, the revision of the Constitution, the summoning of Parliament and the election of a President acceptable to all factions through the holding of a national convention.

President Hsu Shih-chang declared today that he was exerting every effort to avert civil war. His great desire, he said, was to see the armies disbanded, immediate reforms instituted, and the good-will of the foreign powers assured, especially in view of the results of the recent Washington conference.

The population of Peking remains tranquil, the only evidence of excitement being runs on two of the Chinese banks.

HEARING ON CITY SHORTAGE.

Grand Jury Questions Jersey Officials About Water Accounts.

Indictments are reported to have been found by the Grand Jury of Hudson County in the case of the alleged shortage of $76,000 in the Jersey City Water Department. The Grand Jury yesterday afternoon heard a number of witnesses, among them City Commissioner Michael I. Fagen and the accountant who went over the books of the department.

Charles K. Hart, register of the Water Department, was suspended when the alleged shortage was discovered.

justices of the Supreme Court to take the places of Justices Brown and Martin during May and June.

The District Attorney also announced the promotion of Assistant District Attorney Albert Blogg Unger to be a first assistant, with an increase in salary from $7,500 to $10,000 a year. Mr. Unger will act as trial prosecutor in Part II. of General Sessions. At the same time the District Attorney appointed Max Salomon, formerly an assistant Corporation Counsel, to Mr. Unger's old post at a salary of $7,500. Mr. Salomon resides at 1,980 Seventh Avenue.

Judge McIntyre presided at the arraignment of the four men on the murder indictments. After he had sentenced the slayer of the Madison Street jeweler, Peter Masterson, 24, of 57 East 130th Street, after a jury had been selected to try him for the murder of John Clark, a negro, of 907 Southern Boulevard, the Bronx, pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the second degree. He was remanded for sentence on April 25.

Salvatore de Aiello, 24, a chauffeur, 73 Spring Street, then pleaded guilty to assault in the first degree in connection with the death of Joseph Marrone, 25, of 196 Mott Street, whom de Aiello admitted he shot in the knee in front of 5 Spring Street on Feb. 26 last. He was remanded for sentence in a few days.

A manslaughter charge against Peter Meresgtino, 27, a chauffeur, of 2,864 Eighth Avenue, was dropped when the Assistant District Attorney said that investigation of the killing of Thomas Meehan by a motor truck driven by Meresgtino revealed that the chauffeur was not criminally negligent. Meresgtino pleaded guilty to violation of the highway law and was remanded for sentence.

Bandit Faces Forty-Year Term.

Samuel Scott of 11 East 131st Street was found guilty by a jury in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court on an indictment charging robbery in the first degree as a second offender. His victim was J. L. Hoffman, a Deputy United States Marshal, of 13 East 110th Street. Judge Finch remanded Scott to the Tombs until April 25. The maximum penalty is forty years.

Hoffman testified that Scott and William Junior, 11 East 131st Street, robbed him of two pistols, a gold watch and chain and a fountain pen. The jury was out three hours.

Assistant District Attorney Donohue stated that among the victims of the convicted robber were David Brothers of 357 West 130th Street, who was attacked in his home, shot at and badly beaten; John L. Snyder, 143 Ninety-sixth Street, Woodhaven, Queens, robbed of $40 at 24 West 126th Street on March 14 last and so badly beaten he had to be removed to a hospital; Irving Bekelberger, 709 East 126th Street, robbed of $70 at 60 West 124th Street; Louis Somberg, 151 West 145th Street, robbed of $65 at 8 West 135th Street, and Herman Sternberg, 118 West 124th Street, robbed of $90 at 39 West 125th Street. Most of the victims were collectors for instalment houses, Mr. Donohue added.

John Connor, 21, of 305 West 132d Street, and David McNamee, 20, of 2,465 Eighth Avenue, pleaded guilty before Judge Koslosky to the theft of $1,800 from the jewelry store of Mrs. Mary Muller, 2,491 Broadway. Connor was sent to Sing Sing for five years and McNamee was sent to Elmira Reformatory.

Enright Silent on Charges.

Police Commissioner Enright failed yesterday to reply to the charge made by the Citizens' Union that it was his policy and that of the Police Department to cause fake arrests for the sake of making a paper record. At the Commissioner's office it was said that he had nothing to say.

The Citizens' Union issued a statement in reply to attacks upon that organization by Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Enright after the publication of its detailed charges against the Police Commissioner. The statement read:

"The Citizens' Union and its officers are not interested in the irrelevant abuse or the threats of the Mayor and his Police Commissioner. Its sole interest is to compel an improvement in police conditions by directing public attention to the maladministration of Commissioner Enright.

"The Union has reason to believe that its efforts have already produced results, for the Commissioner has at length been compelled to admit the existence of serious crimes of violence in this city and to bestir himself to measures for combatting it, which he should long since have employed. All that the Citizens' Union has charged against Enright was established by sworn testimony and documentary evidence or has been admitted by Enright himself."

WILL APPEAL TO GOVERNOR.

Hell Gate Republican Club Wants Yorkville Protected.

At a meeting of the Hell Gate Republican Club, 417 East Eighty-fifth Street, it was decided last night that Joseph Goldsmith, President, should go to Albany on Friday to confer with Governor Miller concerning proper police protection for Yorkville.

Members of the club for the past two weeks have been circulating a petition addressed to the Governor asking for the restoration of the East Eighty-fifth Street police station, closed by Commissioner Enright last January.

Last night many hundreds of signatures were reaching the club. Mr. Goldsmith said the members would continue to circulate the petitions until they were able to show that the demand for the restoration of the police station was practically unanimous throughout the district.

Enright Crime Talk Called Off.

Police Commissioner Enright was scheduled to speak on "Crime and Its Cure" over the radio telephone last night, but the W. J. Z. station of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company broadcasted the announcement that the engagement was off. No explanation was given, but it was stated that the "talk" would take place at a future date.

OWNER HELD AFTER 3 DEATHS IN FIRE

BLAZE CAUSED BY CANDLE

Neither Gas Nor Electricity Turned On in Apartment in Which Mrs. Helm and Children Perished.

Following an investigation of the fire yestetrday morning in which Mrs. Laurine Helm and her two small children were burned to death in the new apartment house building at 96 Wadsworth Terrace, Detectives Mullin and Geiger of the West 177th Street Station, arrested Barnet Epstein of 817 West End Avenue, owner of the premises. Magistrate Francis X. McQuade, in the Washington Heights Court, held him in $10,000 bail for examination tomorrow.

The police contend that Epstein as owner was responsible for the deaths in that he permitted Mrs. Helm to occupy her apartment before a certificate of occupancy had been granted by either the Building or the Tenement House departments and before even the gas and electricity had ben turned on. The fire was caused by a candle which Mrs. Helm was burning in lieu of other lighting facilities.

Epstein told Magistrate McQuade that he had had nothing whatever to do with the renting of apartments in his building. That matter was all in the hands of the agents, he said. His attorney, Alfred Ekelman of 217 Broadway, tried in vain to have the amount of bail reduced. When his request was refused, Epstein waited in the court detention rooms for an hour or two until a bondsman was obtained.

The building at 96 Wadsworth Terrace is one of two new six-story apartment houses owned by Epstein. According to the police several tenants have already moved in, although the Tenement House Department had forbid occupancy until certain provisions of the law were complied with.

Mrs. Helm had taken an apartment on the third floor and she went there Monday accompanied by her children, Florence, three years old, and Harold, aged two. With her was her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Eastwood of 540 West 189th Street.

The Superintendent, William Abel, said that he did not know Mrs. Helm intended to remain for the night. He did not even know, he said, when she had had a bed and some furniture moved in. Mr. and Mrs. Eastwood left about 8:30 Monday night; they told the police, after they had helped Mrs. Helm get settled.

As soon as it became dark, Mrs. Helm lighted two of the big candles she had brought to use until the electricity was turned on, and put the children to bed in the rear room. She herself sat down in a chair beside a candle set on a small pine table. It is believed she fell asleep with the light still burning and that the candle fell over and set the table afire. Apparently the mother was trying to save the children when the three were overcome. The three bodies were found lying together after the flames had been extinguished.

On learing that there were no lights in the house, the police started an investigation and the arrest of the owner followed on the advice of Assistant District Attorney Tobias E. Purcell.

Charles A. Nerhing of Nerhing Brothers, 1,441 St. Nicholas Avenue, the renting agents in charge of 96 Wadsworth Avenue, said that no tenant had permission from him to occupy an apartment in the building until work on it had been completed and permission received from both the Building and the Tenement House Departments.

Mrs. Helm was the wife of Marul Helm, a salesman with a music publishing house. She was the daughter of Charles A. Sherwood, General Manager of The Boston Telegram. Mr. Sherwood received a letter from her yesterday in which she told how pleased she was with her new apartment. He received the news of her death a few minutes later by telephone.

CALUMET PLANTS SHOW 'HELP WANTED' SIGNS

Dearth of Labor Appears for First Time Since Signing of Armistice.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMMOND, Ind., April 18.—For the first time since the signing of the armistice help wanted placards are beginning to appear on the entrance gates of big steel plants in the Calumet region in Indiana, and there are few unemployed seeking jobs in Gary, East Chicago, Hammond and Indiana Harbor. There is a scarcity of laborers for the first time since the war.

Some plants in Gary, because of the labor shortage, are unable to increase their output. The American Sheet and Tin Plate and the American Bridge Companies are hard put to find laborers. Many foreigners during the depression have returned to Europe. The dearth of laborers is also ascribed to prevailing low wage scales.

Molders in the steel business are in great demand at present and are being sought by Calumet district plants. Three of the Republic Mills at East Chicago will open tomorrow. Free employment agencies and the Salvation Army report a marked decrease in appeals for work.

DEPEW FORECASTS MILLER RE-ELECTION

"Best and Ablest Governor New York Has Had in a Generation," Says Ex-Senator.

SLOW TO WIN POPULARITY

But Constructive Program Is Bearing Fruit—Governor Here Confers on Transit.

Chauncey M. Depew expressed the belief yesterday that Governor Miller would be renominated and re-elected.

"Nathan L. Miller is the best and ablest Governor New York State has had in a generation," said the venerable ex-United States Senator when interviewed at his home, 27 West Fifty-fourth Street. "It would be most unfortunate for the State and for all the people if he should not continue as Governor for another term.

"Governor Miller came into the office after distinguished service on the bench. He had the outlook that Judges generally have. He had independence, fine discrimination and a determination to do what he thought right regardless of the political effect of his actions.

"While this is an ideal and proper conception for a public servant, it does not make for immediate popularity. Many people like to be deferred to and fondled. If he had run for re-election after his first year in office I have no doubt he would have been defeated at the polls. But he cannot be defeated now.

"People sometimes are a little slow in appreciating the real worth of a public official or his administration. But they have watched the successful working out of Governor Miller's policies and are tremendously impressed with his ability and his courage. He has launched a constructive program greatly needed by the State and it would be too bad if he should not remain in office long enough to see it through."

Governor Miller was in New York City last night, but remained in seclusion, preparing the speech he is to deliver today at the luncheon of the Fifth Avenue Association. The Governor, it is understood, will discuss the transit program. He conferred with George McAneny, Chairman of the Transit Commission, and with Transit Commissioner Harkness at the Hotel Plaza.

The Governor will start this evening or tomorrow morning on a vacation that may last a month, the first rest of any length he has taken since he became Governor.

REOPENING INQUIRY INTO PARIS SHOOTING

Examining Magistrate Is Appointed to Investigate Circumstances of Army Captain's Death.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 18.—There were fresh developments today in connection with the death of Captain Robinot-Marcy, an examining Magistrate having been appointed to unravel the mystery. His first step was to order the Captain's body exhumed. No doubt the Magistrate desires to satisfy himself as to the type of bullet which caused death—if whether the cartridge in the army revolver was one forgotten by the Captain, or whether it might not have been placed there by a third person.

It now appears that no quarrel or even discussion took place between the Captain and Mme. D. According to the statement of the latter's husband, what occurred was as follows:

The Captain was to have attended a masked ball with M. and Mme. D. on the evening of the tragedy. The Captain had chosen the costume of a brigand from an Offenbach operetta. Returning home from the Ecole de Guerre in good spirits, he met Mme. D. at her flat and showed her the costume. Pointing to a huge pistol lying on the table, he said: "Do you think I will look sufficiently terrifying?" Mme. D. laughingly replied: "You might choose a still bigger pistol."

The Captain then showed her his army revolver. Mme. D., frightened, begged him to put it away, but the Captain laughed and said: "There is no danger," held the revolver to his temple and pressed the trigger. A forgotten cartridge in the magazine went off, killing him.

That is the husband's version, but the Magistrate does not appear satisfied that it is the true one, as the investigation is being continued.

An intimate friend and fellow officer of the Captain at the Ecole de Guerre scoffs at the theory that the cartridge could have been left in the magazine, pointing out that the war was over, and that even when an officer was on guard duty he did not carry loaded arms.

ASKS PARDON FOR THOMAS J. MOONEY

San Francisco District Attorney Declares Labor Leader Was Convicted on False Testimony.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.—District Attorney Mathew Brady of San Francisco City and County sent a letter today to Governor Stephens asking him to pardon Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, who are serving life sentences for murder in connection with the bomb explosion here on July 22, 1916, during a parade, when ten persons were killed and fourteen injured.

"I believe no person who permits himself to analyze the situation," Brady's letter said, "entertains any doubt that Mooney and Billings were convicted on false testimony. The only reason for keeping them in prison is that they are undesirable citizens.

LOCKWOOD REPLIES TO DIER

Says He Acted as Broker's Attorney for a Time, but Got No Fee.

When testifying on Monday before Referee Seaman Miller, Elmore D. Dier, head of the defunct brokerage firm of E. D. Dier & Co., said that State Senator Charles C. Lockwood had been one of his advisers and "social" friends.

"I went into the case as an attorney, just as any other attorney would have gone into it," said Senator Lockwood yesterday. "I entered into a discussion of the details of my client's affairs and I found two questions involved. One was was the concern solvent and the other was had the business been carried on along regular lines."

Senator Lockwood said he had advised that the books be audited. He mentioned several such accounting firms, but Dier found that they would be too expensive. When Mr. Lockwood found his advice was not taken, he said, he withdrew from the case and charged no fee.

MURIEL M'CORMICK SCORES AS ACTRESS

DEFTLY ACTS THE BOY HERO

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 18.—Miss Muriel McCormick, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, made her professional stage début in this city this afternoon and evening, and was acclaimed by Chicago society as an amazing success. Miss McCormick made her premiere with the modern French theatre in Kimball Hall as the boy hero of "Le Passant," a one-act play in French verse by François Coppee.

"Le Passant" was third on the program, so Miss McCormick did not appear until late in the afternoon. Neither did her mother, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. During the musical interlude between "Baptiste" and Miss McCormick's play, Mrs. McCormick, gowned in soft black, was ushered to a seat in the first row.

A few moments later Harold F. McCormick, accompanied by Miss Mathilde McCormick, in a grey tweed sports suit and hat; by her companion, Miss Julia Mangold, and his son, Fowler, started down the aisle, stopped suddenly, stepped back and hurriedly found seats, well toward the rear.

The curtain was rung up on a garden set in rich colors, the work of Miss McCormick. Madame Marguerite, playing the part of Sylvia, a courtesan, is discovered decrying the futility of love, which has left her nothing but bitter memories. Off stage, in a garden recess, comes the clear call of a boy, Zanetto, acted by Muriel, Mrs. McCormick sat forward and smiled.

Another call, a shout, and Muriel, lithe and boyish in sylvan costume of vermillion-hued breeches, an old blue tunic and a toga lined with brilliant yellow, a guitar slung under her arm, her bobbed locks of burnished red flying in abandon, jumped the hedge and rushed impetuously into the mystic and seductive garden. Mr. McCormick sat forward and smiled.

Muriel, as the inexperienced boy, Zanetto, played her part, now with deft touches of restrained passion, now with emotional abandon, and again with youthful pathos. Sylvia, recognizing the boy's character, warns him away from "that courtesan Sylvia," whom he does not know he is visiting, and bids him go. He begs a boon. Poor as he is he refuses the offered diamond and departs with a rose.

As Miss McCormick came forward to take the curtain calls, a mammoth basket of pink roses was handed across the footlights. It was the gift of her mother, Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick. Following it came great masses of roses, boxes, baskets and bunches.

Mrs. McCormick was one of the first to go behind the scenes to congratulate her daughter with whom she has not appeared in public for several months. Passing down the aisle, she paused to shake hands with her other daughter, Mathilde and ask, "How are you, today?"

"Very nicely, thank you," the girl replied and the two separated.

Muriel was posing for a picture when her father made his way to the stage. She jumped up, kicking over two baskets of flowers, leaned far across the footlights and flung herself into Mr. McCormick's arms.

"Splendid, darling, just fine," exclaimed Mr. McCormick, then added, "and you're a good sport," as he glanced at the camera men.

Muriel went back to pose and her father called to her:

"I'll send the others home, but I'll wait for you. It will be the first time I've waited at the stage door for my actress daughter."

But it may not be the last time, for Mr. McCormick today expressed himself as entirely satisfied with Muriel's ambition to follow the stage as a profession. She loves it," he declared, "and I can think of nothing better if she really loves it."

Miss Mathilde, whose engagement to Max Oser, Swiss horseman, was recently announced, denied having made any definite plans for her return to Europe.

"I just live from day to day," was her only comment.

Cape May Light Rates to Rise.

One of Nature's Great Secrets

is what becomes of the seals in the seas of Alaska when they disappear.

Nobody knows what becomes of the mothers of our best furs from the time that they get out of sight or of discovery the latter part of August or early in September until they return at the end of April or the beginning of May.

Somehow and from somewhere, thus far said to be unknown, a signal comes over the fog-wreathed reefs and rocks, and they slip and skip away into the Behring Sea, and all tracing of them is futile, until they suddenly come back and appear at play along the shores of their old chosen playground.

None of the wise, prying eyes of scientists or merely curious inquirers has yet learned the mystery of the seals.

IRISH CRISIS LEAVES FREE STATE FIRMER

AT WORK ON CONSTITUTION

Griffith and Collins Determined That Southern Elections Shall Not Be Delayed Beyond June.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, April 18.—After the tension of the week-end there is more optimism in the city. The bloodless triumph of the pro-treaty party at Sligo may have achieved this result.

Griffith and Darrell Figgs, both of whom spoke at that meeting, made their wills before they left Dublin on Saturday. Conscious of the risks they insured, they went to Sligo in defense of a principle.

The full import of Sligo is widely appreciated, and with it public confidence in the Provisional Government is increasing after a temporary setback due to extremists' action in Dublin.

In the conduct of affairs there is a parallel in the gradually increasing firmness of the Griffith-Collins combination at the recent Dail deliberations with the handling of the situation here today. By slow degrees the authority of the Provisional Government is being asserted. Last night troops were in the streets, supported by an armored car, holding up and searching pedestrians and people in motor cars. It is a curious but perhaps inevitable reversion to the old conditions under the British Administration against which Irishmen who are now opposed to each other fought together for so long. Vestiges of that "oppressive" administration are still visible, and, in fact, there are three armies here—the British, which is in process of evacuation and the armored cars of which occasionally whirl through the streets; the Free State Army and the forces whose headquarters are at the Four Courts.

The evacuation of the British troops is being continued and they will definitely stand aloof from this dispute. It should be obvious that any intervention from this quarter would be fatal to the Provisional Government. To mention only one effect, large sections of its forces could be automatically alienated.

But pending their embarkation the British soldier and policeman are frequently spectators of methods to secure peace and order which they themselves once practiced. What their thoughts are as they see the Free State armored car and Free State tender slowly driving past the recognized headquarters of the opposition may be conjectured.

The rebel army in the Four Courts is still in possession. It was announced today that the intention is not to extend the occupation to other premises and the men appear to be well fed and contented.

The conference between Griffith and Collins and de Valera and Cathal Brugha is due to be resumed at the Mansion House this week. Its object is to arrive at some agreement which will insure a free election, but since de Valera cannot answer for the Republican Army it is more than doubtful whether any agreement, if arrived at, can be made effective. The Republicans hold that the election will be determined by fear of resumption of British rule in Ireland. It is characteristic of their reasoning that they propose to protect electors against their own "fear" by having no election at all.

It is reported that the Provisional Government is examining by clauses the Constitution which has been framed and submitted to it by a committee of the Government for its consideration. This stage of the evolution of the Constitution is protracted and even the approximate date for its appearance in final form cannot be indicated.

DUBLIN, April 18.—The conference between the representatives of the Provisional Government and followers of Eamon de Valera, which was adjourned last week until tomorrow afternoon, has been postponed until Thursday.

Southern Elections in June.

LONDON, April 18.—The Irish Free State Constitution has been completed and its publication may be expected within a few days, says a dispatch to The London Times from Dublin. The dispatch adds that the constitution will be before the electors for several weeks before the elections.

It is understood that the Provisional Government is firmly resolved to hold the Southern elections in June, and is prepared to take all measures necessary to secure a free expression of the people's will.

Michael Collins and Arthur Griffith, according to the dispatch, will make substantial concessions when the peace conference between the representatives of the Provisional Government and the de Valeraites is resumed as the price of an agreement, but will refuse any further postponement of the elections.

BARRACKS BEATS OFF ATTACK.

OConnor's Men Holding Up and Searching Travelers.

DUBLIN, April 18 (Associated Press).—According to an official report issued this evening, the Celbridge Barracks, which is now occupied by the Irish Republican Army as headquarters for that district of Kildare, was the scene of a prolonged attack on Monday evening. Numerous parties of strangers in civilian clothes arrived in motor cars, and for an hour maintained a strong rifle fire against the building. The guard replied to the shots.

An attempt was made to scale the walls, and it is believed there were some casualties among the attacking party, several members of which were seen to fall when the guard fired. One of the guards was slightly wounded.

MACHINE GUNS USED ON BELFAST SNIPERS

Long Duel Between Troops and Gunmen Results in Many Casualties.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BELFAST, April 18.—Snipers were busy again in Belfast today as well as during the night. To restore order troops yesterday were rushed up with machine guns. Several persons were wounded by gunshot.

A more serious situation developed in the night when several fires broke out. Two separate series of fires occurred in Antigua Street in the border district. Seven houses were on fire on Monday night and eight on the opposite side of the street this morning. Most of them were destroyed.

Sniping began again this afternoon in the Marrowbone area. Four men were shot and wounded. The sniping between gunmen and Crown forces went on all day.

Disturbances in the Marrowbone district became more widespread this evening and several more civilians were wounded. Shops were looted and in Beaudesert Street three or four houses of Catholic residents were set on fire.

Using machine guns at times, the military maintained a prolonged duel with snipers who were difficult to locate. An officer and a private of the Norfolk regiment were wounded, the latter seriously. Twelve men arrested on the charge of looting were remanded. It is stated that in the house of one man were found two rifles, a shell and 91 rounds of ammunition.

CRAIG CASE ARGUED IN CIRCUIT COURT

Decision Reserved on Question of Setting Aside Jail Sentence for Contempt.

Argument on the question of whether Federal Judge Manton had the right to issue a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of Controller Charles L. Craig, and later to set aside the sentence of thirty days in jail imposed upon Mr. Craig by Judge Mayer for contempt was heard yesterday by the Circuit Court.

The sole question is that of jurisdiction, and if an appeal is taken to the United States Supreme Court it will be on this point alone, unless the highest court sees fit to review the whole proceeding. The contempt charged against Mr. Craig grew out of a letter criticising Judge Mayer for certain acts in connection with the receivership of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company. It was written to Lewis Nixon, then Public Service Commissioner, on Oct. 6, 1919. After many hearings Judge Mayer found Mr. Craig guilty, and on Feb. 24, 1921, sentenced him to sixty days' imprisonment in the Essex County (N. J.) jail. Then came the habeas corpus proceedings.

Assistant United States District Attorney David V. Cahill appeared yesterday for the Government and Edmund L. Mooney appeared for Mr. Craig. Mr. Cahill contended that Judge Manton exceeded the scope of the habeas corpus; that he was without power to make the order appealed from, and that the writ of habeas corpus was void because it was not properly issued.

Mr. Mooney pointed out that receiverships such as that of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit ran usually for several years and that under the reasoning against Mr. Craig persons would be debarred from any comment or criticism for a long period. He argued that an act of contempt could not exist unless it was shown to have obstructed justice. Decision was reserved.

DEALS IN BILLIONS, CAN'T BUY A STAMP

Foreign Debt Refunding Commission Finds Itself Without Money at Its First Session.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Established by Congress to negotiate the funding of $11,000,000,000 in debts owed this country by foreign nations, the Allied Debt Commission today found itself without funds to buy a postage stamp for setting the wheels of the funding machinery in motion.

Senator Smoot, a member of the commission, was intrusted with the duty of obtaining from Congress an appropriation to meet the necessary expenses of operation.

The commission met at the Treasury, appointed Elliott Wadsworth, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury in charge of foreign loans, as executive secretary, and adjourned subject to call.

The second meeting of the commission probably will be held next week, at which time it is expected that the formal steps for opening discussions with Great Britain and other powers will be determined. The commission, it is said, will put into motion as soon as possible the machinery for funding into long time obligations the demand notes of the Allies.

King Albert Leaves Versailles.

VERSAILLES, April 18. — The King and Queen of the Belgians, who have been spending a few days here for their health, left here this morning, with King Albert driving the automobile in which Queen Elizabeth was a passenger. The Queen will probably return before reaching Belgium and spend a few days in Paris with her daughter, Marie, who is remaining at Versailles.

32 DEAD, 500 HURT IN TORNADOES' PATH

WIND CARRIED GIRL A MILE

Found With Her Back Broken After Being Blown From Bed—Aid for Illinois Flood Area.

CHICAGO, April 18 (Asociated Press).—The terrific storms sweeping eastward across the country, which in some parts of the Central States became tornadoes, resulted in at least 32 persons killed, 2 missing, 320 injured and several millions of dollars damage to property, according to incomplete reports tonight from the stricken areas.

The 320 listed thus far as injured include only those in towns which felt the full effect of the storms. Scores of others in sections not directly in the path of the tornado were hurt, and the total is believed to be beyond the 500 mark. In addition, several of the injured are in a critical condition.

Illinois and Indiana were hit hardest, the list of known dead in Illinois being eleven, while in Indiana nineteen fatalities already have been reported. The Illinois reports are believed to be complete, but there are some areas in Indiana from which no word has been received, communication lines being badly hampered.

Two persons were killed in Missouri, while Kansas, Michigan and Ohio sustained heavy property damage.

Tonight the storms still were moving eastward, but apparently had spent their full strength, subsiding in most places to snow or hail, with high winds.

| | Dead. | Miss'g. | Injur'd. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Indiana— | | | |
| Hedrick | 9 | .. | 100 |
| Williamsport | 3 | .. | 50 |

| Grand total, dead32, missing 2, injured 320. | | | |

Tonight hundreds of families were homeless, their houses demolished, and Red Cross and other relief workers have been rushed into the devastated areas.

CENTRALIA, Ill., April 18.—A daughter of Valentine Schossler was carried out of her bed and a mile away by the tornado yesterday, it was learned today. She was found wiht her back broken and taken to a hospital, where it was said she probably would die.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 18.—Western and Central Indiana today was slowly recovering from the tornado which took between fifteen and twenty lives and injured more than 300 persons.

The village of Hedrick was virtually destroyed, and a national guard company was patrolling the city to prevent pillaging of wrecked homes and business houses. Seven persons are known to be dead there and more than one hundred injured.

Communication with the stricken towns was very limited today.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 18.—With the storms of the past twenty-four hours apparently over, Ohio farmers and fruit growers were making preparations to fight a heavy frost, predicted for tonight in this State by the Weather Bureau. The frost may be "killing" in the lower sections, the Weather Bureau announced.

The tornado which yesterday wrought havoc in Indiana and Illinois last night worked its way into Ohio, cutting a swath through Auglaize and Allen counties in Northwestern Ohio, injuring three persons and doing much property damage.

The tornado cut a path several hundred yeare wide, passing south of Lima and continuing in a northeasterly direction. Faulty telephone and telegraphic communication has prevented a complete check of the damage done.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Assistant Secretary Clifford of the Treasury, upon receipt today of an official report of serious floods in the vicinity of Beardstown, Ill., instructed Lieutenant T. A. Malloy, Commander of the Chicago coast guard district, to send all available men and boats to the flooded area.

NEW ORLEANS, April 18.—Predictions of a flood stage here between May 1 and May 10 one foot higher than ever before recorded was made by the local weather bureau today. The highest stage ever recorded here was reached in the flood of 1912, according to Weather Bureau records, but it was maintained only a few minutes.

The river gauge here this morning registered 21.8 feet, a rise of one-tenth of a foot during the last twenty-four hours. The record is 22 feet.

And even then the copper roof didn't leak

This test was made with forty pounds' pressure of water at short range. They deliberately tried to force the water through the joints. But no evidence of leakage could be found after this test.

"Ah! but that was a new roof," you say.

True! But a copper roof never grows "old" for service. It does not rust. Sun, rain, intense heat or cold makes no difference to the "life" of Anaconda Copper Roofing. Many copper roofs in New York are a hundred years old. Some abroad are centuries old—and are as good as new today.

A copper roof is not expensive

Because of the form in which Anaconda Copper Roofing is made, the cost makes it accessible to all. It costs less than tile or slate. The price of copper is low enough to make any home-owner consider it.

No one questions the value of copper for roofing. One big expense in the past was in construction. Now that has been overcome. Anaconda Copper Roofing is being produced in great quantities and in forms that bring the price down.

What does a copper roof look like?

Anaconda Copper Roofings are made in shades of reds, browns, greens, and blues to harmonize with any surrounding color scheme.

Though they are the lightest roofing material that can be used, their construction gives them the appearance of thickness, which is the chief beauty of heavy wooden roofing.

If there were no reason other than beauty for choosing a roof, copper would certainly be the first choice.

You can find out for yourself

There are many other good reasons for the use of copper for your roof. If you need a new roof on your old house or if you are planning a new home, come and see us. Let us figure with you and show you why you should use copper roofing. If you are unable to come in, write for a free booklet on "Copper Roofings."

CALDER CALLS FOR AN AMERICAN CANAL

Declares Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Project Would Benefit Canada Mainly.

POINTS TO ITS GREAT COST

Townsend Asserts New York Senator Is Mistaken and Urges Plan as Aid to Farmers.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Opposing the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence River Canal project as unwise from an American standpoint, Senator Calder of New York urged today the defeat of legislation that will be introduced to promote realization of the Great Lakes to the Atlantic proposition. He characterized as "a fundamental injustice" the spending of $500,000,000 for waterway improvements beyond the American borderline. The ultimate cost of the improvement Senator Calder estimated at from $1,100,000,000 to $1,450,000,000.

The New York Senator said many Americans of the highest standing had advised Theodore Roosevelt when he was President to permit other nations to join with the United States in the construction, ownership and operation of the Panama Canal.

"But President Roosevelt," he said, "decided that the United States alone should own and control the canal, and he was right, for whoever controls the mouth or a river controls the river, and for that reason essential transportation routes, rail or waterway, should lie wholly within our territory. If that policy is adhered to such transportation routes can never become the basis for international discussion.

"No American investment should be made in any proposition that is not absolutely under the control and ownership of the United States, quite irrespective of whether they are in Panama or Canada. Our transportation problems cannot be solved except upon the basis of an all-American transportation system that will link the railroad, the auto truck, the canal, the river and the ocean into one great transportation unit. We must evolve a competitive American transportation plan and then adhere to its provisions."

National Waterway Needs.

In discussing national waterway needs Senator Calder pointed out that during the last twenty years the average annual expenditures of the United States for the improvement of its rivers and harbors had been less than $30,000,000. The ports of New Orleans, Galveston, San Francisco, Seattle, Portland, Ore.; Savannah, Charleston, Boston, Portland, Me., and many others, he said, must all be improved if they were to render a maximum service as gateways for the nation's commerce. The Senator also pointed out that large sums were required to complete improvements already begun on the Mississippi, Missouri, Ohio and other rivers that are natural waterways.

"All these projects," continued Mr. Calder, "should certainly take precedence over any scheme to further improve the St. Lawrence for the benefit of another nation.

"It is easy to understand why Great Britain, the master wheat merchant of the world, should look with favor upon any plan we undertake that will make the resources of her own rich provinces in any way more accessible to her.

"The Mississippi River, the Illinois River and the drainage canal," said the Senator, "present the possibilities of a through route from New Orleans to Chicago and the Great Lakes, and the New York barge canal, a route to New York. The proper development of either one—the proper utilization of either one—would in time inevitably compel the construction of the St. Lawrence waterways project by the Canadians themselves if the plan possesses the merits its proponents claim for it.

Points to Barge Canal.

Senator Calder said the proposed St. Lawrence navigation project would not render any essential service that could not be rendered equally well by the New York State barge canal. He pointed out that this canal was a toll-free waterway, and cost the State of New York $167,000,000. He also called attention to the fact that New York was preparing to spend $500,000,000 on port improvements.

"This $667,000,000," the Senator said, "is contributed unconditionally. It will strengthen the position of New York. That is true. But it will likewise strengthen the position of the Middle West. This contribution to the nation's transportation facilities does not come from the Federal Treasury. It is New York's contribution. Therefore, let those who are without sectional rancor answer this question:

"Given equal facilities in either direction, would the Middle West prefer to route its commerce through Canada or through American ports?

"We have been invited to double the investment we made at Panama, for the purpose of constructing a waterway we will not control, and upon which our ships will enjoy no advantages not extended to ships of other nations. We will enjoy no rights upon the St. Lawrence not extended to our keenest competitors.

"While we must play our part as a builder, I believe I am echoing the sentiments of every patriotic citizen when I say that where we build with the nation's funds there our flag should float as the symbol and token, not only of our ownership, but of our control."

Townsend Says Calder Is Wrong.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Replying to Senator Calder's attack on the St. Lawrence Canal project in the Senate today, Senator Townsend of Michigan denied that Canada would benefit more from the waterway than the United States. The Michigan Senator declared Mr. Calder was not familiar with the facts.

"It does not come with good grace from representatives of New York," said Senator Townsend, "to speak about expenditures of money for water improvements and oppose a proposition that will do so much good to the Middle West and the Far West.

"We have spent more money in New York than the wildest estimate of what this project would cost. The Senator from New York ignored the estimates of the American and Canadian engineers. The International Joint Commission estimated the maximum cost at $252,000,000, an estimate made two or three years ago, and costs since have come down.

"We will get the benefit of whatever improvement is made. Canada could not under any circumstances profit as much as the United States. Her railroads afford her ample transportation facilities. We are short of railroad transportation."

Congestion of freight on the Atlantic seaboard as demonstrated during the war, he said, meant "the loss of American boys and also of lives among the allied forces" because America was unable to get supplies to Europe quickly enough.

To the argument that the waterway would bring cheap European manufactures into the Middle West, Senator Townsend replied that these now come through New York and other Atlantic ports.

THE JOYS of motoring are what science calls objective and subjective. They are objective when the mind dwells upon the perfect functioning of the car, its sweet and silent and powerful engine; its graceful, trim and low-hung body—when, in short, one enjoys the car as a car. They are subjective when one forgets the car, and yields to the satisfaction and pleasure the car so surely delivers, the unobtrusive but abundant nature of its dependable, daily, enduring service.

He tried to pass—and LOST

Actual Accident to Liberty Mutual Policy-holder

IF HE had "made it," he would have gained a few seconds time. But he lost. He swung too far to the left. The front wheel went from hard road to soft dirt—and ditched him. That gamble was costly. A ruined car. Injury to friends who rode with him.

Be careful in passing cars—especially on narrow crowned roads. Always give a warning note to the car ahead.

Actual statistics show that more accidents are caused from trying to pass the car ahead than are caused by speeding. They show too that an appalling number of the motorists who meet with such accidents are totally unprepared for the heavy "money-loss"—the cost of repairs—the strain of a damage suit. Motorists without protection—lambs being led to slaughter.

There's only one way to play safe. The minute you take your car out for the season, get insurance. Get it from the Liberty Mutual—a company that has a record of settling 199 out of every 200 claims out of court.

Furthermore, ever since organization, the Liberty Mutual has returned to automobile owners, cash refunds of 30% of the premiums. This means a big saving in the cost of automobile insurance.

Write or phone us today.

Liberty Mutual's Great Gains in 1921

40% Increase in Surplus

AFTER paying our usual 30% cash refunds, the Liberty Mutual added over $400,000 to surplus. This was a larger amount than in any year of the Company's history. The Company now has $1,442,356 surplus, in addition to its full legal reserves, as a protection for its policy-holders against abnormal losses.

Earnings for Policy-holders 35.27%

THE Company's actual earnings on the year's operations were 35.27% as contrasted with an average of 33.61% for the previous six year period. As in the past, this afforded an ample margin for the payment to policy-holders of our usual 30% cash refunds. They amounted in 1921 to over $2,000,000.

50% Increase in Policy-holders

THE Liberty Mutual wrote in 1921 over $1,750,000 in new business; increased its policy-holders over 50%; increased its automobile insurance business 77%: Total premiums written since organization over $27,000,000.

KISSES WIFE, SHOOTS HER AND THEN DIES

RECONCILIATION HAD FAILED

"Must Not Be Parted In Life or Death," Says a Letter Left by the Suicide.

While his wife obeyed his request to "kiss me good-bye" Frank Muller of 144 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, stealthily dropped his hand to the revolver in his overcoat pocket and then, as they drew apart after that last embrace, he raised his arm and shot her in the right side of the face. As she fell he turned the revolver upon himself, fired a bullet into his brain and fell dying.

The suicide and attempted murder occurred yesterday morning on the platform of the uptown station of the Interborough subway at Broadway and Seventy-ninth Street, and it was the culmination of a series of disagreements that had marred the six years of their married life. Mrs. Muller staggered up the stairs of the station and collapsed on the sidewalk. She was hurried to Roosevelt Hospital, where it was said later in the day she would recover if no complications set in.

Mrs. Muller for several months past has been living with her mother, Mrs. Elisabeth Peterson, at 2,936 Church Avenue, Brooklyn. Her daughter Mildred lives with her. In the effort to straighten out the tangle of their affairs it was said the pair met at intervals but always disagreements arose. In response to a telephone call from her husband, Mrs. Muller met him on Monday night in Manhattan. They went to a hotel at Thirty-first Street and Broadway, but quarreled and left the hotel early yesterday morning, the husband carrying a suitcase. While at the hotel, Mrs. Muller said, her husband threatened to shoot her and even pointed a revolver at her, but desisted when she pleaded with him.

It was evident that Muller had planned to kill himself and his wife, for the police found on him a letter addressed to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Muller of 41 Reeve Place, Brooklyn, in which he said:

"By the time you receive this letter you will probably be somewhat upset. Everything has been a failure. I cannot live without my wife. It is too bad that Elsie and I would not agree and must be parted. I cannot live without her. Please take care of Mildred. I could not stand to be parted from her in life and I do not want to be parted from her in death. Please bury us in the same grave."

Start Your Addressing System This Way

This is the No. 4 Rotary Belknap Addressor, a hand machine for small businesses. Speed 1,500 to 1,800 per hour.

FOR the business of modest size, or the one whose addressing requirements are limited, a Belknap Hand Addressor and a single filing cabinet will provide the correct start for an efficient addressing system.

We are going out of our way to emphasize this point, because some business men still persist in considering the important subject of Addressing only in terms of large equipments and lists of a million names.

It is not necessary to be a Curtis Publishing Company, or a mail order house like the National Cloak & Suit Company to employ the Belknap System of Addressing profitably.

If the handling of lists and the writing of names on envelopes, wrappers, statements, order forms, shipping tags, tax notices, receipts, etc., is a part of the day's work in your business you need a Belknap System.

More than that you are paying for one, too—continually, unendingly and uselessly—in leaks and losses due to old-fashioned, time-and-money wasting methods that ought to be stopped.

Stop them! If you own a typewriter, and employ a stenographer to operate it, you are half-equipped for a Belknap System. If your business isn't too big, one Belknap Hand Addressor and one filing cabinet as pictured above will round out an efficient system of addressing for you.

And even if your business calls for a larger machine like the Belknap Indexograph, with an addressing speed of 2,000 to 4,000 an hour, you ought to know it and own it. You are paying for it anyhow, and will continue to do so until you install one and it begins to earn its cost times over—and save.

Thousands of concerns in over 250 different lines of business, some big concerns and some small, have applied Belknap Systems to their Addressing problems with economy and success.

One of our expert Service Men will be glad to call and discuss the adaptability of our system to your business—without cost or obligation to you.

Phone Gramercy 6363, or write today for an appointment with one of these men. There's a descriptive book that is yours for the asking, too.

The TRUTH about THE NOISELESS

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO the typewriter was blind. You had to lift the carriage to see what had been written.

Then visible writing was invented. It was a great step toward speeding work—getting more and better work.

The Noiseless Typewriter represents the most radical improvements in typewriter development since the visible machine. It brings quiet—greater speed—more beautiful work—easier operation—greater economy and durability.

Every one knows that concentration of thought is essential to success in business. Irritating typewriter noise destroys the quiet that permits concentration of thought. Hence, typewriter noise impairs the business man's best asset—namely, his thinking power.

The Noiseless is recognized today as the "silent partner" of increased production. Its triumphant success is due to the fact that, at every point, it means PROGRESS:

QUIET

SPEED

The Noiseless is the fastest stock typewriter in the world. It has the lightest touch of any typewriter and can be operated with the least fatigue.

QUALITY

Perfect control of the keys assures beautiful work, with even spaces and accurate alignment. Adjustable pressure dial permits the making of clear and numerous carbon copies.

ECONOMY

The Noiseless is the most economical typewriter you can buy. It saves valuable minutes because it can be operated constantly—even when you are talking over a long distance phone. The metal platen does not require replacement.

DURABILITY

STOP
Plunder-Merchandising!

A Call to Merchants and Manufacturers

Plunder-Merchandise is merchandise in which quality, workmanship, service and satisfaction have been sacrificed to create fictitious "bargains."

Plunder-Merchandising is the poisonous growth of illegitimate competition between unscrupulous dollar-chasers who have no appreciation or respect for public good and good-will.

If the increasing evils of Plunder-Merchandising are not checked by a determined stand on the part of Manufacturers' Associations and Chambers of Commerce, as well as by individual effort, the high American standards established by reputable merchants, manufacturers and workmen cannot endure.

There is nothing but eventual disaster in Plunder-Merchandise. The manufacturer who produces it must lose ultimately and his workers must suffer. The dealer who sells it must lose eventually. The consumer who buys it must lose most of all.

The "profit" in Plunder-Merchandise is the greatest will-o'-the-wisp that manufacturer and merchant ever pursued. Plunder-Merchandise is the falsest bargain ever foisted on an economy-seeking public.

No reliable manufacturer, who looks to the future, will risk his good-will by producing Plunder-Merchandise, no matter what the temptation. No far-sighted merchant will betray public confidence by handling Plunder-Merchandise at any price.

But, unfortunately, there is a class of short-sighted dealers who believe that they can continuously capitalize public gullibility. They ceaselessly hound manufacturers to skimp material, slight workmanship and adulterate quality, to cheapen the price so that the unwary may be lured by so-called "bargains."

And, most unfortunately, many marrowless manufacturers are forgetting their moral obligation to the public and yielding to this false appeal for Plunder-Merchandise.

Let us stop this Plunder-Merchandising—for the future of the industries of the country—for the good of the merchants of the country.—for the protection of the people of the country.

The public safeguard against Plunder-Merchandising is the trade-mark that stands for quality, service, satisfaction and fair price. The merchant's protection is in handling trade-marked goods of established reputation. The manufacturer's insurance is in maintaining the quality of his product and in informing the public what his trade-mark stands for in terms of service and satisfaction.

This is the time when the four-square manufacturer of honest, fairly priced merchandise, which proudly bears his name as a guarantee, has his greatest opportunity to increase prestige and multiply sales.

The Federal Advertising Agency is proud to have as its clients, firms whose high ideals place them in the forefront of the move to stop Plunder-Merchandising. Their success—the result of making and maintaining quality at right prices and advertising the truth—inspires us to publish this page, in the hope that it may stir more manufacturers to a point where they will—for the good of business—resist the call for Plunder-Merchandise and boldly proclaim their stand to the world.

SAY SLAYER BODDY'S WIFE ROBBED HOUSE

GOT JOB AS MAIDSERVANT

Worked Few Hours, Said Mrs. Dr. Castagna, and Fled With Clothing and Dishes.

Mrs. Luther Boddy, wife of the young Harlem negro under sentence of death for the murder of Detectives William A. Miller and Francis Buckley, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Gilman and Lambert on a charge of robbing the home of Dr. Orestes Castagna at 234 East Nineteenth Street last Thursday. The policemen said Mrs. Boddy was an unruly prisoner and that she battled with them all the way from Park Row and Duane Street, where they arrested her, to Police Headquarters. Gilman said that at the Canal Street station of the B. R. T. subway Mrs. Boddy tried to throw herself in front of an approaching train. She will be arraigned today in the West Fifty-seventh Street Court.

Mrs. Castagna, wife of Dr. Castagna, advertised in a newspaper last week for a maid. Among the first who answered was a young colored woman who said she was Dorothy Brown. She submitted letters of recommendation and asked Mrs. Castagna to take her on trial pending an investigation of her credentials. "I had misgivings about the girl, but she pleaded so earnestly I decided to put her to work," Mrs. Castagna said. "Of all the maids I have ever employed, she worked the hardest in the few hours she was in my house. I left her scrubbing away while I went out to check up her letters of investigation, which turned out to be fraudulent. I mentioned my mission to my husband and asked him to remain home while I was out.

"He was called out for a half hour and during that time Dorothy bundled up dishes and clothing valued at $500 belonging to my sister and departed. She made no attempt to enter other rooms in my home."

Mrs. Castagna reported the theft to the East Twenty-second Street Station and Detectives Gilman and Lambert were assigned to the case. Mrs. Castagna went to the Rogues Gallery and identified Dorothy Brown as the maid she had employed. According to Detective Gilman, Mrs. Boddy also went under the alias of Cora Brown. He said she had been released from Dannemora Prison on the day Luther Boddy killed the policemen. She had served a sentence for a similar robbery, he said. Mrs. Boddy gave her age as 21, and said she lived at 60 West 135d Street.

Bare Bullfight With Glue Darts.

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—Glue pot bull fights in which Pedie Espejo, Mexico City matador, was to have provided the excitement for Cinco de Mayo (May 5), the anniversary of Mexican independence, have been barred, it was announced today. The Hispano American Society had arranged the fights. Espejo was to have used darts dipped in glue so they would merely stick to the bull's side instead of piercing it, but the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals objected to the exhibition in any form.

When your battery says: "I'm through"

There will come a time when your battery—even if it is an Exide—must be replaced.

How will you acquire a new one—by simply calling at the nearest place where batteries are sold, or by getting one for the least money possible? Or will you automatically buy another of the same kind that has just worn out?

Or, realizing how much a battery means to your comfort, will you be sure to get an Exide and let it give you its sturdy power through a long life of ungrudging service?

There is economy in buying an Exide Battery, because it lasts so much longer than others. Ruggedness is built into it, so the battery spends its time in your car instead of in the repair shop.

YANKEES TRIUMPH OVER RED SOX, 10-8

Victory In Heavy Hitting Contest Gives Hugmen Second Place in Standing.

WITT FAILS TO APPEAR

New Outfielder Expected to Play In Double-Header Today—McMillan Stars at Bat.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 18.—In a game marked by unusually hard hitting the Yankees defeated the Red Sox at Fenway Park this afternoon by the score of 10 to 8, jumping into second place in the race for the American League pennant, inasmuch as the Browns, who had held that position, lost to the Indians. Whitey Witt, the outfielder acquired by Miller Huggins from the Athletics yesterday, was not in the Yankee line-up, although it had been announced that he would play in place of McMillan in right field this afternoon. Witt did not arrive, although when he received the welcome news of his transfer from Connie Mack in Washington yesterday afternoon he announced that he would take the first train for Boston. Huggins says that he does not know where Witt is but that he expects him to be here for the double-header tomorrow afternoon, which will be played in celebration of Patriots' Day.

The absence of Witt did not in the least disturb McMillan, for the latter, whose place in the outfield Whitey is to take, pounded the ball for three safe hits, helping materially in the victory for the Yankees. One of his drives tied the score in the sixth and another was responsible for two runs in the seventh inning, when the Yankees rallied and regained the lead.

The Yankees not only outhit the Red Sox, but also outfielded them. The Hugmen knocked Karr off the mound in the seventh, Ferguson being sent in to take his place. But the Hugmen kept right at their "treat 'em rough" tactics, Bush, Miller and McMillan making hits before Ferguson was able to retire the side.

Schang, Scott, Fewster and Bush all handled the willow with strong effect. Of Schang's three hits one was a triple, and of Scott's three two were doubles. The Red Sox also did a bit of walloping in their half of the eighth, so much so that Huggins thought it advisable to take Bullet Joe Bush, erstwhile Red Sox hurler, out of the game and send to the mound another recently acquired Sox twirler, Sam Jones. Jones stopped the scoring, Harris being retired at first base.

Yanks Score Two in Third.

Neither team scored until the third inning. Then the Yankees got busy and sent two runs over. Scott started hostilities with a double off the left field fence. Bush slammed the horsehide to left for a single, sending Scott across the plate for the first tally of the game. Bush took second on the throw to the plate and then third when Karr made a poor throw to Pittenger at second. After Miller had struck out, Fewster singled to left, scoring Bush, but was out when he tried to stretch the hit to a double.

The Sox came back with one run in the next inning, the fourth. Pratt walked and Harris singled to right, sending Pratt to third. This was a hit-and-run play. McMillan pulled down Burns's long fly, but Pratt scored. Harris took second on wild pitch and then Scott booted Dugan's grounder, Harris, however, being held on second. Pittenger forced Harris at third and Chaplin struck out.

Each team scored in the fifth, but in this session the Sox, with three runs, took the lead at 4 to 3. Ward started the inning for the Hugmen with a single to centre. Scott sacrificed, after which Schang hit over Pittenger's head for a safety that sent Ward to third, whence he scored on Bush's long sacrifice fly to Smith. Schang went to second on the throw-in, took third when Burns, who intercepted the ball, threw past Pittenger, but was caught when he attempted to cross the plate on a short passed ball, Chaplin beating him to the rubber.

In their half of the Sox got started when Karr beat out a grounder to Baker. Collins singled to centre and Smith was out, Bush to Pipp. Pratt walked, filling the bases. Harris hit to Pipp, who caught Karr at the plate. Burns then brought cheers from the small Boston crowd—small because of intermittent rain—with a double to right field which cleared the bags. Dugan grounded out, but the damage had been done and the Red Sox were in the lead.

Tie Score in Sixth.

The Hugmen, however, tied the score in the sixth. Fewster was safe on Dugan's poor throw. He went to second on Baker's out and tallied on McMillan's hit to centre. In this inning Ruel replaced Chaplin behind the bat, as Chaplin was injured in blocking off Schang at the plate in the previous inning.

Then came the big seventh inning for the Yankees. Before they stopped they had scored four runs and taken what apparently was a winning lead. After Ward had flied out, Scott singled to centre. Schang knocked a terrific one to right for three bases, scoring Scott and causing the removal of Karr in favor of Ferguson.

Bush showed no respect for the new Sox twirler, for he at once hit safely to centre, scoring Schang. Miller also followed with a hit to left and Fewster worked Ferguson for a pass, filling the bases. Baker caused dismay on the Yankee's bench by fouling out to Ruel. But McMillan was equal to the emergency and with a single to right sent home Bush and Miller. Pipp filed to Collins.

In the eighth the Yankees got another run on Scott's double and Schang's single. The Sox accumulated four, and for a short time it looked rather dismal for the Yanks. Dugan started for the Sox with a double and Pittenger followed with a single over Scott's head. Ruel popped to Ward, and Menosky, batting for Ferguson, singled to centre, scoring Dugan and sending Pittenger to third. Collins fouled to Schang, but Smith doubled to right, scoring Pittenger and Menosky.

Pratt followed with another two-bagger to left, scoring Smith. Huggins at this point took Bush out of the box, replacing him with Jones, who succeeded in stopping further scoring by holding Harris to a grounder to Scott, who retired the side at first. The Yankees got one more run in the ninth.

CUBS DEFEAT CARDS IN FINAL OF SERIES

Rickey Uses Five Pitchers in Effort to Stop Chicago Batters—Score, 7-5.

ST. LOUIS, April 18.—The Chicago Cubs won the third and final game of the series from the Cardinals today, 7—5. The defeat dropped St. Louis to a tie for second place with Chicago, New York going into the lead. Rickey used five pitchers in an effort to stop the visitors. Aldridge was batted hard, but Freeman stopped the Cardinals.

PIRATES SWEEP SERIES.

Take Final Game From Reds by a Score of 8 to 4.

CINCINNATI, April 18.—Pittsburgh outplayed Cincinnati and won today's game by a score of 8 to 4, making a clean sweep of the series. Carlson was driven from the slab and a lucky catch by Grimm of Bressler's low drive resulted in a double play which saved Hamilton. Markle gave way to a pinch hitter in the seventh, and Couch could not stop the visitors.

YANKS PICK FIRM TO BUILD STADIUM

White Construction Co. of This City to Erect $2,000,000 Baseball Plant.

The White Construction Company, 95 Madison Avenue, has been selected as the contracting firm which will build the new $2,000,000 stadium of the Yankees in the Bronx. The contract with this company will not be signed until next Saturday, and, pending this important ceremony, neither Colonel Ruppert nor Colonel Huston would discuss the matter yesterday. But by other officials at the Yankee headquarters it was admitted that the White Company will do the work, and this information was confirmed by contractors to whom some of the work has been sublet.

The premature announcement of the Yankees' plans also disclosed that the first shovelful of dirt will be dug next Tuesday and the work pushed after that with as much speed as possible. There will doubtless be some sort of ceremony attending the first bit of excavation; both the Yankee Colonels will be there, and the beginning of work on what will be the greatest baseball plant in the world will be celebrated in a fitting manner.

The Osborn Engineering Company of Cleveland, which will direct the general construction of the big arena, has promised that the work will be completed by the latter part of September, in time to take care of the world's series games if the Yanks should happen to perform in the October blue ribbon classic. The original estimate was six months, which would mean the latter part of October, but since that time it has been decided to use double shifts of workmen. Most of the grading has already been done, and with good weather the Osborn Company predicts that it will smash all records in the matter of speed.

The White Construction Company will have charge of all the building work and has already begun employing subcontractors for the steel work, concrete, roofing, seats, flooring, playing field, carpentering, &c. The stadium will seat 60,000 when finished, and will be capable of enlargement to accommodate 80,000. The grandstand will consist of two steel and concrete tiers and a mezzanine. The bleachers will be of wood. The site is bounded on the north by 161st Street, on the east by River Avenue, on the south by 157th Street and on the west by Doughty Street.

Giants and Robins Idle Again.

The Giants spent another day standing first on one leg, then on the other, but at that the champions managed to gain undisputed possession of first place, as the Cardinals, who had been tied with them, took another one on the chin from the Cubs. The Yanks played and won, thereby going into second position, but the Robins met more rain in Philadelphia and were idle.

Wet grounds was given as the cause for the Polo Grounds postponement, and the Giants, after two days of doing nothing, are now champing at the bit. They will try to play the Braves this afternoon, with Phil Douglas down on the books to pitch.

Babe Ruth has declined with thanks the offer from President Stoneham of the Giants to let the big slugger practice with the Giants in the mornings when the Yanks are away from home. The home run king has other plans. When the Huggins brigade is abroad the Babe will be admitted to the morning practices of the home team—probably the only case in baseball history where the home management has agreed to share the morning workouts with one of the enemy. But Ruth is the exception. The arrangement is also beneficial in that it will allow the Yankee Captain to travel with the team and lend his presence to his mates.

The other suspended Yankee, Bob Meusel, who is convalescing from his recent tonsil operation, will resume baseballing tomorrow morning, when the Yanks return home to open the season in the afternoon. Bob is still weak and will take it easy at first.

Yanks Lose Interest in Strunk.

With the acquisition of "Whitey" Witt, the Yanks have lost all interest in Amos Strunk, whom they tried to land for many months. Ed Barrow declared yesterday that Huggins now has all the outfielders he wants.

Today's Patriot Day games with the Red Sox in Boston will both be played in the afternoon instead of morning and afternoon, as the custom has been in recent years. The Yanks will probably pitch Jones and Mays, both ex-Bostonese.

ROBERTSON GETS RELEASE.

Schmidt Is Now Only Hold-Out on Roster of Pirates.

PITTSBURGH, April 18. — Davy Robertson, heavy hitting outfielder of the Pittsburgh Pirates, has been given an unconditional release, it was announced tonight by Secretary Sam Watters of the club. This was taken to mean that all the major league and some of the minor league clubs had passed Robertson by when waivers were asked.

The trading of Whitted to Brooklyn and the release of Robertson leaves Schmidt the only hold-out, concerning whom President Barney Dreyfus has refused to make any announcement recently.

SAYS EX-FORDHAM MEN PLAYED GAME

Halloran, Former Maroon Star, Denies Members of 1922 Team Performed at Waterbury.

Certain facts concerning the game at Waterbury on Sunday between the local Eastern League club and the Fordham collegians were apparently made clearer at a meeting yesterday afternoon at the downtown office of the Fordham University Athletic Association, at which Frank Gargan, Fordham graduate manager; Clarence Halloran, and members of the Alumni Advisory Committee were present. Halloran, the manager of the collegians, is a former Fordham football and baseball player. Most of the talking and explaining was done by him.

Halloran emphatically denied that any men at present or at any time this season members of the Maroon nine took part in the game. He said, however, that he and three other former Fordham players, Bill McLaughlin, Tommy Fallon and Frank Marnell, were in the game. These men were Fordham uniforms which they had retained from past years.

With regard to the line-up which appeared in the Waterbury papers, Halloran admitted that it was he who gave it to the Waterbury manager and that it was also made up mostly of fictitious names.

As Gargan said Monday, he is going to leave nothing undone in his attempts to get at the bottom of the whole affair, and he is, therefore, going up to Waterbury this morning to confer with the management of the Waterbury club.

FORDHAM NINE WINS OVER CATHOLIC UNIV.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Fordham defeated Catholic University at baseball here today, 7 to 5, by timely hitting and clever base running, coupled with the locals' errors. It was a loosely played game, due in a great measure to a strong wind.

White, who pitched eight innings for the Maroon, and Clark, who went the route for Catholic University, both pitched creditable ball and the count would have been much smaller save for their erratic support.

When White got in a jam with none out in the ninth McNamara went to the slab and prevented scoring.

Four tallies in the seventh decided the issue in Fordham's favor. They came on one hit, three passes, a wild pitch, three stolen bases and a squeeze play.

175-pound Class—Charles McKenna, New York.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 18.—John Williams of the Olympic Club of San Francisco is the new heavyweight champion of the Amateur Athletic Union, having won the title tonight in an extra-round bout from Gordon Munce of the Pastime Athletic Club of New York. At the end of the extra round the judges disagreed and the referee awarded the championship to Williams. The bout was a rattling affair from beginning to end. Williams floored Munce in the first round, but the latter came back and was at his best in the second round, scoring heavily on the body.

Williams finished so strong that at the end of the third round the judges disagreed and the referee ordered an extra round. In this extra session Williams defeated Munce fairly, but the judges still were unable to agree and the referee awarded the title to the Pacific Coast boxer. This was Munce's first defeat in twenty-four straight contests.

Antrobus Gets Decision.

In the hastest mill of the evening, Billy Antrobus of Trinity Club was full of fight against the negro, Robinson in the 160 pound final. Robinson, however, showing signs of a sore hand. Antrobus had a badly cut eye when he started and Robinson opened it up in the first round. The New Yorker was the aggressor in the second round. The final round was about even, but Antrobus got the decision and the championship.

Twenty-four bouts were on the card for the finals, three in each of the eight classes. The only surviving former A. A. U. titleholder in the tournament tonight was Gordon Munce of the Pastime A. C. of New York.

The 112-pound class final was well earned by T. P. McManus, the fighting boilermaker of the way, and both Harry Marcus and McManus showing every disposition to lead. The Pittsburgh boxer was just able to hold his advantage over the Cleveland youngster in the last round. Marcus is a boy not yet in long trousers.

Sid Terris of New York won from Louis Raddy of Cleveland in the 118-pound final. He kept working for points for one round and looked very clever, as Raddy could not hit him. Terris was deserving of the great hand he got when the decision was awarded to the clever New York boy.

Comedy in 147-Pound Final.

Homer Robinson's first final was in the 175-pound class against Charley McKenna of St. Alphonsus, New York. Mac punished the negro with terrific body blows and had Robinson a bit groggy. Robinson was hit hard on the head in the second round. At the end of the round Robinson quit in order to save himself for the other class. He had hurt his hand.

Buster Ryan of the St. Jeromes and Harry Simons of Gary, Ind., had a great comedy bout in the 147-pound final. It was a chasing match and it was close to robbery to award the bout to Simons.

Tendler Claims Lightweight Championship From Leonard

PHILADELPHIA, April 18.—Declaring that he and Phil Glassman, his manager, had done everything in their power to arrange a match with Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, without success, Lew Tendler tonight issued a statement claiming the title and challenging any lightweight in the world to a match. Tendler declared that his name had been omitted from the list from which an opponent for Leonard was to be selected for a fight at Michigan City, Ind., July 4. "This," the statement said, "shows beyond question that Leonard deliberately has side-stepped the logical contender."

FITZSIMMONS WINS FROM COAST BOXER

Son of Former Champion Is Awarded Decision Over Reeves on Foul at Pioneer A. C.

Young Bob Fitzsimmons, son of the famous old fighter of that name, won on a foul from Jack Reeves, California light-heavyweight, last night, in the tenth round of their scheduled twelve-round bout, which was the feature attraction at the Pioneer A. C. Referee Eddie Purdy, after warning Reeves three times for his unintentional inaccurate hitting, disqualified the Coast boxer after 2 minutes 50 seconds of the tenth round. Up to the time of the disqualification Fitzsimmons was an easy winner on points. The New Jersey boxer held a commanding lead on points and appeared well on the road to victory.

Fitzsimmons showed an improvement over his most recent ring engagement here, but ringside critics were practically a unit in the conviction that the son of the famous old "Ruby Bob" has a long, hard road to travel before he develops into a boxer who will merit serious consideration as a championship prospect. Fitzsimmons's greatest improvement was in the use of his right hand. Against Fay Keiser several months ago, Fitzsimmons boxed entirely with his left, demonstrating that his starboard fin was useless. Last night, however, Fitzsimmons demonstrated that he is devoting attention to the development of his right. He was awkward with the punches he tried with the right and there was little positive direction to the blows, but they landed past the guard of Reeves and assisted in Fitzsimmons's accumulation of a one-sided margin in points. Otherwise Fitzsimmons fought a typical battle. He was relentless on the attack, forcing the fighting from the tap of the first gong until the disqualification. This speedy assault, remarkable in a boxer of Fitzsimmons's weight, more than anything else contributed to the New Jerseyman's apparently safe lead in points.

Fitzsimmons took eight of the nine completed rounds beyond question. He refused to permit Reeves a breathing spell. Under the circumstances the Coast boxer found it impossible to get "set," and since he was not of the type of boxer who is speedy of foot and hand, Reeve's efforts at assault were practically discounted. Gamely, Reeves stood up under the cutting, jabbing and hooking with the left to which Fitzsimmons subjected him. The Coast boxer sought doggedly to return his rival's fire, but the activity and speed of Fitzsimmons kept the New Jersey boxer in possession of the upper hand. Reeves lashed out wickedly with rights and lefts for the face or stomach as openings presented, but invariably Fitzsimmons would step back out of range, or jump to close quarters with a left jab or hook and thus avoid his rival's punches. In the sixth round Reeves punished Fitzsimmons about the body with a two-handed assault, but Fitzsimmons continued his attack, evidently unmindful of his rival's retaliation.

Reeves carried off the honors only in the ninth round. In this session he directed his blows to Fitzsimmons's body without variation, and punished the latter severe beating with both hands. Fitzsimmons gasped under the blows and his pace slackened, but Reeves was too tired to take advantage of the opportunity, and his blows for the jaw lacked the required direction. Fitzsimmons's consistent attack had Reeves's left eye puffed, his lips swollen and bruised, and the blood pouring from a cut under the right eye. Fitzsimmons was unmarked.

Fitzsimmons weighed 180 pounds and Reeves 170.

In the semi-final, scheduled for eight rounds, Sailor Tom Maxted of Newark knocked out Joe Johnson, Harlem heavyweight, in the first round. Referee Purdy stopped the battle after 2 minutes 20 seconds. In that short space Johnson was down five times.

Johnny Kirk, substituting for Earl France, carried off the decision over Joe Conn of England in the other eight-round bout.

GENARO DEFEATS WEXLER.

Former Amateur Champion Is Victor in Bout at Star Club.

Frankie Genaro of the west side, former international amateur flyweight champion, carried off the decision last night over Manny Wexler of the Bronx in the principal twelve-round bout at the Star Sporting Club. Genaro, exhibiting superior cleverness, carried off eleven of the twelve rounds. In only the fourth session did Wexler appear to advantage. Genaro stung his rival with a wicked right to the jaw in the ninth round, and for a time it appeared as if the former international amateur would score a decisive victory. Wexler recovered quickly, however, and stood up under the battering to which he was subjected. In the tenth round a right opened a cut over Wexler's left eye and the flow of blood from this wound bothered Wexler to the final bell.

In the other twelve-round bout Sol Seaman won the decision over Joe Leopold, Denver featherweight. Leopold rallied strongly in the three closing rounds and battered his rival before him in a furious attack, but the outburst could not overcome Seaman's early lead in points.

WILLIE SINGER WINS BOUT.

Knocks Out Herman Singer in Special Contest at St. Lucy's Club.

Willie Singer of the Ninety-second Street Y. M. H. A., State amateur featherweight champion, scored a knockout last night over Herman Singer, Glencoe A. C., in a special bout of the boxing tournament of St. Lucy's Club. In another special bout Mike Kawalski, Holy Name Catholic Club, got the decision in three rounds over Dan Sheppard of Lenox Hill Settlement.

In the Singer-Singer contest, Willie forced the fighting from the start, and had Herman puzzled with his swift attack. A succession of sharp jabs to the stomach go weakened the Glencoe boxer in the first round that only the bell saved him. In the second round Herman, although game, was twice dropped by Willie, and after a minute of fighting the referee stopped the bout.

So many preliminary rounds were on the program that the fifth one was not fought out until well toward the morning hours. The finals will be staged tomorrow.

Catcher Now Chief of Police.

WICHITA FALLS, Texas, April 16.—J. W. McCormick, catcher with the St. Louis Nationals in 1913, was elected Chief of Police here last night. As a Texas Ranger he has been on duty in and about Wichita Falls for three years.

DEMPSEY IS WILDLY GREETED IN ENGLAND

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 18.—Towering by head and shoulders above all around him, smiling and joking with all who came near him, Jack Dempsey was this afternoon forced by two policemen through the crowd that awaited him at Waterloo Station to his taxicab. Cheers followed him as he drove away to the Savoy Hotel.

So far, his impressions of England have been one continued struggle with friendly followers of pugilism and newspaper reporters and he has been hustled in the endeavor to welcome him as he never was hustled in the ring. It began as the Aquitania docked at Southampton. Joe Beckett, though a resident of the port, did not come to meet him, but Kid Lewis and Boy McCormick were prominent among those who had been waiting for him for hours at the quay.

The Dolly sisters leaned over the side of the liner and waved to the crowd. "Jack's in his cabin," they called, and Bernard Mortimer, Dempsey's European manager, answered back. Then the champion himself appeared in an aperture in the ship's side on one of the lower decks accompanied by two sailors.

Great Rush for Dempsey.

A great cheer went up and the moment the gangway was put down the rush of pugilists, fight promoters, reporters and photographers began which nearly swept the ordinary passengers of the Aquitania off their feet. Dempsey was cornered at last, and he stood smiling and chatting with all who could force their way near him, evidently enjoying the welcome he received.

Dempsey was in the best of health, and passengers spoke enthusiastically of how popular he had made himself on the trip. He had played with the children with gloves on every day to please the women and given the men tips on how to keep fit, with and without apparatus. The only man who seemed dubious about him was the wine steward, for Dempsey's account came to only 70 cents for three bottles of lager, and he smoked nothing at all.

At Waterloo, Descamps, manager of Carpentier, was waiting, the French champion being prevented from coming by an engagement at Manchester, and among the English sporting lights were Major Wilson Douglas Stewart and George Macdonald. Before the train came in, THE NEW YORK TIMES reporter asked Descamps if he intended to arrange a fight between Dempsey and Carpentier. A long, slow, eloquent shrug of his shoulders was the only reply.

As Dempsey stepped from the train he saw Descamps and reached over the heads of the crowd to grasp his hand, but there was no opportunity for any connected talk.

Has No Idea of Fighting.

Later on at his hotel Dempsey said: "I am over here for three weeks, a month, perhaps more, I don't know; but my idea is not that of fighting. Some talk may crop up of a fight. If it does we shall listen and we shall be interested, but my notion is to see a week of London, go on to Paris, maybe Berlin, and places like that—Scotland and Ireland, too—and lay round till we are tired of a place, then move along. I am in real good shape. I have been working hard straight through the trip and feel fine, but I have no plans for any fight. All I want to do is just to enjoy every day of this holiday."

Asked who there was in England whom he could meet, Dempsey said there was, of course, Beckett, and he added: "I would like to meet Carpentier again. Carpentier is one of the finest, pluckiest fighters I've ever met and is also a very good fellow."

JOHANN ADVANCES; SLOANE ELIMINATED

Two Matches in Poggenburg Cup Billiard Tourney Result Decisively.

In the continuation of the 18.2 balk-line handicap play for the Poggenburg Cup which has been in progress at the Recreation Billiard Academy in Brooklyn one player last night improved his position in the scramble to get into the finals, and one was eliminated.

Joseph R. Johann, in Class C, who had won two games and lost none, improved his credit balance by defeating Sidney Brussel, also in Class C. The score in this game was 125 for Johann to 87 for Brussel. The latter is not entirely out of the running but as he had lost one game previously the outlook for him is not rosy. The match between Johann and Brussel had gone along in rather a hit-and-miss fashion for twenty-seven innings when the former accumulated 39 buttons in three sessions to go out with an unfinished run. Johann's high run was 24, and Brussel's 14.

The player to be eliminated was Cyril Sloane, a Class C man, who had broken into tournament play this year. Sloane went down before the cue of C. P. Mathews, in Class B, by the score of 175 to 82. Although Sloane by reason of his rating had to make a total of only 125 he was never a serious contender. Mathews had a high run of 60 in this game, one of the best accumulations of the tourney to date.

The players tonight will be Louis A. Serrantino and George W. Spear, in Class C, and C. P. Mathews, Class B, vs. Charles J. Steinbugler, a Class C contender.

RYAN INCREASES LEAD.

Wins Two Games in Met. Three-Cushion Title Tourney.

A. V. Ryan, who has been leading in the Metropolitan three-cushion championship tournament at the Broadway Billiard Academy, further strengthened his position last night by winning two games. Ryan has now won five matches, and has one to play, and there is little likelihood that the title can be kept out of his hands.

In his first game last night, Ryan defeated George Kirsh, 3 to 18, despite the fact that the loser got a high run of six. Ryan's best cluster was four. The tourney leader took the second encounter even more easily, overwhelming R. W. Hand, 50 to 6.

The game tonight will be between John Mills and George Royce.

Lewis and Daviscourt Are Ready.

BOSTON, April 18.—Ed (Strangler) Lewis, world's champion, and Dick Daviscourt, who gave the titleholder one of the hardest bouts he ever went through, finished their training today for their championship bout tomorrow night at the Arena. Daviscourt was substituted for Jimmy Landon. They will go to a finish tomorrow, best two out of three falls.

Jim Jeffries to Referee Bouts At Benefit for Ad Wolgast

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—Jim Jeffries, former world's heavyweight champion pugilist, will referee some of the bouts at a benefit to be held at the Vernon arena here next Saturday night for Ad Wolgast, former world's lightweight titleholder. Joe Rivers, Leach Cross, Jack Root, Billy Papke, Kid McCoy and several other "old timers" have volunteered their services, according to Jack Boyle, local sportsman, who is sponsoring the event.

N.-S. SHOOT HONORS TO MOREHEAD CLAN

Members of Family Win Two Events and Aid in Giving South Lead in Team Match.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 18.—The family of Colonel John Motley Morehead monopolized the honors in today's second session of the North and South trapshooting tournament at Pinehurst.

Colonel Morehead, shooting from the 20-yard line, won the North and South handicap this afternoon on the second shoot-off of a tie at 91 with two shorter distance contenders. His son-in-law, H. A. Morson, amateur champion of the State, was high gun in the forenoon 16-yard event, with 91 breaks to his credit, and won the 400 target contest by a margin of three birds over the field.

These two nimrods, with the aid of the Colonel's son, John Lathrop Morehead, were also chiefly responsible for the ten-target lead by which the Southern team has outshot the Northern leaders to date in the sectional team contest.

The only contestant outside of the Morehead family to gather in a major prize today was A. W. Montgomery, the South Carolina youngster who outshot the field in the doubles contest yesterday, and who did it again today, dropping only two targets out of the ten pairs thrown. Montgomery, who also tied with Colonel Morehead for the lead in the North and South Handicap today, is new at the game and has in fact taken part in only one other tournament.

Martin McVoy Jr., of the New York Athletic Club, joined the shoot today and finished one target behind the winner, Morson, in the 16-yard event. McVoy, whose 96 was good for the Class A Lewis system trophy, was followed by B. V. Covert of Lockport, N. Y., who had 94 breaks to his credit.

J. Mowell Hawkins of New Haven, all-round professional champion of the Eastern zone, broke 98 in this event and led the professional field which shot for targets only.

The North and South Handicap resulted in a triple tie for the lead at 91 among Colonel Morehead, shooting from 20 yards; Norwood Johnston of Pittsburgh, who shot at 19 yards, and A. W. Montgomery of Spartanburg, placed at the 18-yard mark. All three broke 19 of the 20 targets thrown in the first shoot-off and Morehead won the handicap trophy on the second shoot-off by breaking 20 straight against 19 for Johnston and 18 for Montgomery.

Martin McVoy, shooting from the maximum distance, 21 yards, broke only 86 in this event, but made a good day of it by finishing two targets from the top in the closing doubles event.

The money winners in the 400-target race, comprising Monday's 16-yard event and Introductory Handicap, and Tuesday's 16-yards event and North and South Handicap:

H. A. Morson, Charlotte, 184, 184—368; J. Lathrop Morehead, Charlotte, 182, 182—364; Colonel J. Motley Morehead, Charlotte, 175, 184—359; U. R. Brooks, Columbia, 185, 170—355; B. V. Covert, Lockport, N. Y., 181, 180—361; Norwood Johnston, Pittsburgh, 175, 179—354.

| J. M. Morehead | 93 | B. V. Covert | 94 |
| J. L. Morehead | 93 | Norwood Johnston | 88 |

RUDDY LOWERS RECORD.

Creates New N. Y. A. C. Pool Mark for 200 Yards Breast Stroke.

Stephen Ruddy, local 200-yard breast stroke swim champion, created a new pool record last night in the annual members' swimming meet of the New York A. C. The crack Mercury Foot swimmer, competing from scratch in a 100-yard breast stroke race, won in 1:14 1-5 seconds, displacing his own best previous time for the distance. He finished with a comfortable margin ahead of Leo Glebel, who was allowed a start of five seconds. Henry Glebel, brother of Leo, who started off the 14-second handicap mark, finished third.

Ruddy will leave tomorrow night for Pittsburgh, where he will strive for the national 220-yard breast stroke championship title on Saturday night.

Handicaps proved the undoing of Leeming Jellliffe, Yale swimming captain in a 100-yard swim. Jellliffe finished out of the prize places in this event, in which he was on scratch. Joseph Rusell, who was allowed 12 seconds, was the winner, by a close margin over Leo Glebel, who went off the 3-second mark. The winner's time was 1:04 1-5.

Teams named the Whites and the Blues battled to a 2 to 2 tie in a water soccer game.

Swimming Events.

Fancy Diving Contest—Won by J. F. Dunn, with 88 points; George Daum, with 86.9 points, second; E. Halbach, 83.4 points, third.

100-Yard Breast Stroke Swim, Handicap—Won by Stephen Ruddy (scratch); Leo Glebel (5 seconds), second; Henry Glebel (14 seconds), third. Time—1:18 1-5. (New pool record.)

100-Yard Swim, Handicap—Won by Joseph Russell (12 seconds); Leo Glebel (8 seconds), second; M. J. Duryea (15 seconds), third. Time—1:04 1-5.

N. Y. A. C. TEAM VICTORIOUS.

Ripley and McCoy Take Match in Met. Handball Tourney.

The New York Athletic Club's handball team composed of R. Ripley and H. McCoy won its second round match in the Metropolitan A. A. U. championship tournament last night on the Pastime A. C. courts, defeating the Lennon brothers of the Pastime Club in straight games by the score of 21—18 and 21—19. Other teams winning in the second round were Butler and Bostwick, Trinity Club, and Adams and Brady, Pastime A. C. The tournament will be obntinued tonight.

The summaries:

First Round—C. Fullbin and M. Horgan, Pastime A. C., defeated A. De Transace and G. De Transco, Holy Name Boys' Club, 21—4, 21—13; R. Butler and J. Bostwick, Trinity Club, defeated M. Vernon and St. Dowling, New York A. C., 21—5, 21—18.

Second Round—Butler and Bostwick defeated W. Schwartz and J. Van Clumenberg, Eastern District Y. M. C. A., 21—4, 21—16; W. Adams and G. Brady, Pastime A. C., defeated C. Dargo and W. Barry, Lenthlin [illegible]; R. Ripley and H. McCoy, New York A. C., defeated [illegible]; Lennon, Pastime A. C.,

YALE CREW CAPTAIN ORDERS FOUR SHIFTS

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., April 18.—Captain Langhorne Gibson of the Yale crew today ordered four changes in the boating as a result of the triple Eli defeat on the Schuylkill last Saturday by the University of Pennsylvania. John Freeman, who stroked the regulars against Pennsylvania and who was stroke of the Yale crew which defeated Harvard over the four-mile course at New London last June, retired, Ward Cheney replacing him. Cheney sat at No. 2 in the second Yale crew last week and stroked the Yale second crew against Harvard last year. He was captain and stroke of the Yale freshmen crew three seasons ago. Fred Sheffield, who rowed No. 4 last Saturday, was replaced by Walter L. Goodwin Jr. Both rowed on the freshman eight last season. Littler, No. 3 last Saturday, was succeeded by Haines of the second eight, while Leslie, bow oar, was replaced by Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, who rowed bow in the second shell at Philadelphia and was also bow in the second boat at New London last June.

John Freeman, the former varsity stroke, went to the 150-pound eight in the same seat. He stroked the 150-pound crew last year at the American Henley. The Yale rowing squad today reported at the Housatonic, holding both morning and afternoon workouts. Special emphasis was laid on the finish of the stroke, all the Yale crews having shown a tendency to shorten the pull through the water in their races last Saturday.

The varsity seating for the present will be:

Bow, Whitney; No. 2, Ellis; No. 3, Haines; No. 4, Goodwin; No. 5, Captain Gibson; No. 6, Rockefeller; No. 7, Haldeman; stroke, Cheney; coxswain, Chase.

Seventy-Eight Distance Men Will Start in Annual 25-Mile Classic Today.

BOSTON, April 18.—Seventy-eight men of many nationalities and occupations were ready tonight for the twenty-fifth running of the American Marathon tomorrow over the twenty-five-mile Ashland-to-Boston course. The field will be the strongest that ever ran in the classic.

It seemed probable tonight that the runners would have a cold westerly wind at their backs at the crack of the starter's gun tomorrow noon. The course, which covers an undulating countryside, was put into good condition today by light showers.

Six former winners are entered, including Frank Zuna, a plumber from Newark, N. J., who last year broke the record when he ran the twenty-five miles in 2:18:57 2-5. Other former winners will attempt to repeat are Peter Trivoulides, the New York Greek, winner in 1920 and third place man last year; Carl W. A. Linder of the Boston Athletic Association, 1919; Edouard Fabre of Montreal, 1915; William J. Kennedy, Morningside A. C., New York, 1917, and C. G. De Mar of Dorchester, 1911.

Nine of the first ten finishers in 1921 will be in the line-up tomorrow.

TWO SCHEDULES APPROVED.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., April 18.—The two minor sport schedules, tennis and golf, were ratified by the Dartmouth Athletic Council here today. The court list contains eleven matches, as well as the New England intercollegiate championships, in which both singles and doubles titles are now held by Dartmouth. Eight dual meets and the national intercollegiates comprise the golf list.

RAIN PREVENTS PLAY.

Matches in Greenbrier Tennis Tourney Are Postponed.

Special to The New York Times.

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va., April 18.—Rain, which was general over the Blue Ridge Mountains, made it impossible to continue play at the Spring tournament of the Greenbrier Tennis Club on the courts at the Greenbrier Hotel today.

RICE UNABLE TO COMPETE.

Says He Cannot Play in East vs. West Tennis Tournament.

NEWTON, Mass., April 18.—Lawrence Rice, the Longwood Cricket Club tennis star, today notified Julian S. Myrick, President of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, that he would be unable to go to San Francisco to participate in the East and West tournament on May 6 and 7. Rice had been picked to play with William T. Tilden 2d, to represent the East.

In his letter he said that a recent operation had left him weak and that his physician advised him to play no tennis for a month.

Canadians to Tour England Under Norman Seagram as Captain.

Special to The New York Times.

TORONTO, Ont., April 18.—Arrangements have been completed for an English tour of Canadian cricketers under the captaincy of Norman Seagram. The party will leave Montreal for Southampton on Wednesday, July 19, aboard the steamship Melita. Six players were members of the Canadian Zingarie eleven which toured England in the season of 1910 under the captaincy of W. J. Fleury.

The members of the team will be as follows:

D. W. Saunders, Toronto C. C.; G. E. D. Greene, Toronto C. C.; L. V. Harper, Toronto C. C. and St. Catherines, Ontario; A. M. Ingles, Toronto C. C.; C. V. Mustard, Westmount (Montreal); P. E. # OLYMPUS DEFEATS BONIFACE BY HEAD

MY PLAY SCORES VICTORY

Full Brother of Man o' War Graduates From Maiden Class—Rialto Purse for Trevelyan.

Special to The New York Times.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 18.—Harry Payne Whitney's highly touted gelding Olympus won brackets in his first start as a three-year-old here this afternoon, but the son of Royal Eagle was quite well aware for some time afterward that he had been in a horse race, for he had to give his best to gain the veteran campaigner Boniface by a head. The event that called these choice horses to the barrier was the Delaware Handicap, at a mile and seventy yards, and, aside from the two mentioned, only Polly Ann and Bunga Buck accepted the issue, and both of them were outclassed.

As a two-year-old Olympus ran with the first flight of infant racers, but his only victory was gained at Aqueduct, where he nosed Mustard Seed out of a purse and beat, among others, William M. and Violinist. Flattering prophecies concerning his three-year-old form have not been lacking, and they caused the colt to be installed an even-money favorite today, with the sterling Boniface, carrying 120 pounds, as against 108 for Olympus, rated as second choice.

When Starter Milton released the field Penman, who had the mount on the Whitney entry, took him out to make the pace, which he did throughout. Boniface was outrun in the early stages, but saved ground later and made a game and persistent challenge in the last furlong. Only a good ride by Penman saved the younger racer, for the Ross entrant was gaining at every stride as the pair flashed past the judges. Polly Ann was third, eight lengths behind Boniface.

My Play, the Lexington Stable's full brother of Man o' War, recorded the first victory of his short life in the third race, a five-and-a-half-furlong sprint for maiden three-year-olds. The son of Fair Play and Mahubah appeared to outclass the others in the field of fifteen so far that 9 to 20 was the scant reward returned to those who backed him in the mutuel pools.

Another close finish characterized the Rialto Purse, a six-furlong dash for three-year-olds, run as the fourth event on the card. Walter J. Salmon furnished the victor in this race in Trevelyan, a son of Trevisco, which was a winner here last season as a two-year-old.

Sangrail, Outsider in Betting, Wins Metropolitan Stakes

LONDON, April 18.—Joseph Benson's four-year-old chestnut colt Sangrail, by Saintol out of Maris Lloyd, an outsider in the betting, easily won the great Metropolitan Stakes today from a field of sixteen starters. G. J. Plevin's five-year-old chestnut gelding Flint Jack, by Rock Flint out of Country Girl, beat R. Day's Adorna for second place by a head. An accident marred the finish, when the favorite, Sir George Bullough's Le Roi, fell and Elliott, who had the mount on the fallen favorite, was injured.

TIGERS GAIN EASY LACROSSE VICTORY

Play Harvard for First Time in More Than Thirty Years —Score Is 9-3.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., April 18.—Princeton easily defeated Harvard at Lacrosse here this afternoon by the score of 9 to 3 in the first contest of its kind between the two universities in more than thirty years. Each team registered twice in the first half, but in the second period the Tigers ran away from the Crimson, netting seven goals while the visitors were counting only one.

Eddie Stinson, the Orange and Black leader, put up a whirlwind game throughout, roving all over the field and tallying twice. Bill Hoffman led the individual scoring with three successful shots.

Dallinger of Harvard hurt his knee in the second half and was forced out of the game. In the absence of the referee, Coach Nies of Princeton and Coach Catton of Harvard took turns in that capacity.

The line-up:

| PRINCETON (9.) | | HARVARD (3.) |
|---|---|---|
| Hubbell | P. | Kantor |
| Alford | C. P. | Roullard |
| Stinson | 1 D. | Webber |
| McKenney | 3 D. | Hardy |
| Wood | C. | Bragger |
| Marden | 3 A. | Young |
| Dittmar | 1 A. | Thomas |
| Buford | O. H. | Treanor |
| Stinson | I. H. | Cole |

Substitutions—Princeton: Winfield for McKenney, Poe for Porter, Porter for Poe. Harvard: Jackson for Thomas, Gallop for Dallinger, Schafreen for Hardy.

Midshipmen to Have Finely Equipped Swimming Pool.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 18.—Work will begin about July 1 at the Naval Academy on one of the finest swimming pools in existence, which will fill a great need at the institution. The present pool is inadequate for the regular instruction in swimming, and has to be used also for other sports, including water polo and indoor crew work.

The new structure will provide seats for nearly 2,000 persons. The pool will be 60 by 75 feet, so that distances based upon both 20 and 25 yards can be swum. It is expected that quatic sports will be given a great impetus by the pool, which will be ready for use by next Winter.

In spite of the inadequate facilities the Midshipmen were second only to Yale in swimming last season and had an undefeated water polo team.

N. Y. A. C. GOLFERS TO HAVE TWO LINKS

Winged Foot Club Buys 280 Acres at Mamaroneck for 36-Hole Course.

The metropolitan golf district, already a veritable network of golf courses, is about to be further enriched by a thirty-six hole layout which, when completed, will be one of the finest to be found anywhere in the country and one that will adapt itself admirably to championships in these days of swollen entry lists.

Announcement came from the New York Athletic Club yesterday to the effect that the Winged Foot Golf Club, made up of golf devotees belonging to the famous athletic organization on Fifty-ninth Street, had signed a contract with C. C. Lewis & Bros. for the purchase of Altonwood Park, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and the construction of two eighteen-hole golf courses, both to be ready for play in June, 1923. Altonwood Park, located about six and one-half miles from the New York Athletic Club's Summer home at Travers Island, comprises about 280 acres of land which is said to be admirably suited to the purpose for which it will be used. It has been a private estate for more than fifty years and, according to A. W. Tillinghast, the architect who has been engaged to lay out the courses, the soil conditions are extremely favorable; so good in fact that real turf will adorn the fairways and greens in a reasonably short time.

The clubhouse will be located on a knoll, overlooking Long Island Sound, and will be about three-quarters of a mile from the Mamaroneck railroad station.

Charles C. Nobles, President of the new club, stated yesterday that as soon as possible the club would go after several of the larger events in the golf world, including metropolitan as well as national events. In talking over the situation with Mr. Tillinghast a few days ago I mentioned that by 1925 we would be in a position to make a try for several of the more prominent events," said Mr. Nobles yesterday. "I was informed, however, that in all likelihood there would be no particular reason for waiting that long. Both courses will be of championship calibre, with a maximum length of approximately 6,500 yards. We are planning to have large tees which will permit of our having varying lengths to suit almost all conditions."

Work already has been started and the membership in the new organization will be limited to 600, thereby avoiding a crowded condition on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. According to the present indications, the membership limit will soon be reached. Although there has been no real campaign for members, the ranks are filling rapidly.

The officers of the club are as follows: President, Charles C. Nobles; Vice President, N. W. Peters; Secretary, E. L. Engel; Treasurer, F. C. Gabriel; Governors, M. P. Halpin, Harry J. Doherty, Sefton Tranter, W. C. Foertner, W. A. Hines, J. H. Mulchay, E. D. Engel, F. C. Gabriel, N. W. Peters and C. C. Nobles.

So far as is known, the New York Athletic Club will be the only organization of its kind in the country to possess its own golf course. With two eighteen-hole layouts available, it will be in a position to seek championship tournaments, for, in addition to being admirably located, it will in itself solve many of the problems that confront golf officials as a result of the ever-increasing fields in championship competitions. It will mean that, even with the top-heavy fields of the present, qualifying rounds may be run off in a single day, using the two courses, under ideal conditions.

Although the ranks of the Mercury Foot organization have been filled with golfers for several years, there was no active organization until two years ago, the members playing one-day tournaments at the various clubs in the metropolitan area throughout the season. Among the better known players who are in the ranks at the present time are Theodore Cassabeer, former Chairman of the Metropolitan Golf Association Handicap Committee; A. E. Rainey and Harold Richard. Hamilton Kerr of the Garden City Golf Club, one of the best amateur players in the district, is a member of the athletic club, as are several other players of note.

The club has announced that it will start this year's activities on May 16 with a one-day tournament at the Belleclaire Golf and Country Club, Bayside, L. I.

FAVOR THREE-DAY TEST.

Golfers Here for P. G. A. Meeting Like Plan to Be Used at Skokie.

Members of the Professional Golfers' Association who convened here for the regular session of the Executive Committee expressed themselves as being well satisfied with the regulations which will govern the national open championship to be played at the Skokie Club, Chicago, July 10 to 14. George Sargent, professional of the Scioto Country Club, Columbus, Ohio, who came East for the meeting, declared that the arrangements which call for a three-day qualifying test will be far superior to the conditions that prevailed at the Columbia Country Club, Washington, D. C., last year.

Ernest Anderson of the Lawrence Park Golf Club, Bronxville, the secretary of the P. G. A., said yesterday that the only objection that he could see to the plan would be that it would prolong the event an extra day.

The conditions this year call for each of the three sections to play thirty-six holes, the best twenty-four and ties each day to continue for the championship proper. Entries for the event will close Wednesday, July 5, at 6 o'clock, Eastern time, and no post entries will be accepted.

HARNESS CLASSES FEATURE.

Many Entries for Brooklyn Horse Show Which Opens Tonight.

An unexpectedly large entry list has been received for the thirtieth annual Brooklyn Horse Show, which opens this evening at the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, and it has been found necessary for this reason to add a matinee on Friday afternoon. The exhibition will continue through Saturday evening. Intersectional rivalry will be strong, and there will be keen competition between the Eastern and Western owners for the ribbons. Three stakes of $1,000 each have been offered for saddle horses, harness horses and hunters, and the total entry is nearly one thousand.

The Brooklyn show will witness a marked revival in the harness classes, not the least important of which will be the tandems, which had rather fallen from public favor for a time. They will contest for a $1,000 stake and the Brooklyn Eagle Cup. In this event will appear John L. Bushnell's The Governor and The Whip, the former a winner of the St. James Cup at the New York National. They will meet, among others, R. Lawrence Smith's Seaton Sylvia and Seaton Heronia, M. F. Murphy's Seaton Septimus and Seaton Middlemarch, and the Marlin Farm's Irvington Ganymede and Fairview Princess. In the other harness classes the entry is unusually large with four-in-hand coach horses, pairs and high steppers, which will meet for the $500 cup and the championships.

PLAYERS ARE SUSPENDED.

Schliebner and Steele Also Fined by Southern Association Head.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 18.—John D. Martin, President of the Southern Baseball Association, announced today that Players Schliebner and Steele of the Little Rock Club and Wiseffield of the Chattanooga team had been fined and suspended for five days for fighting during yesterday's game at Chattanooga.

Mr. Martin in a formal statement gave warning that rowdyism in this league will be dealt with in a drastic manner.

MISS STIRLING MADE HONORARY MEMBER

Former National Golf Champion May Represent Garden City Club.

Miss Alexa Stirling, the former Atlanta girl, who launched into a business career here after the last women's national championship at Hollywood, has been elected an honorary member of the Garden City Country Club and may represent that organization in the metropolitan and national events in which she will participate this season. The former national champion was not ready last night to announce definitely whether she would represent the Garden City organization, but it was stated that there was a strong possibility of her doing so.

Contrary to stories published to the effect that Miss Stirling's business career would prevent her from engaging in competitive golf this year, she will take part in both the metropolitan and the national championships and also in most of the affairs of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, and perhaps make an attempt to regain her title in the Canadian women's tournament, which will be held at Toronto Sept. 11 to 13.

The chances are that Miss Stirling will be unable to devote as much time to practice as she has in the past, but with her exceptional ability she will not require a great deal of preparation for the various tournaments. She has already played a few rounds and doubtless by the time of the metropolitan event at Morris County on May 22 to 27 she will be in condition to make a strong bid for the metropolitan championship, for which she will be competing for the first time. Her presence in that event, in which she will be opposed by such stars as Miss Marion Hollins, national women's champion and former holder of the title; Miss Georgianna Bishop and Mrs. W. A. Gavin, the present champion, in the event that the latter decides to return to defend her title, will give the event considerable of a national tint.

Her presence will also give the metropolitan women an little added strength in the Griscom Cup matches to be held at the Westchester-Biltmore course on June 9 and 10. The metropolitan team has not been successful in this event since 1910, when the local players won at Apawamis. Last year and the year before that they were runners up, Boston taking the honors at Brookline last season and Philadelphia being the winner in 1920. The New York team has won the cup only four times since the competition started in 1902, but with two such stars as Miss Stirling and Miss Hollins this year, it looks as if the other districts would have a hard time keeping the title from coming to New York.

Miss Stirling first sprang into fame as a golfer by winning the women's national championship at Belmont Springs in 1916. No championships were held in 1917 and 1918, but the following year she captured the honors again at Shawnee and repeated at Mayfield in 1920. In the same year, she won the Canadian women's championship. Last year she made the trip to the British tournament, but met with a reversal, losing to Miss Cecil Leitch, the titleholder, in the opening match. She was also defeated by the English girl in the French women's championship. Returning to America, she went to the final in the national women's championship, but went down in defeat at the hands of Miss Hollins.

SPAIN WINS AT TENNIS.

Beats British Team at Barcelona by Seven Matches to None.

BARCELONA, April 18.—A lawn tennis contest between teams of the British Isles and Spain, concluded here yesterday, resulted in a sweeping victory for Spain by seven matches to none.

In the final day's play F. Flaquer of Spain beat J. P. Baines 6—2, 6—4, 6—2; Sindrau of Spain beat C. G. N. Turnbull 3—6, 6—3, 6—3, 7—5; Gorman of Spain beat E. D. McCrea, 6—4, 6—1, 6—1; Manuel Alonso beat G. G. Lowe, 6—4, 6—7, 7—7, 3—6, 6—4. In the doubles Flaquer and J. Alonso of Spain beat Turnbull and Baines, 7—9, 3—6, 6—4, 11—9, 11—9.

NOT APPRECIABLE.

Senator HIRAM JOHNSON, having got bravely over the period when he cared everything for Progressivism and nothing for the tariff, is now perfectly delighted with the Senate bill. It brings the West into its own. For the first time, a Republican tariff gives to the West "real protection." It treats the noble wool growers and cattle raisers and lemon producers of the Western States "even generously." Accordingly, the California Senator overflows with praise of a measure which will "save those who have devoted their lives" to work on the farms and in the orchards and who now "require protection."

His interviewer raised with Senator JOHNSON the "miserable interrogatory" about the effect of the new duties on the cost of living. Doubtless it will be increased, he admitted, but "not appreciably." The idea evidently is that if we only keep still about it the consumer will never notice it. The taxes on wool will make his clothing cost more; on hides, his shoes; on beef and mutton and poultry and eggs and fruit, his food, but the stupid fellow will not "appreciate" the difference. Yet what fills Republican politicians with fear is the probability that even the densest consumer will find one party ballot differing "appreciably" from the other when he comes to elect Representatives and Senators next November.

RUTHFUL JAMES.

If a notorious guerrilla should exhibit proudly a pass signed by the Commander-in-Chief of the regular army eight or nine years ago, he wouldn't be any more comic than Senator JIM REED now is. Having fought Mr. WILSON'S Administration for years, having been practically cast out of the Democratic Party by the Missouri Democratic Convention in 1920, he wants to be renominated by both the Wilson Democrats and the anti-Wilson Democrats. What if he has been a political Bedouin of the Black Tents? Behold him in the most spotless of burnouses, a civilized Moor of the city, with testimonials of the Sultan's favor hung in a bag around his neck. The papers are frayed. The date is ancient. Still, he loves to show them.

It is no wonder that Mr. WILSON, who has had to write innumerable letters, should forget the entirely unimportant one sent to Mr. REED in 1913. The Administration was then only six or seven months old. Mr. REED hadn't yet displayed, save feebly and fitfully, his incomparable genius for pariah politics. The certificate of 1913, whatever its original value, is barred by the statute of limitations. Mr. REED'S inveterate insurgency has become known to everybody since then. The indiscreet conduct of Mr. REED'S friends in waving the old "recommend" has induced Mr. WILSON to give him a new "character." This is a work of art. Mr. WILSON correctly assumes that Mr. REED'S friends are trying to write a fraudulent endorsement by Mr. WILSON on Mr. REED'S candidacy.

He therefore gives this plain opinion of the Missouri swatter of things and persons in general:

> To those who have closely observed Mr. REED'S career in Washington he has shown himself incapable of sustained allegiance to any person or any cause. He has repeatedly forfeited any claim to my confidence that he may ever have been supposed to have, and I shall never willingly consent to any further association with him.

That is the "character" which Mr. WILSON gives to Mr. REED in April, 1922. If the Missouri Democrats want that kind of servant, that is the kind of servant they want.

THE RUSSO-GERMAN COUP.

The sudden disclosure of the signing of a treaty between the Russian and German delegates at Genoa has to be considered in two aspects. One relates to the manner of the agreement. This is distinctly bad and looks as if deliberately intended to make trouble. In diplomacy, as Lord PALMERSTON used to say, it is the "tone" which makes the song, and the Russo-German tone at Genoa could hardly have been worse. The announcement of the treaty came after various pretensions of the Germans and Russians had been rejected. The question of German reparations could not be got into the conference even by a side wind. The revision of the Versailles Treaty was absolutely ruled out. And the Russians had just been notified that their financial proposals were ridiculous and impossible, and had been asked to seek at once authority from Moscow to recognize Russian debts and to admit the obligation to pay for property of foreigners residing in Russia which had been confiscated or destroyed. This was the critical moment chosen by the Russian and German delegates to make public their treaty. They profess surprise at the sensation which it caused. But they could not have been so innocent as not to know that their course would necessarily be judged as provocative and as hostile to the entire spirit and purpose of the Genoa conference.

Turning from form to substance, the proposed treaty contains some provisions to which none can object. If Germany now chooses to establish friendly diplomatic and trade relations with Russia, that is her own affair. But other provisions are, as they stand, inadmissible. Article 4, for example, stipulates that the commercial relations between Russia and Germany shall be based on the principle of the most favored nation. But this is in violation of several of the economic clauses of the Versailles Treaty. By it Germany bound herself to make "no discrimination against the commerce of any of the Allied and Associated States as compared with any "others of the said States, or any "other foreign country." Moreover, Article 260 of the Versailles Treaty obligated Germany to turn over to the Reparations Commission "any rights "and interests of German nationals in "any public utility undertaking or in "any concession operating in Russia." These rights and interests the new treaty would quietly wipe out. Still more sinister is the statement in Article 2 of the Russo-German Treaty that Germany renounces all claims against the Soviet Government, "provided the Soviet Government shall "not satisfy similar claims made by "any third State." This looks directly to offering German aid to the Soviet Government in resisting the demands made by England, France, Italy and, it may be added, the United States. A mischievous intent could hardly be clearer. On the other hand, if the Governments mentioned do make good their claims upon Russia for damages done to their citizens, then Germany will be in a position to slip out of the obligation which she has ostensibly assumed.

The matter could not be left where the Germans and Russians sought to place it. The delegates of Great Britain and France and Italy and of the Little Entente have adopted strong resolutions condemning Germany for her breach of faith and notifying her that she is to be excluded from all further discussions of the Russian question. The French are indignant, but feel at the same time that their suspicion of the Germans and the Russians has been fully justified. For Mr. LLOYD GEORGE the turn of events is particularly trying. He had risked much to pose as the magnanimous champion of German and Russian industrial restoration. But his very protégés are now doing their best to trip him up. And England in taking a firm position regarding the claims of foreigners upon the Soviet Government will be in line with the contentions made by the United States. The notes written by Secretary COLBY and by Secretary HUGHES leave this beyond all doubt. In his communication a month ago, when declining to take part in the Genoa conference, Mr. HUGHES said with the utmost directness that, in the view of this Government, the conditions precedent to economic recovery in Russia "cannot be "secured until adequate action is "taken on the part of those chiefly "responsible for Russia's present economic disorder."

Events at Genoa have strikingly confirmed the sagacity of the forecast made by Mr. HUGHES. In the letter just mentioned he stated his conclusion that there could not be merely an economic conference at Genoa, but that it would be "rather a conference "of a political character in which the "Government of the United States "could not helpfully participate." Other Governments may be either glad or sorry that they are represented at Genoa, but it certainly is a subject for congratulation that Secretary HUGHES foresaw the danger and prevented this country from falling into it. This does not mean that we can or should hold ourselves aloof from the large consequences of what has been done at Genoa. If really effective efforts are to be made to rebuild the economic structure of Europe, the United States will have to share in the work. Take the greatest need of Russia. It is invested capital. Germany, under the new treaty or apart from it, cannot possibly supply the funds required. Should she pretend that she can, the Reparations Commission will have some searching questions to ask of her! If the present flurry soon passes and discussion of large financial projects is revived, the United States cannot be merely a disinterested spectator. As Secretary HUGHES declared, our Government "must take a deep interest in any "conference which holds promise of "effective measures to promote the "economic rehabilitation of Europe." That truth stands good for today and next month and next year. We should bide our time, but not think it possible to hold ourselves permanently detached.

HOLDING ON IN SIBERIA.

For some nine months Japanese delegates have been negotiating at Dairen with representatives of the Far Eastern Republic about the evacuation of Vladivostok. "Evacuation of Siberia" is the usual phrase, but apparently the evacuation of Sakhalin and the lower Amur region has never been seriously discussed at Dairen. Every few weeks we have had Tokio dispatches announcing the conclusion of an agreement which would be followed by Japanese evacuation; soon after we have had dispatches from Tokio announcing the break-up of the conference.

The latest report of final and hopeless disagreement seems serious. Japan has withdrawn her delegates from Dairen because Chita brought in proposals that seemed to nullify agreements already reached. So runs the Japanese version, but the Chita Government has maintained ever since the negotiations began that Japan really wanted economic concessions that would give her virtual control of the resources of Russia's coast provinces. There seems some support for this in the criticism of Japanese papers, which hold that their Government has seemed to be trying to get economic compensation for the withdrawal of troops.

At any rate, the negotiations have been broken off and more Japanese soldiers are going to Siberia. The Government's assurance that they are reliefs and not reinforcements may be accepted, provisionally, at its face value; for Japan already has as many troops at Vladivostok as is necessary. But apparently the Imperialists again have the upper hand. A strong party in the Japanese Government would like to get out of Vladivostok on reasonable terms and try to make friends of the Siberians. The Japanese Army prefers to stay on. For the moment the army seems to have won. Japan is still in Siberia, and the longer she stays there the more trouble she is likely to have in the not distant future.

B. R. T. OVERCROWDING.

Not many years ago Canarsie, on Jamaica Bay, was an inaccessible salt-water suburb of Brooklyn, where only oystermen and fisher folk lived. It was all marsh grass and creeks, with footpaths and plank bridges connecting the very much detached frame houses and shacks. A middle-aged man may remember what a theme Canarsie was for the cartoonists and the paragraphers. But Canarsie is now built up and metropolitan. What it pays for the distinction was told at a hearing of the Transit Commission on Monday. Residents, for the most part, are now bread-winners in Brooklyn and Manhattan. The Brooklyn Rapid Transit carries them to their toil and home again. And lest any of them be late a special steel car has been constructed to hold all who can fight their way in through convenient doors which spring open and shut when a button is pressed. What the human frame can endure in the way of compression may be seen any afternoon between 5 and 6 o'clock. To suffer and be strong and smile about it is a habit that Greater New York has cultivated, with the approval of the Interborough and the Brooklyn Rapid Transit.

At the hearing DARIUS A. MARSH, who appeared for the B. R. T., boasted of the standing space in its steel cars. People traveled seatless with less discomfort than in the Interborough coaches, he said. "You mean," he was asked, "that you can pack them in easier?" The B. R. T. cars are well provided with iron posts to aid patrons in maintaining a perpendicular position. The reply was:

> Yes, if you want to put it that way. They have to be packed in at certain hours. The cars were built with the idea that people would have to stand, and they always will have to stand in the rush hours.

The art of B. R. T. subway car building is to furnish a minimum of seats, in fringes and cosy corners, and a maximum of standing room, with enough doors for quick filling and step-lively exit. An inspector for the Transit Commission produced figures to show in the rush hours the following B. R. T. results: Canarsie trains of five cars, 320 per cent. loads; Jamaica trains of seven cars, 218 per cent. loads; Myrtle Avenue trains of seven cars, 301 per cent. loads; East New York short line trains of seven cars, 231 per cent. loads; 111th Street short line trains of seven cars, 183 per cent. loads. It was brought out that six trains going toward Manhattan from Myrtle and Marcy Avenue stations between 7 and 7:30 A. M. on March 8 carried 7,920 passengers, for whom there were 2,720 seats. In the homeward rush on the Canarsie line four five-car trains with 1,600 seats carried 5,120 passengers. This is what may be called the high standing mark, which even the Interborough cannot emulate.

Judge SHEARN, counsel for the Transit Commission, declares that, so far as Brooklyn is concerned, the overloading of cars is due to the city's failure to put the Fourteenth Street-Eastern District subway into operation. But there is more to be said. Inspectors' figures prove that both the Interborough and the B. R. T. have been skimping on cars in the rush and the non-rush hours, and the intervals between trains have been slightly increased. Patrons are ground between the transportation companies and the City Government. The Transit Commission may be hard put to it to provide the relief it promises with a service order.

JOHN FOORD.

The names of most journalists are writ in water. Each inexorable day eats its predecessor, and even the most brilliant achievements of the craft are soon hardly more than a nebulous memory. JOHN FOORD, one of the soundest and most accomplished journalists of the last generation and of this, was, besides, averse to fame and clothed with an invincible modesty. His name doesn't appear in "Who's Who." A Scotchman, with the shrewdness, judgment and quiet energy of his race, he joined the staff of THE NEW YORK TIMES in 1869. He acquired a thorough knowledge of our devious municipal affairs in the Consulship of Tweed. His articles analyzing the evidence of fraud revealed by Controller CONNOLLY'S books were masterpieces of lucid exposition and induction. Much of the success of THE TIMES'S memorable exposure of the Ring was due to JOHN FOORD.

As an editorial writer he brought force and knowledge to the discussion of many topics, especially financial and commercial. From 1876 to 1883 he was the competent editor-in-chief, sympathetic to his associates, faithful to the honorable traditions of this journal, steady to the public interest. To The Brooklyn Standard-Union, to Harper's Weekly, to The Journal of Commerce, of which he was long a contributing editor, he gave the same unselfish and fruitful service. In his later years Eastern affairs became his main study. As Secretary of the American Asiatic Association and editor of Asia he was best known to the moderns. His letters to THE TIMES from China and Korea in 1920 were full of information and free from the illusions which so many travelers in the East acquire either from their own prepossessions or the influence of foreign officials.

Mr. FOORD wrote the short but admirable account of fifty years of this newspaper called THE NEW YORK TIMES Jubilee Supplement. It contains as much as two or three lines about himself. This self-effacement was characteristic of the man. He was a good and honest workman, who had more than earned his rest long ago. His death by a distressing accident is not only a sorrow but a shock to his friends. He was still young in spite of his years.

THE NAME LEVIATHAN.

President HARDING may well think twice before permitting Chairman LASKER to rechristen the Leviathan in his honor. It is a name closely entwined with our brightest memories of the war. Almost one hundred thousand of our soldiers crossed in this queen of transports. An equal number returned in her when the victory was won. To them, and to those dear to them throughout the nation, "Leviathan" is a household word. To our allies it is no less familiar. When the great ship set forth on her first voyage as a transport, Western Europe was face to face with defeat. With each trip, when the pressure was severest, she landed at Brest almost ten thousand of our boys to take the places of the overtaxed allied soldiers. For France the long journey back from a nightmare of terror to hope, confidence and triumph was marked as with milestones by the landings of the Leviathan.

Before the Germans quit the Vaterland, then interned at Hoboken, they exhausted their skill in damaging her, as they thought, beyond repair. Our engineers took her in hand, and, thanks to Yankee ingenuity, had her out on her trial trip before the nations were aware that her restoration was possible. In the world of marine engineering the name Leviathan stands for a triumph. The task of refitting her was accomplished with similar ingenuity and skill. As a unit in the German auxiliary service the Vaterland's capacity was rated at 8,000, the bunks being occupied continuously in eight-hour shifts. On several trips the Leviathan carried almost 2,000 more than this. She crossed without convoy, and in her repeated trips to Liverpool and to Brest escaped misfortune. In her handling the maritime genius of our people was manifest.

It is doubtless true, as Democratic members of the Shipping Board said very handsomely, that President HARDING "has done more than any other one man" to build up the American merchant marine. No ship is too large or too splendid materially to be named the Warren G. Harding. But, aside from the merely commercial advantage in preserving the old name, there is a historic, a patriotic, value in "Leviathan" which the country will deeply regret when it knows what it has lost.

CUMMINS AND THORNE.

Mr. CLIFFORD THORNE'S entry into national politics has long been anticipated. He has just announced his willingness to represent Iowa in the United States Senate. Iowa has one Republican Senator who is a national figure. Senator CUMMINS represents the national policy toward the railways as clearly as Mr. THORNE represents the local theory of regulation and rate-making. He is well known as a railway baiter. He might almost be called the leader of a lost cause. It is no reproach to him that he has always stood for the interests of shippers rather than of the carriers. He may or may not be the sort of Senator Iowa deems fittest to sit as Senator CUMMINS'S colleague.

Representative SWEET is supposed to represent Iowa sentiment on this matter. He and Senator CAPPER have introduced bills to repeal the Transportation act. A dozen State Legislatures have passed resolutions in a similar sense. The National Association of Public Utility Commissioners expressed a like opinion in formal recommendations to Congress. Representative BACHARACH'S bill would forbid Federal courts to consider rates made by State Utility Commissioners. If Congress should enact it, Federal courts would nevertheless continue to annul confiscatory State rates.

Only last week Senator CUMMINS defined the position of those who think there is an identity of interest between the railways, the nation and all users of transportation. It is but a little longer since the Supreme Court in the Wisconsin case gave a decision which seemed to be the loss of the last ditch of those who agree with Mr. THORNE. No legal or constitutional appeal was possible for him. Therefore he takes a political appeal in his Senatorial candidacy.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Why Medical Experts Are Distrusted.

In the current issue of The Journal of the American Medical Association there is editorial commendation of an address dealing with the subject of expert testimony, recently delivered by President C. E. MCBRIDE of the Ohio State Bar Association. The Journal agrees with his assertion that the present method of securing and paying for the testimony of experts, in both criminal trials and civil litigation, is entirely wrong, and that the result of it has been seriously to weaken and almost destroy the confidence of both Judges and jurors in such testimony. It has become only too obvious that defense and prosecution in any case can get from their paid experts any opinion they want, not that the experts necessarily are dishonest, directly though they often contradict each other, but that the counsel on both sides interrogate their witnesses before putting them on the stand, and employ only those who will swear to what they want. Often, too, what the expert does is simply to answer a hypothetical question, skilfully constructed to get the desired reply.

The remedy, according to Mr. MCBRIDE, with The Journal assenting, is for the court, and not the contending counsel, in cases requiring this sort of testimony, to select the experts and either pay them or impose their fees as part of the costs of trial. That this is a practicable plan, with the laws as they are, is doubtful, and certainly it would revolutionize a long-established procedure.

Pleas and arguments for some such change, however, have been numerous. Among the most frequently called of experts are doctors, and the prestige of the medical profession is appreciably impaired by the general impression that any testimony required can be obtained from one or another of them by the simple process of giving him what he asks for his help.

That is a false impression, but it is a natural one, for it agrees with the surface indications as seen in court.

Much More Than Thoroughfare.

Latest of neighborhood or regional organizations for the protection and advancement of specific, as distinguished from general, municipal interests is the Times Square Association, composed of merchants doing business on Broadway and Seventh Avenue between Fortieth and Fiftieth Streets.

The announcement of their purposes begins with a statement of the size and importance of the activities conducted in that very lively shopping, hotel and theatre centre. What chiefly troubles its men of affairs, seemingly, is the fact that the number of persons passing through the square exceeds by too many the number of those who buy things in it, and they are going to try to teach the people of New York "that Times Square is not only a thoroughfare to places of amusement, but that it is the most important specialty shop district in the city."

To accomplish this end two tasks are to be undertaken, they say. One of them is a big publicity campaign, but the other is the more interesting. It is, as they put it, "to put Times Square business in apple-pie order—that is, to help our neighbor who, either through misguidance or ignorance, believes that he can prosper with less than absolute honesty and integrity."

That is a pretty euphemism, but its meaning is clear, and it may be taken as either a warning or a pleading by any black sheep there may be in the Times Square flock.

One adviser of the association has suggested that its members exert all their influence to secure the removal of the old buildings on Broadway and Seventh Avenue below Forty-second Street, and the replacement of them by others that are worthy, architecturally, of the fine structures that already give distinction to the square. That is an excellent suggestion.

Anyhow, He Is Safe for a While.

To some it might seem that twenty-eight cases of Scotch, each containing twelve quart bottles thereof, were more than anybody, even though a sometime Senator, really needed to store in his club as a provision against future thirst. Still, thirsts differ, and, after all, 336 quarts of whisky is not an inexhaustible supply, particularly if a man has friends—as he is sure to have, these days, with such an equipment.

That the 336 bottles could be emptied in a year if deposited in some clubs must be obvious, even to a member of the Anti-Saloon League; at the University Club, where this congeries of mad delights went—well, there it might last longer or it mightn't.

A puzzling feature of the episode is that though the Senator obtained his permit for removal previous to Jan. 16, he was in no hurry to utilize it—did not do so, in fact, until after a second extension was within three days of expiring. If he had forgotten what he had forgotten it forever?

These are questions which will not be answered. Famous investigators can keep secrets—their own—as well as anybody.

Not Many, but Very Few.

A correspondent of THE TIMES who felt impelled to scold the critics of Sir ARTHUR CONAN DOYLE as an expositor of what might be called otherworldliness used yesterday a highly characteristic form of argument—that of unwarranted implication. Joining Sir ARTHUR in complaining that men of science usually have approached the subject of spiritism in a skeptical and antagonistic frame of mind, the writer of the letter said that, in spite of this handicap, "such men as Sir OLIVER LODGE, Sir WILLIAM CROOKES, RUSSELL WALLACE and many others, including himself, have become protagonists of the movement."

That the three men mentioned earned the name of men of science is true, but how about the "many more"? Our correspondent would find it impossible to lengthen his list with any other names of like scientific eminence, and yet he invites the assumption that he could do so if he tried! That he includes Sir ARTHUR in the same distinguished company is also significant, for obviously the famous fictionist does not belong there.

The few men who have accepted the spiritualistic hypothesis or faith are so few as to be negligible, as compared with the great army of men equally competent who have rejected it as "not proved."

The Gambler's Story.

The Russo-German treaty just signed reminds me of an incident which occurred some years ago quite near the present scene of action.

One evening a rather seedy looking individual came up to one of the tables at Monte Carlo and, after much preparation and apparent hesitancy, proceeded to put a five-franc piece on a number.

"Rien ne va plus!" called out the croupier, and the wheel spun merrily along, and with it the ball, its ominous satellite, greedily watched by all the gamblers.

The man lost, and the croupier was raking in all the gold and silver on the table, when, as he was going to take away the penurious gentleman's modest stake, the latter exclaimed: "Don't touch my piece. It is a lucky coin, a mascot. Here is another five francs. Please, let it stay."

So the croupier took the equivalent and the game started afresh.

A second time the wheel went around, and again the gambler lost and gave a five-franc piece to keep his luck.

The third time he won and smiled benignly, for, as the croupier was counting out the thirty-five pieces which represented his winnings, he gently lifted his five-franc piece, which still lay innocently on the "tapis vert," and let concealed and neatly folded under the coin appeared a thousand-franc bank note.

"La petite surprise!" he exclaimed with rapture—the little surprise!

Of course, his winnings were paid him, for his money was on the table; but he also was turned out of the Casino by the police and forbidden ever again to cross the mystic threshold.

Thus was ingenuity rewarded, but also vice punished, which may even happen in a political conference. RICHELIEU.

Company Union and Labor Union.

Your editorial of April 11, entitled, as I remember it, "Wages and the Open Shop," reminds me of a professor of mathematics lecturing to prove that two times two makes four, and toward the end of his lecture, having shown to the most unenlightened that two times two does make four, suddenly remarking: "It does not follow that two times two doesn't make five"; then he goes on with his sane argument that two times two makes four.

Your fine, clear editorial states unbiased statistics and draws the inevitable conclusion that the open shop and independent, honest employe representation—the company union—are superior to the closed shop and the Federation of Labor union; that "to the public and to the workman the union's demands work hardship and are a factor in unemployment and the tardy return of normal business." Then you abruptly remark, contradicting the tenor of the rest of your article: "It does not follow that unionism is to be smashed and the open shop established." Why not? It is almost as if some one else took your clear editorial and interpolated this irrelevant and unexplained remark.

The Federation of Labor is not the United States Government—to attack or supplant which would be treachery. It is simply an organization which remedied evils for a while and now has become a tyrant itself, and is, as you state it, "incompetent in protecting the true interests of the workman and flagrantly antagonistic to the welfare of the nation as a whole." And you can't treat the Federation of Labor and its leaders separately; the leaders control and are the Federation of Labor. As to reforming it—its abuses and practices are its heart and lungs, without which it could not live.

Why the freedom-destroying closed shop anywhere? If the open shop and the company union work to the advantage you speak of in your article, what more could one ask?

LAST YEAR'S KNOWLEDGE.

Little Peach Tree, by my window,
With your buds all locked up tight,
Don't you try to keep your secret
Any longer from my sight.
Every bud contains a blossom
In its wrapping—don't I know?
And each blossom has a perfume—
Didn't Last Year tell me so?

Blades of Grass, so shyly peeping
From the brown and thawing ground,
You are sewing separate patches
That are sprinkled all around,
But they'll soon be pieced together—
That's the reason why you grow,
Just to make a velvet carpet—
Didn't Last Year tell me so?

Sturdy Bush, with thorny edges,
Surely everybody knows
In your heart you hold a jewel
That will grow into a Rose.
Shabby though your present outfit,
Only let your treasury show
And you prove a lover's favorite—
Didn't Last Year tell me so?

Homely Implements of warfare—
Rusty, trusty, friendly tools,
Standing idle by my garden
In an attitude that fools.
Don't you think I hear you calling,
Little Spade and little Hoe?
Soon or later I must answer—

NAN TERRELL REED.

FIGHTS SUBSIDY CHANGE.

Seamen's Union Against Two-Thirds American Personnel Proposal.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Vigorous opposition to a proposed amendment to the Administration Ship Subsidy bill which would prevent payment of direct aid to any ship unless two-thirds of the combined personnel of officers and crew in the deck and engine departments were American citizens was expressed today by Andrew Furuseth, President of the American Seamen's Union, at the joint Congressional hearing on the measure.

Asked by Representative DAVIS of Tennessee what seamen thought of the provision, which, it had been announced, would be offered by the Shipping Board, Mr. Furuseth said it would result in ships having all-American officer personnel with men of any nationality in the crew.

"It's just what the ship owners have wanted for years," he declared, adding that a satisfactory requirement would be that a certain percentage of personnel, excluding officers but including the crew in all departments, should be American citizens.

"We want a provision in the law," Mr. Furuseth said, "which will encourage the American boy to go to sea and stay there. He won't become a sailor unless he believes there is a good chance of him becoming an officer. The amendment would mean that only men who were quartermasters or oilers would be able to become officers. There would be a clear line drawn between such men and those in other departments. The latter would have no incentive for remaining at sea."

Representative DAVIS brought up a discussion of the amendment by asking R. T. Merrill, director of the Shipping Board's Research Bureau, who was being cross-examined, why the amendment had not been included in the original draft of the bill.

Meyer Lissner, a member of the board, interjected the explanation that there was considerable difference of opinion among labor and ship operators as to such a requirement, and for this reason the provision was omitted. On reaching the conclusion, however, that it would be just to both operators and seamen, he added, the board had decided to press it as an amendment.

PLAN NAVIGATION SHAKE-UP.

Bureau Offices May Be Removed From Civil Service Regulations.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Removal of the offices of the Shipping Commissioners of the Bureau of Navigation, located in a dozen coast cities, from the operation of the civil service regulations to enable the employment of the highest grade men in these positions was understood today to be under consideration by the Commerce Department.

Such a step would involve an Executive order by President Harding, but it is understood that the department has not yet determined whether recommendations should be made to Secretary Hoover for a request to the President to take the action considered.

After July 1 there will be twelve Shipping Commissioners who handle the entrance and clearance of vessels stationed at New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Providence, Portland, Me., New Orleans, Newport News, Norfolk, Seattle, Galveston and San Francisco. In addition to these Commissioners, whose salaries range from $5,000 a year down, there are fifty-nine Deputy Commissioners stationed in the various offices who would be affected by such action.

While a decision to seek the removal of the Shipping Commissioners' offices from the civil service has not yet been reached by the department, it was learned authoritatively today that serious study is being given the question.

ALLEN W. DULLES PROMOTED

Becomes Chief of Division of Near Eastern Affairs.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Secretary Hughes announced today that Allen W. Dulles, First Secretary of Embassy, had been appointed Chief of the Division of Near Eastern Affairs in the Department of State, to succeed Warren D. Robbins, assigned as Counselor of the Embassy at Berlin.

Mr. Dulles was born in Watertown, N. Y., April 7, 1893, and lives in Auburn, N. Y. He was graduated from Princeton University in 1914 (A. B.), and finished a post-graduate course in 1916. He is a relative of former Secretary of State Lansing.

Following his graduation Mr. Dulles taught English for one year at Allahabad, India. He was appointed to the Diplomatic Service after examination, April, 1916, and was attached to the American Embassy at Vienna from 1916 to 1917. He served at Berne in 1917-1919; on the American Commission to Negotiate Peace at Paris in 1919; on the American Commission to Germany in 1919-1920; in the Near Eastern Division of the State Department from July to October, 1920, and with the American High Commission at Constantinople from October, 1920, to March, 1922.

ADVISE PASSPORT CHANGES.

Foreign Governments Say American Travelers Would Save Money.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Several foreign Governments have proposed to the United States changes in passport regulations which would greatly reduce the passport and visa fees travelers are now required to pay.

Such changes, it is asserted, would be of more value to citizens of the United States going abroad than to those of other countries visiting America. The passport and visa fee fixed by law in this country is $10, and most of the European nations have increased their charges to a corresponding figure. The result is that an American citizen going to Europe may have to pay a half dozen or more fees of $10 each for having his passport vised as he goes from one country to another. Passports have had as many as twenty different visas.

An estimate for April puts the number of passports which the State Department will be asked to issue at 19,000, the highest figure recorded in years. This would give $190,000 to the Treasury. Last month the number of passports issued reached almost 16,000, and during the preceding three months it was in excess of 7,000 each month.

HEADS VETERANS' BUREAU.

Major Leon Fraser Takes Charge of the New York Office.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Appointment of Major Leon Fraser of New York as district manager of the New York office of the Veterans' Bureau was announced today by Director Forbes.

Major Fraser, who has been executive officer of the central office of the bureau at Washington, will succeed Henry G. Opdycke, resigned. Colonel Forbes, in announcing Major Fraser's appointment, indicated that further changes in the New York office might be made ultimately, but added that reorganization of the New York office, which administers veterans' affairs for the States of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut, and employs about 1,600 people, would be in the hands of the new head.

Major Fraser enlisted in the Headquarters Troop, Thirtieth Division, in the war, but was commissioned a Major less than five months after he entered the service. He served as Assistant Judge Advocate, Service of Supply, until Aug. 1, 1919, when he was discharged.

WILL PRESS TARIFF; DEMOCRATS TO FIGHT

MAY BE PASSED BY JULY 1

Senator Calder Defends Committee Measure as One That Balances All Interests.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The Republican Senatorial conference voted today to make the tariff bill the unfinished business of the Senate on Thursday and hurry it to a final vote with all possible speed. Morning as well as night sessions will be held if necessary to get the measure out of the way by July 10.

As soon as the bill is made the unfinished business it is the intention of Administration leaders to keep it before the chamber, except when it is necessary to lay it aside temporarily to pass supply bills and the Bonus bill. The leaders urged at the conference today that a quorum of Republicans remains within roll call at all times.

While the Republican Senators were in conference some of the Democratic Senators who will be conspicuous in the attack on the tariff bill were also in session. It was decided to press the assault at every point and compel discussion of every section that is open to criticism. The Senators who will direct the onslaught are Simmons, Underwood, Reed, Hitchcock, Harrison, King, Williams, Jones of New Mexico, Hitchcock and Stanley, with others aiding as the occasion offers. The Democratic opposition will be almost "solid." The Louisiana Senators, Ransdell and Broussard, it is said, will probably support the bill.

Calder Praises New Bill.

Senator Calder of New York, a member of the Finance Committee, issued a statement on the tariff bill tonight. He said:

"The rates of duty in the bill as reported to the Senate are protective, but not prohibitive. They are supplemented by a provision to prevent unfair methods of competition in the importation of goods which is broad enough to prevent every form of unfair practice, including unfair price-cutting and full-line forcing. If enacted it will, therefore, be the most adequate anti-dumping statute that the country has ever had.

"This tariff bill not only provides the means of protecting American industry against the most destructive competition it has ever faced, but at the same time it provides safeguards for the great consuming public if the threat of foreign competition proves less serious than anticipated. No one interested in our national, as distinguished from his selfish interests, can ask more than this.

"It is a well known fact that the merchandising and financial interests of the country wait for their prosperity on the producing classes. If lower rates in the tariff bill might profit a limited number of people, just as would the adoption of free trade, but the great mass of our people, particularly those who reside in the City of New York, will benefit most in the long run from a protective measure. The prosperity of the people of New York rests in a peculiar way on the broad basis of the prosperity of the whole country.

"The interests of the importers have not by any means been overlooked in the bill. It must be remembered, however, that the importers of the country have been securing foreign goods during the past year or two at prices which have yielded them an unusually large profit. The benefits of such transactions have not, I fear, in many cases been passed on or even shared with the consumer. The capital and enterprise of importers should be protected and fostered just as carefully as we protect and foster those of the manufacturer but the importer cannot expect a condition to be maintained which creates in his favor an undue advantage. The adoption of the principle of foreign valuation in the Senate bill meets the desires of the importing classes and prevents the disturbance to business which would result from a wholesale adoption of a new basis of valuation.

Holds It Balances Interests.

"The Senate bill balances, I believe, the interests of manufacturers, farmers, importers and consumers as no tariff bill has ever before done. If we needed to confirm further the wisdom of the policy of national self-sufficiency, the war has furnished this confirmation. Our participation in international trade is desirable, particularly since America's position as a creditor nation has brought us new opportunities. But no amount of foreign trade can compensate for the impairment of the agricultural and manufacturing structure of our nation. We may be forced in the future to embark on uncharted seas, but for the present the Republican Party does not propose to abandon the policy of protecting home industry.

"The bill may bear heavily at some points on one group and at other points heavily upon another. The test, however, should be not whether it places particular groups here and there, but whether it balances the interests of the producer and consumer and does not place undue burdens on our overseas commerce."

Representative Garner, ranking Democratic member of the Ways and Means Committee, issued a statement tonight denouncing the proposal made in the Senate Tariff bill to authorize the President to change the rates of duties and basis of valuation. He said in part:

"The idea of placing in one man's hands the power to tax the people, as well as the power to build up or destroy business, is so obnoxious to our form of Government that I cannot believe it will be accepted after it is thoroughly analyzed."

ELSBERG SUCCEEDS HILLES.

He Is Elected President of the National Republican Club.

Former State Senator Nathaniel A. Elsberg was elected President of the National Republican Club at the annual meeting of that organization in the clubhouse at West Fortieth Street last night. He succeeds Republican National Committeeman Charles D. Hilles. Prior to his election as President, ex-Senator Elsberg served as Chairman of the Executive Committee.

There was only one ticket in the field and no contests. The other officers elected were: First Vice President, Nicholas Murray Butler; Second Vice President, Louis W. Stotesbury; Third Vice President, Andrew B. Humphrey; Recording Secretary, Oscar W. Ehrhorn (re-elected); Corresponding Secretary, Benjamin M. Day; Treasurer,

'JAZZ PONIES' A FEATURE OF 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS'

Girls of Catholic Junior League Give a Lively Show for Foundling Hospital at the Plaza.

Unusually lively was the "Review of Reviews" given at the Plaza last night in the ballroom for the benefit of the New York Foundling Hospital by the girls of the Catholic Junior League Archbishop Hayes occupied a box, and the brilliant audience applauded several of the numbers for four and five encores.

Miss May Ladlie, under whose direction the entertainment was produced, presented a number of novelties, one of the most attractive of which introduced a chorus of nurses in demure costumes, accompanied by internes, all in freshly starched white suits. Paul Stewart wrote the music for this number, and the lyrics were by George Oppenheimer. The nurses included the Misses Edwina Shanley, Helen McEntyre, Helen Roser, Evelyn Hall McManus, Mary Van Ellis, Dolores Carrillo, Agnes Fitzsimmons and Eulalia Barthold. The internes were Eric Hatch, Thomas McCormack, Jack Cranch, Major H. F. Donnelly, Francis C. Walsh, Alfred Amy Jr., A. James Roche and Le Roy Amy.

The revue opened with a prologue, in which Miss Van Ells as Eyrete Act told in rhyme just what the audience might expect, and Miss McManus as Second Act did the same. Mrs. James P. Silo's Irish colleen song, which followed, was roundly applauded. In the chorus for this number were the Misses Katherine Adams, Elisabeth Sullivan, Anabel Gallagher, Rowena Sullivan, Yvonne Brulator and Margaret Powers, and the girls did some excellent dancing.

"Old Fashioned Girl," by Mr. Stewart, was the catchiest piece played during the evening, and a number of exceptionally handsome costumes were worn by the girls who illustrated the different types mentioned in the song which was sung by Lawrence D. A. C. Larke. Each of the girls as they appeared did some specialty dance appropriate to the part she was playing, and the number received many encores. Miss Margaret Powers was "Broadway"; Miss Julia Pineke, a "Siren"; Miss Natalie Hanna, "France"; Miss Virginia Gilbert, "Spain"; Miss Carolyn McGeon, "England"; Miss Edythe McGeon, "Scotland"; Miss Nina Chatillon "Italy, and last Miss Margaret Hennessy as the "Old Fashioned Girl," in a magnificent hoopskirt of lavender silk and lace.

The "Jazz Ponies," who had been specially trained by Miss Leslie, put on a lively dance. They included the Misses Helen Berolzheimer, Elisabeth Mulhall, Dorothy Jaeckel, Temple Joyner, Natalie Dowling and Helen McManus. Miss Russell Hughes and Lynne Berry appeared in "Bits of Pieces," with Frank Beeston at the piano. Mr. Beeston later did an eccentric dance.

Christian Leden's Last Lecture.

Christian Leden, the Norwegian Arctic explorer, will give the last of his Arctic travelogues in the ballroom of the Ambassador Hotel on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. His subject will be "The Economic Problem of the Day." William Forbes Morgan will preside, and Commissioner George Henry Payne will also speak.

Two Society Women Enter Business.

Two more society women have elected to enter the business world. Mrs. Charles V. D. Didrichsen of 1,163 Madison Avenue and Mrs. Henry H. Marshall, Mrs. Didrichsen was Miss Sarah Marshall, a daughter of S. Duncan Marshall, and Mrs. Marshall was Miss Mildred Claflin, a daughter of Adams G. Claflin of Massachusetts. On Monday they opened a small shop in the Madison Square Garden called La Maisonette, and are offering wearing apparel and novelties for sale.

Senator Moses to Speak in Kahn Home.

Among those entertaining at supper were Mrs. T. J. Oakley Rhinelander, Mrs. Donn Barber, Mrs. Edward C. Parish, Mrs. W. Fitt Trimble, Mrs. A. Henry Moale and Mrs. John Castles.

JOHN FOORD DIES FROM AUTO INJURIES

WAS INDIA HOUSE FOUNDER

WASHINGTON, April 18.—John Foord of New York, veteran newspaper editor, died at the Emergency Hospital last night of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile Sunday afternoon. His son, Dr. Bernard G. Foord of Kerhonkson, N. Y., was expected here today to take charge of the body.

Mr. Foord was 78 years old. His most recent activity in the publishing field was as editor of Asia.

John Foord devoted a long lifetime to journalism. In the beginning his field was the general news of the day. Later he turned to editing, still in the daily field, and finally his interests and his labors concentrated on the Far East, so that he will be most immediately remembered as editor of Asia, as one of the founders of India House and as the organizer of the American Asiatic Association.

But very many years before he had brought his gifts of clear-sightedness, a sense of fair play and an ability for forcible expression to bear for the good of Japanese and Chinese, he was devoting them to municipal affairs, then of transcendental concern to New York.

Born in Perthshire, Scotland, on Oct. 12, 1844, he was educated in Dundee and spent his young manhood in the service of newspapers in London. The opportunities of a new world appealed to him, however, and in 1869 he became a reporter on THE NEW YORK TIMES. He hardly was launched on his new career when THE TIMES began its historic and in the end successful fight to break the Tweed ring. To his pen fell the task of analyzing the evidences of fraud in the books of Controller Connolly. The fight against Tweed, inevitably, was not won at once, but to Foord's masterly handling of that opening assault always has been attributed a large share in the eventual success of the battle.

The Tweed exposures were Foord's greatest news job. Soon after he turned to writing editorials, displaying a wide grasp of affairs and proving particularly able in what he had to say on financial and commercial topics.

Became Editor-in-Chief of Times.

In 1876 Mr. Foord became editor-in-chief of THE TIMES, then still a Republican newspaper. He held that position until 1883 with unwavering adherence to the interests of the public and an unselfish and kindly modesty that leave him affectionately remembered by those of hisassociates who remain.

From THE TIMES he went to The Brooklyn Union, of which he became editor and part owner. Next he edited Harper's Weekly. For the last twenty years he was a member of the editorial staff of The Journal of Commerce, devoting himself to economics and international affairs. His editorials on Far Eastern subjects were stamped particularly as authoritative because of his sympathetic interest in those lands, his travel and his broad reading. In the Summer and Fall of 1920, while in the Orient, he returned once more to the columns of this newspaper, contributing a series of signed articles on his observations.

As a pioneer among broad-spirited Americans in the last generation Foord worked for fair and liberal dealing with the peoples of China and Japan. The growth of his interest in the Orient led him naturally to the formation in 1898 of the American Asiatic Association.

It was at this time that German and Russian aggression upon Asia was threatening Chinese and American rights therein. The association was formed as a protest against this encroachment. Under Mr. Foord's secretaryship the association since then has steadily made its influence felt for the liberalization of all our treaties and economic relations with the Far East.

Mr. Foord was the founder and editor of the Journal of the American Asiatic Association, published from 1898 until 1917. In that year the late Willard Straight, who was president of the American Asiatic Association, agreed to finance the development of the journal into a broad general popular magazine, and he and John Foord united in organizing Asia, with Foord as editor.

Was a Founder of India House.

In 1914 Mr. Foord joined with James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, the late Willard Straight and Robert H. Patchin in organizing the National Foreign Trade Council, and a little while later Mr. Foord was one of those associated with Willard Straight in the founding of India House. His speech responding to the toast "Why India House?" at the first dinner of the club lives as a classic in the minds of its members, and has been carried all over the world by American traders, bankers and diplomats.

Mr. Foord was a thorough American also, of broad public spirit. He was very proud of his Scotch ancestry, of Scotch achievement throughout the world. He was for many years President of the Burns Society, and invariably responded to the toast "The Immortal Memory" at the annual dinner. He wrote the foreword in the recent book "Scotland's Mark," published as a record of Scotch influence in America in connection with the celebration a while ago of America's Making. Mr. Foord wrote the life of Andrew H. Green, one of the factors in city government in cleaning up the Tweed ring; the life of Simon Stern, eminent lawyer and at one time President of the Bar Association; THE NEW YORK TIMES Jubilee Supplement, which chronicled the history of fifty years of this newspaper.

Mr. Foord is survived by his widow, who was Catherine Brown, and by five children, Mrs. G. S. Bonner, now living in Italy; John Foord, living in the West, and Mrs. L. T. Chapman, Mrs. H. S. Small and Dr. Andrew G. Foord, at Kerhonkson, N. Y. Funeral services will be held at the convenience of his family in Kerhonkson, N. Y.

Robert W. Greene Dies at 110.

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 18.—Robert W. Greene, aged 110 years, died here yesterday. He was born in Charleston in 1812 and returned here from New Orleans about twenty-five years ago. Later he kept a small store in the northeastern section of town, and until quite recently passed for a man in his sixties, going about wherever he pleased.

TIMES SQ. MEN'S LUNCHEON.

Association of Merchants Formed to Foster District's Trade.

The Times Square Association, whose motto is "Shop in Times Square," and whose ultimate goal is the development of Times Square as the centre of high-class specialty shops, was formally launched yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel Astor. L. S. Adelson, of the International Millinery Company, Chairman of the Executive Committee, who presided, outlined the scope of the organization.

Mr. Adelson said Times Square lacked the percentage of purchasers to which it was entitled from the hundreds of thousands who were seen there daily; that there should be improvement in business ethics; that there should be more adequate media for advertising honest merchandise, honestly offered by the merchants of Times Square, and that in civic matters the Times Square Association should co-operate with the Broadway and the Heart of New York Business Men's associations. "The Betterment of Business Conditions in Times Square" was discussed by Louis Wiley. Seventy-five merchants and some of their friends were at the luncheon. Mr. Adelson said the Times Square Association expected to have about 350 members.

Dr. Abraham J. Palmer.

Dr. Abraham J. Palmer, 75, widely known as a lecturer and Methodist minister, died suddenly Monday night at his home, 533 West End Avenue. Dr. Palmer was said to be the youngest enlisted private in the Union Army. At the close of the Civil War he went into the ministry and served as pastor of several Methodist churches in New York City. Between 1880 and 1900 Dr. Palmer delivered his lecture, "Company D, The-Die-No-More," to more than 3,000,000 people throughout the country.

Dr. Palmer was elected to the State Senate in 1913 on both the Republican and Progressive tickets.

Dr. Frank Newhall Patterson.

Dr. Frank Newhall Patterson, dean of the medical staff of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, with which he had been connected for thirty-five years, died yesterday morning at his home, 51 West Fiftieth Street, in his sixty-second year. Dr. Patterson was born in Belfast, Me., and was graduated from Bowdoin College and from the New York University Medical School.

BORAH CHALLENGES BAKHMETEFF RULING

SAYS HE SHIELDS MURDERER

Declares He Will Try to Terminate Russian's Diplomatic Status—Semenoff Inquiry Halts.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The status of Boris Bakhmeteff, the recognized Russian Ambassador to the United States, will be challenged from the floor of the Senate by Senator Borah of Idaho, who contends that Mr. Bakhmeteff, as a result of his alleged friendly interest in Gregory Semenoff, has given this Government ample ground for terminating any diplomatic rights he may enjoy at this time.

Senator Borah's statement followed the reading in the Senate of a letter from Secretary Hughes to Vice President Coolidge, in which Mr. Hughes stated that Mr. Bakhmeteff is the recognized Russian Ambassador to the United States, and as such is not subject to the subpoena of the Senate Committee on Education and Labor, which committee sought to question him regarding the presence in this country of Semenoff.

The telegram requesting the Ambassador to appear before the committee, sent to the Ambassador at Charleston, S. C., was submitted to Secretary Hughes by a member of Mr. Bakhmeteff's ambassadorial staff, with a request that the Secretary officially explain the status of the Ambassador. As a result, Mr. Hughes sent the following letter to the Vice President:

State Department, April 18, 1922.
To the Vice President:

Sir—A representative of Mr. Boris Bakhmeteff has brought to the attention of the department the following telegram, said to have been sent him by the Sergeant at Arms of the Senate:

"You are requested to appear before the Committee on Education and Labor of the United States Senate on Monday, April 17, 1922, at 11 o'clock, and to testify relative to matters under consideration by said committee. Your necessary expenses will be reimbursed. Will you accept this notice as service of subpoena and appear at the time named? Answer.

"DAVID S. BARRY."

Mr. Bakhmeteff presented his letter of credence to the President of the United States and was officially received by the President as the Ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of Russia on July 6, 1917, and since that time this Government has recognized him in that capacity and has recognized no other Russian Ambassador.

Since Mr. Bakhmeteff, in accordance with the general diplomatic practice in the case, has brought the telegram to my attention, I deem it to be incumbent upon me to point out that the Ambassador is not required to respond to process. The provisions of Section 4062 to 4064 of the revised statutes of the United States are declaratory of the law of the nations with respect to the immunity of diplomatic officers.

I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

CHARLES E. HUGHES.

"Mr. Bakhmeteff," said Senator Borah, commenting on the letter from the Secretary of State, "does not represent any Russian Government now in existence. I shall deal with the subject later from the floor of the Senate. Even if Mr. Bakhmeteff was once an Ambassador, when he begins to counsel and harbor a murderer it is time to terminate whatever status he may have had or may have."

General Semenoff, according to information received by the Committee on Education and Labor, is anxious to appear before the committee. He may do so within the next few days.

There was only one witness called by the committee today, John S. Atkinson of Toronto, who was called by John Kirkland Clark, counsel for the Russian General. Atkinson said that during the time when Semenoff is alleged to have countenanced atrocities in Siberia he was in Vladivostok and at Chita, and that at the latter place he came in direct contact with General Semenoff.

Atkinson described Semenoff as a man of sympathy who was ready to help others. The treatment accorded the British and Canadian troops, he declared, was generous. Atrocities committed in Eastern Siberia, he swore, could not be charged against Semenoff. The men responsible for the murder of American soldiers, he added, were punished.

Senator Borah, cross-examining the witness, brought out that when the alleged crimes were committed Atkinson was 2,000 miles away from Colonel Morrow's American command, and that he knew very little, except by hearsay, concerning what happened in the American sector, where the Twenty-seventh United States Infantry was on duty. Atkinson said he had written the Canadian Government suggesting that that country grant asylum to Semenoff.

Senator Borah read to the witness a statement in which it was charged by an official of the Siberian Railroad Commission that Semenoff maintained "thirty beautiful women" on his special train, and that Semenoff operated an armored train back and forth "robbing and killing."

Atkinson said he did not believe the story.

"I can show you a photograph of Semenoff's so-called 'Summer car,' have you seen it?" Senator Borah asked.

"No, who took it?" replied Atkinson.

"An American officer who is entirely responsible, General Graves," Senator Borah answered.

Colonel Morrow was recalled and said that Semenoff had sought to prevent the American troops from occupying barracks allotted to them. Over the protest of Semenoff, he added, the barracks were taken and possession retained by the Americans. Semenoff, he added, sought to dispossess the Americans, but was unable to do so.

The committee adjourned the hearing subject to the call of Senator Borah.

Rev. Miss Royden, English Preacher, Advises Sisters.

"There are two million and a half more women than men in England, and marriage is the average woman's true vocation," said the Rev. Miss Maud Royden, a lay reader of the Church of England and known as "England's only woman preacher," in an interview with reporters yesterday at the National Board of the Y. W. C. A., 600 Lexington Avenue, just before Miss Royden was to leave for Hot Springs, Ark., to preach before the seventh biennial convention of the Y. W. C. A., which will be in session a week, begining tomorrow. She arrived from England on Monday on the Cedric.

"What do you think can be done for these women?" she was asked. "I don't know what can be done for the working women. For the woman of the professional group it is a different question. I, however, have made a life for myself as full and creative as that of a woman who has a family. Work must be absorbingly interesting in order to be compensatory."

Miss Royden was a guest at the home of Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr., 10 West Fifty-fourth Street. Mrs. Rockefeller is a member of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A.

COURT HEARS PLEA TO FREE SEMENOFF

Justice Cohalan Reserves Decision After Argument on Writ of Certiorari.

An attempt to free General Gregory Semenoff, Ataman of the Siberian Cossacks, from his cell in Ludlow Street jail was made before Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan yesterday, when counsel for the General appeared and argued for the Cossack's release on a writ of certiorari. Ezra P. Prentice acted for Semenoff and Herbert A. Wolff and Edward F. Greenbaum represented John N. Boyle, trustee in bankruptcy for the Youroveta Home and Foreign Trading Corporation, Inc. John B. Campbell represented Sheriff Percival E. Nagle.

Mr. Prentice maintained that in order to keep General Semenoff in custody counsel for the trustee in bankruptcy had to give evidence of a judgment against the General. The only evidence regarding a judgment against Semenoff, he declared, was a letter received by Joseph A. Meirowitz in this city from his brother, Eugene, in Harbin, which stated that a writ had been obtained. The letter was in Russian and contained no further details. Mr. Prentice argued that even if there were proof of a judgment against Semenoff in Harbin, Manchuria, the jurisdiction of the Chinese courts was not recognized here.

As to the affidavit of General William S. Graves, which was used in the proceeding which resulted in Semenoff being placed under $25,000 bond by Supreme Court Justice F. B. Delehanty, Mr. Prentice asserted that there was not a statement in it relating to the case, charged that the affidavit was put into the record for the sole purpose of arousing public opinion and prejudicing the case. Edward A. Smith, a member of the Inter-Allied Railway Commission in Siberia, had no personal knowledge of the assertions made in his affidavit, declared the lawyer. He charged that the opposing lawyers who had put into the record the Graves and Smith affidavits were unworthy of being members of the bar and would be held accountable for their action.

The affidavits of General Graves and Mr. Smith, according to Mr. Greenbaum, were improper before the Court. He admitted that of necessity the case was hard to prove but declared that it was supported materially by General Graves, who had been on the ground and knew of conditions first hand and who must be rated as a competent witness.

Mr. Prentice asked that in the event of a rejection of the application Justice Cohalan decide without prejudice so that he might appear before the Appellate Division on Friday to press the appeal from Justice Delehanty's decision.

"I won't extend any right and I won't take any away," said the Court.

Justice Cohalan made plain his reluctance to interfere with the co-ordinate jurisdiction of Justice Delehanty. For him to attempt to set aside Justice Delehanty's refusal to grant a similar application would be in effect to arrogate to himself, he said, the function of the Appellate Division. Decision was reserved.

Semenoff continued his sojourn in Ludlow Street jail yesterday while his counsel tried to get some one to go on his bond for $25,000.

William P. Roulston, of counsel for Semenoff, said last night that $25,000 bail for the General would be furnished this morning. Last night he was short about $7,000 of the necessary amount.

SUSPENDS RATE INCREASE.

Commission to Inquire Into Staten Island Road's New Tariff.

New tariffs proposed for May 1 by the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway, which operates a steam road from St. George to Tottenville, were suspended yesterday by the Transit Commission, pending investigation into their fairness. It was estimated that the company would have gained about $23,472 a year by the new rates and each Tottenville commuter would have been charged about $2.45 more a month.

Tottenville commuters to Manhattan have been getting a joint commutation railroad and ferry rate of $7.45 a month, of which the railroad got $6.15 and the city, as owner of the ferry, $1.30. The commutation rates for intermediate stations have been in proportion. Under this division, the city received only about 2 1-4 cents for each ferry ride, and on April 1 Commissioner Whalen of the Department of Plant and Structures, announced that on and after May 1 the city would charge a full five cents, because it had been losing money on the ferry under the old arrangement.

ERIE, Pa., April 18.—Mrs. Annie Scott Strong, 65 years old, the daughter of William L. Scott, who served in Congress from the Erie District, filed suit today for divorce from her husband, Charles H. Strong, President of the Erie County Electric Company. His age is given as 60. The petition charges "desertion on June 25, 1918," and indignities to the person.

Mrs. Strong has been living with her daughter, Mrs. Thora Leasure, in the Strong residence here. Mr. Strong has been living for some time at the "Log Cabin," the Summer estate of the Strongs at the head of Erie Bay.

Filing of the suit recalled the martial difficulties of Mrs. Leasure. She was first married, in 1906, to Reginald Ronalds of New York. She divorced him ten years ago. After five years she married Clyde Leasure, an Erie bank clerk and dancing master, but afterward divorced him.

'INSULTED,' SAYS REED, BY WILSON'S LETTER

DENIES FIGHTING BANK BILL

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Following up his reply of yesterday to ex-President Wilson's denunciation of him in a letter to The St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri issued a statement today, taking up the matter in detail.

Besides including the letter from the ex-President to him which he made public last night to prove that Mr. Wilson was in error in intimating that he never thanked the Senator for his services in helping to pass the Federal Reserve Bank bill, Mr. Reed went into a discussion of his course in relation to that measure to disprove Mr. Wilson's further assertion that the Senator had made every possible objection to the bill.

Senator Reed remarks in presenting the letter that Mr. Wilson's recollection is "sadly deficient." He denies that the ex-President had said to him that he reminded him of the hero "who mounted several horses and rode off in every direction." He added:

"Again the ex-President's recollection is in error. Just as he has completely forgotten a letter which he did write, he remembers a conversation which never took place."

Calls Wilson Letter an Insult.

He winds up his statement, which touches upon the contest for his seat and the intimation in behalf of Breckinridge Long, his opponent, that he represents the ideals of the ex-President, by making this statement:

"Those who knew the amiable and polite Wilson of 1913 will hardly credit him with having personally insulted a Senator representing a great State, however humble that Senator might be. Those who know me well will scarcely believe that I would tamely submit to a gross insult, even from so great a man as Mr. Wilson was at that time."

Efforts were made to get in touch with Mr. Wilson in regard to Mr. Reed's declarations, but up to a late hour last night nothing was obtainable from him.

The repudiation of the message which Joseph P. Tumulty took to the Democratic Club's dinner in New York on April 8, and this attack by the ex-President upon Senator Reed on the themes of conservation in Washington and Mexico, who have followed the developments are inclined to think that Mr. Wilson has a purpose in breaking the silence which he has maintained upon public questions since he left the White House.

The very fact that he refused to comment upon the treaties adopted by the Washington arms conference and now breaks silence to put his former secretary in an unusual position and attack a United States Senator, seeking reelection, is interpreted by some to mean that the President intends to be counted as an active force, if not leader, of his party. In some circles it was suggested he purposed to be a factor in 1924, when his counsel might be influential in the choice of the party nominee for President.

Democratic Senators expressed regret that a second controversy should have arisen between the President and a prominent Democrat within a few days after the Tumulty incident. They declined to comment, other than to say that such controversies were not good for the party.

The Senator's Statement.

Mr. Reed's statement in full was as follows:

"Here are the facts: My opponent in the Senatorial race is the Hon. Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State under President Wilson. Mr. Long's campaign manager is W. R. Hollister.

"Shortly prior to April 12 Mr. Hollister gave out a statement to the effect that Long would sweep the State and that Long's issue would be that he represented President Wilson's principles and ideals.

"On April 12 Mr. Lee Meriwether, acting on his own motion and without my knowledge, wrote a letter to The St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Let me say here that I am in no manner criticising Mr. Meriwether for his letter. I simply say that I did not know he had written it until after it was published. Ex-President Wilson makes Meriwether's letter the occasion for his attack on me.

"Any controversy with former President Wilson under existing circumstances is necessarily painful. But as much as I regret the necessity, I nevertheless feel that the public is entitled to know the truth and whole truth.

"Mr. Wilson in referring to the Meriwether letter, says: Statements such as the one quoted from Mr. Meriwether appear to be intended to create the impression that Mr. Reed and I have held the same principles and advocated the same policies and that he is entitled and may be assumed to have my endorsement as a candidate for re-election to the Senate.'

"Was former President Wilson justified in the statement I have just quoted? That can be best answered by reading exactly what Mr. Meriwether said, which I quote:

"'Hollister says Long's only issue in the campaign will be that he represents Wilson's principles and ideas. Insofar as Wilson stood for the fundamental principles of Democracy, he had the ardent support of Senator Reed. I myself have seen a letter which President Wilson wrote to Senator Reed, warmly thanking him for the great service the Senator rendered in perfecting and passing the Federal Reserve bill. On many other great questions Reed ably supported President Wilson, but when Wilson tried to obligate our country to preserve from external aggression the territorial integrity of some fifty foreign nations, it is true that Reed preferred to remain true to the teachings of Washington, Jefferson and the fathers—yes, and to Wilson, too, up to 1916. For as late as 1916 Wilson declared America ought not to, and must not, form an alliance with any nation on earth. Is it Mr. Long's idea that a Senator must in all things think and vote as the President would have him do? For my part I prefer a Senator who thinks with his own brain, even though on some things he thinks differently from me. If Mr. Long's conception is proper, why have we any Senator? Why not let the President run things by himself?'

What Meriwether Meant.

"A mere reading of the foregoing article will convince any candid mind that the Meriwether article was not intended to create the impression that former President Wilson and myself held the same ideals or that I was claiming to have his confidential support. On the contrary, the Meriwether article plainly sets forth that I had differed from the President on many occasions and that I had pursued an independent course.

"Meriwether's letter, however, contained the following statement: 'Insofar as Wilson stood for the fundamental principles of democracy, he had the ardent support of Senator Reed. I myself have seen a letter which President Wilson wrote to Senator Reed, warmly thanking him for the great service the Senator rendered in perfecting and passing the Federal Reserve bill. On many other great questions Reed ably supported President Wilson, but when Wilson tried to obligate our country to preserve from external aggression the territorial integrity of some fifty foreign nations, it is true that Reed preferred to remain true to the teachings of Washington, Jefferson and the fathers—yes, and to Wilson, too, up to 1916. For as late as 1916 Wilson declared America ought not to, and must not, form an alliance with any nation on earth. For my part I prefer a Senator who thinks with his own brain, even though on some things he thinks differently from me. If Mr. Long's conception is proper, why have we any Senator? Why not let the President run things by himself?'

Calls Liver and Brain Opposite Poles of Body

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, April 18.—In a lecture here tonight before the Cincinnati Academy of Medicine and associated members of the medical and surgical professions of Indiana, Ohio and Kentucky, Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, noted American surgeon, likened the human body to a dry cell of which the liver is the negative pole and the brain the positive pole.

Dr. Crile said that anything that affected the liver would also affect the brain, but that the reaction on the brain is the opposite of that on the liver.

ardent support of Senator Reed. I myself have seen a letter which President Wilson wrote to Senator Reed formally thanking him for the great service the Senator rendered in perfecting and passing the Federal Reserve bill.

"To that statement Mr. Wilson replies: 'I have no recollection of ever having written such a letter. On the contrary, I remember that Mr. Reed as a member of the Banking and Currency Committee interposed every possible objection to the completion and adoption of the bill et cetera.'

"'In the campaign of 1916 permission was asked and granted for the use of this letter in my campaign when I was running on the same ticket with President Wilson and ardently supporting him. Tens of thousands of copies of the letter were circulated at that time. It was, in fact, scattered broadcast.

Recites Work on Banking Bill.

"'Mr. Wilson states that I opposed every possible objection to the completion and adoption of the Banking and Currency bill. The fact is, the principal dispute between the President and myself regarding that bill arose over the question whether the financial and business interests of the country should be given the privilege of coming before the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency and express their views regarding the pending legislation.

"'At this time the national banks were almost in revolt. Many of them were preparing to surrender their charters. I insisted on hearings.

"'As a result of these hearings and discussion in the Democratic caucus and in the Senate the bill was amended 561 times. The Chairman of the committee, who had opposed hearings, offered 234 of these amendments. The bill was amended in committee a total of 340 times, in the caucus a large number of times, and as it finally passed the Senate only 60 lines of the original 2,000 remained intact and unchanged.

"'I helped to make these changes. And when the bill came before the Senate I defended it upon the floor on Dec. 4, making a speech thoroughly analyzing the bill and explaining its benefits.

"'After the bill had been thus amended President Wilson pronounced it the best piece of legislation adopted in fifty years. The Democratic Campaign Book of 1920 declares that the bill was opposed by the Republicans and refers to it as being revised and strengthened in the Senate Committee on Banking and Currency.'

"Mr. Wilson declares that he told me that I reminded him of an individual who mounted several horses and rode off in every direction. Again the ex-President's recollection is in error. Just as he has completely forgotten a letter which he did write, he remembers a conversation which never took place.

"'Those who knew the amiable and polite Wilson of 1913 will hardly credit him with having personally insulted a Senator representing a great State, however humble that Senator might be. Those who know me well will scarcely believe that I would tamely submit to a gross insult, even from so great a man as Mr. Wilson was at that time.'

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, April 18. — Cleopatra still reigns in Paris and Helen of Troy still wrecks men's lives with a glance from her violet eyes. Her name today is Juliette Ebie. She is only a waitress in a suburban restaurant and lives in a half bedroom of a third-rate hotel. But twice in two years men have given to her the supreme sacrifice of their lives in circumstances of such extraordinary similarity that all Paris now knows Juliette as "La Femme Fatal."

In August, 1920, she determined to break with her lover, a Corsican, Henry Seretti. He, despite, fired three shots at her from a revolver, wounding her slightly in the head and shoulder, and then blew out his own brains. Last night another lover, August Sainthens, did exactly the same, even to the three shots, and the girl again was only slightly wounded. This time the motive was jealously, for Juliette had told Sainthens she would leave him to return to a former sweetheart, Robert Charbonneau, who had just returned from Mexico.

Like the girl, all three men lived in humble circumstances. To Parisians, blase with "crimes passionels," this adds a new thrill to the coincidence of the two suicides. Juliette, a slender, blue-eyed girl, is alleged to have said:

"I could not refuse them, they loved me so much," as the sole excuse for the infidelities that drove men to the madness of seeking vengeance and self-murder.

Pell Says New York Taxpayers Know Miller's Statement Is False.

Special to The New York Times.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., April 18.—Speaking at a dinner of Herkimer County Democrats here last evening, Herbert Pell, Democratic State Chairman, said Governor Miller had made the best of a bad case in his statement that he had effected material economies in the State.

"This can be best judged by the taxpayers looking at their own tax bills," said Mr. Pell. "Certain employes have been legislated out of office, for which the Governor takes great credit, but he is careful not to mention that others have been taken on to do their work. However careful he may have been as to the expenditures for the legitimate purposes of the State, the astonishing total of the bill for the Meyer Investigation Committee shows how little economy will be considered when it is not the Administration of the State but the fortunes of the Republican Party that are under consideration.

"Any citizen who chooses to look at his own tax bills or inquire from others will readily see the falsity of the claim of any effective economy."

Mr. Pell asserted that the broad tendencies of the present State Legislature had been reactionary and very strongly toward the centralization of all authority in the hands of a very few men at Albany.

"It has attempted," he said, "to deprive the organized communities of this State of their right to govern themselves. It has very unduly extended the power of the State authorities to regulate the lives and the business of the citizens. It has extended the power and the control of commissions."

STRIKE INJUNCTION IN PART SUSPENDED

TENT COLONIES CAN STAY

Restraining Order Remains in Reference to Violence or Intimidating Non-Union Workers.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 18.—Parts of the United States District Court injunction referring to persuasion of miners in the Mingo field and forbidding maintenance of the Mingo tent colonies of strikers were suspended by an order of supersedeas filed today and signed by Judge Martin A. Knapp of the Circuit Court of Appeals.

The order, however, stipulated that portions of the injunction against intimidation, menace and threats are not suspended. An appeal by officials of the United Mine Workers of America was granted at the same time and the case ordered into the Fourth Circuit Court at Richmond, Va., without a date being set for hearing.

Counsel for and members of the Mine Workers interpreted the stay of the injunction as allowing unionization in the Mingo field so long as it is accomplished without intimidation or violence. They especially rejoice over the suspension of that part of the injunction which they had feared would wipe out the tent colonies.

The assignment of error on which the defendants had based their appeal to the Circuit Court held that no immediate and irreparable danger or damage had been shown, and contended further that the District Court was without power to enjoin them from certain of the acts named in the restraining order, issued April 10 by Judge McClintic. The defendants also alleged that the plaintiff coal companies named in the injunction had "engaged in a corrupt, immoral and unlawful conspiracy to blacklist members of the United Mine Workers of America in the Mingo field."

Miners Announce Victory.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—A complete upset of "the plans of the non-union coal companies of Mingo County, West Virginia, to drive the union out of that field" was announced by United Mine Workers officials in making public here today the supersedeas signed last night by Judge Martin A. Knapp, senior Judge of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals of the Fourth District, suspending in part the injunction recently issued by Judge McClintic of Charleston to the Borderland Coal Company.

The supersedeas, as interpreted by United Mine Workers' officials, suspends all of the restraints of Judge McClintic's injunction except those which restrain the union miners from doing acts that are in themselves unlawful. The coal companies, under the supersedeas, are prevented from interfering with or destroying the tent colonies maintained by the United Mine Workers and inhabited by several hundred families of coal miners who lost their jobs by joining the union in Mingo County. Judge McClintic's injunction ordered that these tent colonies be abolished within thirty days, and that the United Mine Workers be prohibited from furnishing food, clothing or other supplies to the people living in them.

United Mine Workers' officials interpret the supersedeas further as giving to them the right to continue their campaign of organization in the non-union fields of Mingo County so long as they refrain from threats, violence or other unlawful interference with the rights of men to seek and accept employment voluntarily.

Miners' Leader Asserts Steel Companies' Supply Is Hard Hit.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, April 18.—Giving the names of 130 mines classed as closed by the coal strike in Fayette, Westmoreland and Greene Counties, Vice President Fagan of District 5, United Mine Workers, tonight made the claim that this territory, including the famous Connellsville coke field, which supplies the United States Steel Corporation and other steel industries with the coke that is indispensable, to modern steelmaking, is "85 per cent. down." All the mines have been operated as non-union.

According to Fagan's statement, six of the W. J. Rainey mines had been closed; two of the Pittsburgh Steel properties, two of the Bessemer Iron and Steel Company, forty-six of the H. C. Frick string, seven of the Connellsville Coal and Coke Company, four of the American Steel and Wire Company, eight of the Republic Iron and Steel Company, three of the Oliver & Snyder Steel Company and two of the American Manganese Company.

The first arrests of union organisers by State troopers were reported to Mine Workers' headquarters tonight from Export, Westmoreland County. Organizers Patrick Hagan and James Rosbiza with "crimes panniones," this adds a new thrill to the coincidence of the two suicides. Juliette, a slender, blue-eyed girl, is alleged to have said.

"I could not refuse them, they loved me so much," as the sole excuse for the infidelities that drove men to the madness of seeking vengeance and self-murder.

CITY TRACTION LINES' COAL SUPPLY AMPLE

Despite the spread of the coal miners' strike to non-union fields, the demand for anthracite remains virtually at a standstill, according to statements yesterday by representatives of the operators, when they resumed wage negotiations with representatives of the miners at the Union League Club.

Anthracite, particularly in the New York market, was described by the operators' spokesmen as "going begging." They said it could not be disposed of at any price in view of the absence of demand.

The Interborough reported 28,000 tons of coal at the power plants and 21,000 tons on barges—the Berwind-White Company is expected to deliver 20,000 tons during the remainder of this month, making a total of 87,000 tons. This is a little more than a month's supply.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit reported a total of 58,000 tons of bituminous coal on hand, equivalent to a supply for sixty days.

The Consolidated Gas Company reported recently to the Public Service Commission that it had on hand about 200,000 tons of bituminous and anthracite combined, the bulk of which was available at Astoria. This supply is sufficient to last the Consolidated five months. Other light and power companies were equally stocked, officials of the Public Service Commission said.

Divorce Granted to Mrs. Chapman.

Supreme Court Justice Brown granted a divorce yesterday to Mrs. Arline B. Chapman from J. Wilbur Chapman, son of the noted evangelist. The decree is based chiefly on the testimony of Mrs. Chapman's mother, who told of visiting her daughter's apartment at 7,000 Broadway, when the daughter was out of the city, and finding a woman there.

Morristown Rejects Gift of Vail Library; Rare Volumes Are to Be Sold at Auction

The refusal of the people of Morristown, N. J., to accept the terms of a bequest of the late Theodore N. Vail was revealed yesterday in an announcement by the Anderson Galleries of the forthcoming auction sale of Mr. Vail's library and art collection, which had been conditionally bequeathed to Morristown.

Mr. Vail, who was President of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, left most of his art collection, part of his library, his white marble home at Morristown, known as Vail House, and $250,000 to Morristown, on the condition that its people raise a similar sum to add to the endowment of the proposed museum.

In his will Mr. Vail stipulated that the museum should be controlled by an organization to be formed for that purpose. Apparently this provision acted as a bar to the acceptance of the bequest, the public authorities taking the view that public money should not be appropriated for an institution that would not be controlled by public officials.

When it became apparent that Morristown did not intend to raise the $250,000, Mrs. Arthur A. Marsters, niece and adopted daughter of Mr. Vail and the principal legatee, offered to deed Vail House to Morristown, if it paid her for the original Vail homestead, in which she is now living and which is on the Vail House property. The Town Board recently agreed to pay her $20,000 for the homestead and remit $35,000 in back taxes on the property. Mrs. Marsters will continue to be a resident of Morristown and is now building another home there.

The failure of the Morristown officials or residents to comply with the terms of Mr. Vail's will released for the auction market many rare volumes and it was said that the coming sale, which will be held from May 1 to 6, inclusive, would be one of the most important book sales of the year in this country. The catalogue of the library contains 1,358 lots and the collection was said to cover a very wide range and to include many fine specimens of early printing, of the Elizabethan period and of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

WOMEN VOTERS HEAR LADY ASTOR TONIGHT

WELCOME PLANNED AT PIER

Lecture on "Women in Politics" in Town Hall to Be First of Her Series in America.

Lady Astor, first woman member of the British House of Commons, will arrive here this morning on the White Star liner Olympic and deliver her first American speech tonight at the Town Hall under the auspices of the New York City League of Women Voters. She will speak for the same organization on later dates at the Pan-American conference of women in Baltimore and in Boston, Chicago, Richmond and possibly Philadelphia.

Plans for the reception and entertainment of Lady Astor were virtually completed last night. When the Olympic docks at Pier 59, West Eighteenth Street, at about 9 o'clock, a committee of women voters will welcome Lady Astor.

Miss Ruth Morgan will be Chairman of the Greeting Committee, which includes Miss Mary Garrett Hay, Mrs. Montgomery Hare, Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson (Lady Astor's sister), Mrs. Stanley McCormick and Mrs. Herbert L. Platt.

Lady and Viscount Astor will be driven to Mrs. Gibson's home, 127 East Seventy-third Street, where she will stop until the Baltimore conference opens next week.

"It means a great deal to American women to have a woman like Lady Astor come here," said Miss Morgan yesterday, "and it encourages us in our efforts. The very fact that she is coming here principally to address the Pan-American conference of women voters at Baltimore, where women of South America will confer with the women of North America, is an important link in world understanding."

Lady Astor has had peculiarly valuable political experience and her narrative of her work will stimulate us. Lady Astor has done the most important things a woman has ever done in politics."

The meeting of the women voters tonight in the Town Hall will also be in the nature of a welcome. Among the platform guests will be Mrs. Hansen Ely, granddaughter of General Robert E. Lee, who was a friend of Lady Astor's father, and John W. Davis, former Ambassador to Great Britain.

Miss Hay will preside at the meeting, and Miss Morgan will welcome Lady Astor, who is scheduled to discuss "Women in Politics." Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will follow with an address on "Outposts." After the meeting a supper will be served at Mrs. Gibson's home. Those inviting Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, Mrs. Ronald Tree, Mrs. George B. Post Jr., Mrs. Henry W. Bull, Miss Hay, Mrs. Catt and Miss Morgan.

Boxholders at the Town Hall meeting include Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. Ronald Tree, Mrs. Henry Rogers Winthrop, Mrs. Raymond Robins, Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow. Patronesses include Mrs. George F. Baker, Mrs. George F. Baker Jr., Mrs. George Gordon Battle, Mrs. August Belmont, Mrs. Otto H. Kahn, Mrs. Thomas W. Lamont, Mrs. Henry W. Morgenthau Jr., Mrs. Ogden Mills Reid, Mrs. Douglas Robinson, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. Willard Straight, Mrs. Nathan Straus Jr., Mrs. Charles L. Tiffany, Mrs. Norman de R. Whitehouse and Mrs. William G. Willcox.

It was announced that Mrs. John D. Rockefeller Jr. would represent the National Board of the Young Women's Christian Association at the Baltimore convention of women.

POLICE RAID CARNIVAL.

Deny That Injunction Bars Them From Bronx Legion Post Fete.

Six hundred men and women protested last night when Captain James Brady of the Morrisania Station and fifteen detectives of Inspector Dominick Henry's staff raided the open air carnival of the Willard A. Elton Post of the American Legion, which was being held in a vacant lot on Webster Avenue, between 167th and 168th Streets, the Bronx. Ten men in charge of booths were arrested and ten wheels of fortune seized.

Major Daniel Sullivan of the American Legion and Robert Skillman, commander of the Willard A. Elton Post, went to the police station and showed Captain Brady an injunction granted by Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook on April 17 restraining the police from interfering with the carnival. Captain Brady said that Justice McCook had modified the injunction yesterday to the effect that if the police saw the law violated they could enter and make arrests. The proceeds of the carnival were to go to a fund for a war veterans' Summer camp, the support of needy veterans and their families and a building fund. Commander Skillman said he would have his attorneys take the matter up with Justice McCook today.

SUMMER COCKTAILS ASSURED FOR MANY

Legal to Move Pre-Volstead Liquor From City to Country, and Even to Return It.

15-CENT WHISKY APPEARS

Agents Say They Got It in Shoe Store, but Quality Was "Terrible" and One Needed a Doctor.

A man who lives in the city may take his private stock of pre-prohibition liquors with him when he goes to the country for the Summer and in the Fall bring back whatever is left, provided he has received the necessary transportation permits from the Federal Prohibition Department, according to W. S. Bogart, head of the legal division here. Mr. Bogart's interpretation of the law was made at the request of Ralph A. Day, Federal Prohibition Director.

The ruling no doubt will bring joy to hundreds of persons who heretofore have not been able to obtain such permits. The applicant must prove to the satisfaction of the Director that the liquor was purchased prior to national prohibition. If the owner is known to the prohibition officials and the quantity is not too large the usual affidavit will be sufficient, otherwise an investigation will be ordered.

Mr. Bogart also held that it is lawful, so far as the Volstead act is concerned, for a man to have two residences. He may have a stock of liquors in each and can move either or both stocks on permits. A man's voting residence may be up-State and his family live there but he may establish another residence in New York or any other place and take with him some or all of his stock of pre-prohibition liquor, according to Mr. Bogart, who added that he had consulted Mr. Day before rendering the decision.

Disguised as painters, Federal Prohibition Agents Hanley and Stafford went to a saloon at 437 Third Avenue yesterday and bought liquor for 15 cents a drink, they reported to Chief City Enforcement Agent Chris J. Fortman, David Hodnett and David Laracy, said to be the owners, received summonses. The agents next visited a shoe store, said to be owned by Rosario Licilia and John Grangrirco, 266 Lenox Avenue. In getting fitted for a pair of shoes they alleged that they were served "whisky" at 15 cents a drink. The quality was something "terrible," the agents said. "I afford having to be attended by a physician after one drink."

Speaking before the Troy Presbytery in the Second Presbyterian Church at Troy yesterday, William H. Anderson, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, said:

"The churches ought to realize more clearly and appreciate more fully the splendid civic service being rendered by Ralph A. Day, Federal Prohibition Director for the State of New York. I did not get it from Mr. Day, but from one who knows I learned that the wets in their mendacity and desperation have even tried to ruin his business in order to force him to yield to their terms and they have failed either to buy or intimidate him."

SEEK POLITICAL LINK IN BOOTLEG INQUIRY

Convicted Rum Trader's Testimony Before Grand Jury Expected to Yield Clue.

The Federal Grand Jury in Brooklyn yesterday started an investigation to determine how far political influence may have figured in the activities of an alleged bootleg ring in that borough. The star witness was James Williams, alias "Nick" or "Greek" Williams, convicted in Federal Court last week on a charge of obtaining a large quantity of whisky on forged permits. Williams has promised to tell the Grand Jury all he knew concerning the bootleg transactions in which he was involved.

It was learned that on Sunday Warden Harry C. Honeck had been advised to keep an eye on Williams in the Raymond Street jail. The warden searched Williams's cell and found concealed in the prisoner's bed a hacksaw, seven inches long, such as could be used to saw the bars of a cell, it was said. Warden Honeck changed Williams's cell and ordered a special watch kept on him.

When Federal Judge Garvin, before whom Williams was tried and convicted, learned of the hacksaw in Williams's cell and the possibility of an attempted escape, he was inclined to impose sentence on him, but United States District Attorney Ralph C. Greene and his assistant, Peter J. Broncato, said that such a move would hinder the investigation, as Williams would have to be brought here to testify before the Grand Jury.

DOYLE CALLS DEATH BEGINNING OF BLISS

PICTURES HEAVEN'S STRATA

Husbands and Wives Unhappy Here Not Tied in Colonies of Love There, He Declares.

Heaven, according to Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, is the land of fulfilled ideals, the place where the disharmony and worry of this life are not, and where the spirit of a man who died as a twisted wreck of manhood at, say, 80 years becomes a vigorous being in the thirty-year-old prime of life, and where a married old woman regains the beauty of 25. Children, he maintains, who die young in this world pass on to the next and grow to maturity there, better than here below, and their laughter is "eyelong. Buildings and towns are there, he said, and horses, cows, dogs and cats. Anything loved on earth, he contends, by a theory that smacks of Swedenborg, is carried by the force of love into the next life, or at least to the first of the several planes of Heaven.

This description of the Paradise of the beyond held the close attention of several thousand persons yesterday in Carnegie Hall. The author took up the religious aspect of spiritualism in his second lecture on the topic he has studied for thirty-six years.

At the outset the big Britisher, in the double-breasted blue serge—notes and horn-rimmed spectacles in one hand and the other free for an occasional gesture—paid his respects to clerical criticism of spiritualism. He said the New Testament was "saturated with spiritualism from cover to cover," read passages in St. Paul which he interpreted as having psychic reference and compared the miracle-working Christ with the struggles of spiritist mediums, conveying an inference that the Saviour, in human status, recognized spiritualism. "Theology," he said at one point, "that causes religious schism and wrangling is a thing from the devil, not from Christ."

Smiles of the Dying.

In his argument that death had nothing but joy in it, Sir Arthur asked his auditors to recall the facial expression of many of the dying—so often, he argued, they smiled as though eyes were closing on earthly commonplaces and reopening upon a "glorious beyond."

"Now, the spirit that is leaving or has left that body," he said, "also is received in the beyond, and right here is where the reward of good life or the punishment of a bad one is meted out. When a man who has been a good man, a loving, tender man who has been good to all, and who has made many friends, dies, his spirit is met on the other side by the spirits of those friends who have gone before. Never in earthly life was a man received such a greeting, and such a welcome, as is his from these spirit friends. There are no parasites beyond, no seekers of crumbs, no hypocrisy—you get just what you deserve. And so the bad man's spirit finds itself in utter solitude, a terrible solitude that drives him in upon himself.

"What happens to the etheric body at release from the body? Mind, when I seek to answer this I speak not from my own experience or research alone, but from extensive experiments, Swedenborg and others, all of which agree in the most wonderful way. Well, when the etheric body comes out of the physical body it rests for three days, rests in a sleep designed, it would seem, to prevent the shock that must come from the grieving of those left behind. At the end of this period of three days the etheric body wakes and goes forth into a new world of indescribable glory. Messages from those who are beyond now do not adequately describe the glories beyond—these glories which every one in this building, at some time or other, will see for themselves—and yet this first phase of Heaven is only a lead-up to more glorious spheres."

Tells of Children's Happiness.

At this point the speaker paused in the stillness of the big hall to read some messages received from the dead through seances.

"God has made this world more beautiful, friends met friends and all live on a higher scale," was one. Another was: "I can't express in language what a beautiful place it is. Everyone present—if the grieving mothers of the earth could only see their children here, they would cease to grieve—you little know the sense of happiness there is here."

Another was: "It would kill me to have to leave this beautiful world and go back to your earthly world," and a man in the beyond said: "If mankind only knew the truth about death, how many tears would be dried—no pain, no suffering, everything sacred and no hollow joys—everything beauty." Reverting to personal experiences, Sir Arthur said:

"In my own household, through my own life, I receive automatic writings. They have reached such a pitch that a couple of nights ago my wife and I were sitting in our room, and my wife's writing suddenly began to assume the characteristics of my mother-in-law's handwriting. The message, too, was about something of which only my mother-in-law had knowledge."

Many questions had come to him, he added, as to whether punishment for sin is in store in the next world for the people of this world.

"God," he explained, "is far too good and kind to worry people after all they have been through in this world," and upon the applause that greeted this had died down, he related some of the experiences of Percy Street of the London Scottish Regiment, who was wounded twenty-seven times during the war and who was converted to spiritualism as the result of communications from dead comrades.

Colonies of Love.

"How do they live in the beyond? When Christ spoke of 'my father's house,' I have no doubt he saw that lovely landscape of the beyond—those colonies of love. Husbands and wives, unhappily married here below, are not tied to each other in the beyond. Each may seek out the circle wherein lies the greatest happiness, perhaps to later rejoin each other. Sir Arthur then explained that he was then speaking only of the first plane of Heaven. He pointed out that persons fresh from the earth, with the earther's ideals, were not fitted for direct ascent to the more dazzling realms of the upper beyond, and so went through a figurative course of preparation, gradually becoming ready for the greater things.

He said that questions had been asked whether returning spirits had ever seen God or Christ.

"God?" said Sir Arthur. "The answer has been that He is so tremendous that we can't describe Him. To do so would be like a man climbing the first rung of a ladder and endeavoring to describe the sun. Christ, however, is well known to those beyond. He is the necessary of God, and all orders are issued through Him. Most of the spirits, however, do not meet him at once. I asked my son once, in one of the sacred seances in my own home, whether he had ever seen Christ.

"'Once,' he replied, 'only once, and I will never forget it—if the world could see Him, all sorrows would vanish and the world would be made white.'"

Closing his lecture, Sir Arthur said concerning punishment in the next world:

"'The poor fellow who works all day,' he said, 'and gets married, raises a big family and then dies—should he be punished beyond?' My creed compensates, not punishment."

Leaves Burlington's Service At 94 After 69 Years' Work

CHICAGO, April 18.—After working for one organization continuously for sixty-nine years Frank Knight retired from the service of the Burlington & Quincy Railroad today at the age of 94. He is in possession of all his faculties, has never used intoxicating liquors and has not used tobacco for seventy-five years.

Besides Mr. Knight, more than sixty other Burlington employes were retired on pensions at the first meeting of the new pension bureau of the company. Many of those retired have asked to be allowed to continue work, although several are more than 80 years old.

FAMINE IN RUSSIA IS UNDER CONTROL

Millions Fed Daily and Panic Has Disappeared, Hoover Reports to Harding.

Not All of American Appropriation Needed, Says Director of Relief.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Secretary Hoover was understood to have advised President Harding and his Cabinet today that it was probable that not all of the $20,000,000 appropriation provided by Congress for Russian relief would be needed. Famine conditions in Russia were reported by Mr. Hoover as improving greatly.

Mr. Hoover said later he had reported to the President that he considered the American Relief Administration now had the famine in the Volga Valley under control.

The movement of food inland, Mr. Hoover said, now averages about 5,000 tons per day. This, he added, is less than the daily shipments from America, and, consequently, stocks in the ports are accumulating at present. This volume of railway movement has enabled the administration to feed 3,000,000 children and several millions of adults daily.

Panic conditions, Mr. Hoover reported, have been overcome, and the American railway and port officers under Colonel Haskell have shown great ability in securing organization of the railways up to this amount of service.

The greatest difficulty, Mr. Hoover declared, at the moment is to secure cars of food by the railway employes between the ports and famine regions. About 100 carloads, he said, have been seized, and negotiations for their recovery or replacement in kind by the Soviet authorities are proceeding.

GOODRICH IS OPTIMISTIC.

Returning From Russia Today to Report to Harding.

Former Governor James P. Goodrich of Indiana, Vice Chairman of the American Relief Administration, who is returning from Russia on the Olympic, which will dock this morning, believes no one in Russia will die for lack of food where it is at all possible to reach him. The chief official stated this in a letter written on the way to Samara on March 22, and received in New York yesterday.

"The Russian famine situation is pretty well in hand at this time," Mr. Goodrich wrote. "The American corn is being moved out to the most distant points in Russia, and the unusually heavy snowfall at this time will make it easier for the peasants to haul the corn out to their communes. I met one peasant in Samara who had come for more than 100 verats with his sledge to haul corn back to the commune in which he lived.

"Twenty thousand sledges in one day assembled at Tsaritsin to haul out American corn which was arriving there by the shipload.

"We have enough food purchased and on the way to take care of the entire situation and supply every one who is in actual want. It really is a great work, and the situation is being taken care of in a wonderful way by Mr. Hoover's organization."

Mr. Goodrich will be met at the pier this morning by his wife, Capt. Assistant Secretary of the American Relief Administration, 42 Broadway, and will go to Washington within a few hours to report on conditions in Russia to President Harding.

ARBUCKLE BANISHED FROM FILM BY HAYS

FIRST MOVE IN "CLEAN-UP"

Action Expected to Be Followed by Steps Against Principals in Hollywood Scandals.

"Fatty" Arbuckle films were officially banned, at least temporarily, last night by Will H. Hays, head of the newly organized Motion Picture Producers and Distributers' Association, as his first move in the announced campaign to "clean up" and build up the moving picture industry.

The action is regarded by high officials in the industry here to mean that other characters who have figured in so-called Hollywood scandals would be driven out as objectionable to the public.

In a formal statement announcing the action, Mr. Hays said:

"After consultation at length with Nicholas Schenck, representing Joseph Schenck, the producers, and Adolph Zukor and Jesse Lasky of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, the distributers, I will state that at my request they have canceled all showings and all bookings of the Arbuckle films. They do this that the whole matter may have the consideration that its importance warrants, and the action is taken notwithstanding the fact that they had nearly ten thousand contracts in force for the Arbuckle pictures."

Refuses to Amplify Statement.

The statement was issued from Mr. Hays's offices as he was departing for the day. Courtland Smith, his chief assistant, in handing out the document said there was "nothing Mr. Hays could say further at this time."

Mr. Hays, hat and coat in hand, departing, was called to explain the situation in detail; in view of Arbuckle's acquittal and the jury's announcement that "acquittal is not enough for Roscoe Arbuckle; we feel that a great injustice has been done him," in connection with the death of Virginia Rappe.

Mr. Hays declined to comment.

"Does this statement mean, then, that Arbuckle is out for good?" he was asked.

"You know as well as I do the purposes of our organization—to attain and maintain the highest moral and artistic standards" he quoted from the charter of the distributers-producers organization. "Beyond that I cannot say anything just now."

The conference between Mr. Hays and the distributers and producers, it was learned, was held in the offices of the organization the greater part of the afternoon. It was said that Mr. Hays had invited Messrs. Schenck, Zukor and Lasky to discuss the Arbuckle situation, particularly regarding the Adolph Zukor announcement April 13, the day following Arbuckle's acquittal, that three films were to be released immediately.

Meeting Follows Zukor Statement.

The Zukor announcement on behalf of the Famous Players-Paramount Corporation stated that "Arbuckle had finished 'Gasoline Gus,' 'Freight Prepaid' and 'Leap Year.'"

"The films will be released immediately," the Zukor announcement added, "as we are confident the American public is eminently fair and realizes by this time that Arbuckle has been the victim of unfortunate circumstances."

The conference of the producers and exhibitors and the head of the industry quickly followed the Zukor announcement.

It was regarded as significant that Mr. Hays made no comment on Arbuckle's acquittal.

"Hays's position has been compared with that of Landis in the baseball world, and the Arbuckle case is just another 'Babe' Ruth incident," said one film official. "Ruth had to be disciplined for the good of the sport; Arbuckle and the rest of the film world have to realize that they cannot expect to bring disrepute to themselves and the industry without paying the penalty, too."

Cancellation of the 10,000 contracts in force for the Arbuckle pictures means a loss of at least a million dollars in revenues, it was estimated on film row last night.

W. L. Moses of the Fox Film Corporation said that perhaps "another million is tied up in the production of the three films."

Costly, But Beneficial, He Says.

"But Mr. Hays is the big boss of the industry, and if the industry is to be built up and cleaned the producers and distributers must be good sports," he added. "It is costly, of course, but the whole industry will be benefited. Certainly, it means that Will Hays is on the job and that he doesn't intend to be a figurehead."

Efforts were unavailing to obtain a statement from either the producers or exhibitors of Arbuckle films. At the Famous Players-Paramount offices it was said that a statement might be issued today.

"Offhand, I'd say that the exhibitors stand to lose a million dollars at least in revenues from the new Arbuckle films, while the producers probably will lose a great deal more," this official said. "Of course, if the films can be shown later there will not be any such loss."

FALLS 50 FEET IN RIVER, FILM ACTOR MAY DIE

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—William Desmond, motion picture star, was probably fatally injured in a fifty-foot fall into the icy river at Truckee, where he was "on location," according to a telegram received here by his wife, Mary McIvor, a screen actress.

While a picture was being made on the edge of a cliff, overlooking the river, a mass of ice and snow gave way, carrying Desmond and another actor into the river. Desmond had a shoulder dislocated, an ankle sprained and received internal injuries.

Laurie La Plante, leading lady, who was working with Desmond, narrowly escaped going down with the ice and snow.

Luella Melis's Last Recital.

Luella Melius gave a final recital at the Town Hall last evening, singing airs for coloratura soprano from Mozart's "Escape From the Seraglio," Bellini's "Puritani," and with Gute Handel's "Sweet Bird" and Sir Julius Benedict's "The Wren." Raymond Williams was the flute player and C. V. Bos accompanied at the piano, also Saint-Saëns's "Nightingale." Stravinsky's "Pastorale" and songs by Alec Barrett, Watts and Mayenna.

COLLEGE TOWNS AID THE WILSON FUND

Six Are Among First in Massachusetts to Raise Quotas—Charles W. Eliot Subscribes.

Professor Lewis Jerome Johnson of Harvard University reported to headquarters of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation yesterday that six of the first twenty-five towns and cities in Massachusetts to attain their quotas in the $1,000,000 campaign to endow the Woodrow Wilson awards were college towns. More than $30,000 has been raised in the State.

Prominent among college officials whose contributions were reported yesterday was President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot of Harvard. The widespread support of the campaign by Republicans has been another feature in Massachusetts. Lieut. Gov. Alvan T. Fuller gave $200. Another contributor was Joseph Walker, formerly Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives, now candidate for Senator Lodge's seat in the United States Senate. A Republican in Saugus, Mass., gave $100, saying he was "broadminded enough to understand the greatness of Woodrow Wilson."

The list of contributors yesterday included:

PLAN BETTER RADIO GOODS.

Department Store Men Seek to Improve Grade of Equipment.

Representatives of 500 department stores doing $1,500,000,000 business a year met yesterday to discuss their part in supplying the demand for radio equipment at a conference called by the National Retail Dry Goods Association in the Hotel Pennsylvania. After speakers had emphasized the possibilities a committee of five was appointed to meet with radio equipment manufacturers.

"It was agreed that the radio business, being huge in extent and in its formative stage, must undergo certain changes," said Lew Hahn, managing director of the Retail Dry Goods Association. "Department store officials believe that they are essential to the full development of this trade, and are eager to establish broadcasting stations. The department store men want to make sure that only first-grade radio equipment is put on the market, so that, for example, a man will not spend $25 for a receiving set that he thinks will take messages from 200 miles away, and then find that it will only cover 15 or 20 miles. As is natural in any boom business, inferior goods are being distributed in many cases, but the manufacturers are ready to co-operate in remedying the situation."

WHEATLEY HILLS, L. I., April 18.—Thomas Joseph West, who tomorrow will celebrate the one hundredth anniversary of his birth, at his home here, believes he is the only person living who shook hands with Marquis de Lafayette when the French General was a guest of the City of New York in 1824. Mr. West was at that time a baby in arms, in the care of a nurse, the family living at 402 Greenwich Street, New York City, where he was born. A parade in honor of the Marquis was passing the house, and the Marquis, who was on horseback, leaned down and shook the baby's hand. He says he remembers the incident.

Mr. West is hale and hearty, except for a little difficulty in hearing. Among his guests tomorrow will be a ninety-eight year old cousin, Mrs. Janet T. Bragan, of Jamaica, and another cousin who is eighty-two years old.

He was twice married. His first wife, whom he married in 1844, was killed in a railroad accident. She left three children. In 1874 he married Miss Eliza Wicks of Babylon.

McCORMACK OUT OF DANGER

Doctors Will Let Him Sit Up Today If Improvement Continues.

John McCormack's physicians said last night that if his condition today was anything like that of yesterday he would be permitted to sit up for a short time. They consider him entirely out of danger and issued no bulletin yesterday.

N. Val Peavey, Pianist, Plays.

N. Val Peavy, a pianist who has before appeared here, was heard at Aeolian Hall last evening by an audience that followed with attention Haydn's F minor variations, Beethoven's sonata F minor, Franck's "Fantasia" and pieces by Chopin, Liszt, Brahms and Debussy. He gave, in conclusion, Palmgren's "The Sea," a scherzo by Ernest Hutcheson and "La Fee de la Fontaine," by Mrs. Beach.

"The Charlatan" Next Monday.

"The Charlatan," a play by Leonard Praskins and Ernest Pascal, will be offered at the Times Square Theatre next Monday night by Adolph Klauber. The cast will include Frederick Tiden, Fania Marinoff, Olive Wyndham, Purnell Pratt and Margaret Dale.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Guitrys, who are announced to begin an engagement here on Christmas night under the direction of the Selwyns, will offer "Deburau" as their initial program.

"The First Year" has been produced in Melbourne, Australia.

William Faversham made his first appearance in "Out to Win" last night in Buffalo. The play will come to New York in the Fall.

A theatre party made up of players from the Actors' Fund on Staten Island will attend the matinee of "Candida" at the Greenwich Village tomorrow.

The Stage Door Inn Players will give a single performance of "An Actress," by Nevada Heffron Hesse, at the Thirty-ninth Street Theatre on Sunday night, April 30.

MUSIC NOTES.

Wall Street has a musical event at 5:15 this afternoon by the octet of the Bank of America. The singers are Florence M. Quasi, Dorothy A. Balderin, Jeanette Knowles, Anna Ethes, Herbert Bates, Walter M. Taylor, Louis Reiser and Albert Bradshaw.

Various recitals of this afternoon include Theresa Duncan dancing at the Garrick Theatre, Miss Harper, harpist, at the Waldorf-Astoria, and Stanislaw Haberman, violinist, at the Child Labor Committee's benefit at the Carroll Club.

Sir John Henry, President of the London Board of Trade, will be a guest of the Camp Fire Girls at their benefit at the Metropolitan tomorrow afternoon, when Bori, Dias, d'Arle and the ballet appear in the Russian opera, "The Snow Maiden."

Josef Hofmann is to give a piano recital for the benefit of the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor tomorrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney. Mr. Hofmann has donated his services, so that the entire proceeds will go to the work of the association.

STOKOWSKI GIVES FAREWELL

Harold Bauer Assists at Last Concert of Philadelphia Orchestra.

Mr. Stokowski waved his wand over the magic ensemble of the Philadelphia Orchestra for the last time in Carnegie Hall this season last evening. There was the usual sold-out house of those who, having once welcomed these visitors in a modest series of matinees, had continued to welcome them as their visits changed from afternoon to night and increased from five to the present number of ten each year.

Harold Bauer assisted in this season's farewell as solo pianist in the "Prometheus" of Scriabin, the late Russian composer, remembered long ago in orchestral concerts here with his countryman, Safonoff. Last night's program presented also Mozart's symphony in E flat, Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Easter" overture and a repetition, by request, of Bach's C-minor "Passacaglia."

Scriabin's "Prometheus: the Poem of Fire," at the time of its first performance here, was provided with an outline, cited again by Mr. Gilman, as to the native energy of the universe, the lambrunous joy of living, the creative impulse, the triumph over matter and the return to repose. The music of this and the other tone poems, "Ecstasy" and "Divine," was designed "to call the soul through the gate of the sense of hearing, to lead it, hierarchically, up through circle after circle of heaven, until mystical gongs boomed," and more to that effect.

If the Russian's legend differs from the versions of Aeschylus and Shelley, so does his fire music from the obvious sparks and imitative ignition of the "Feuermagic" of Strauss. The work has a rugged honesty, defiant conviction and inherent vitality, proved by its recurrence now. In the performance, Mr. Bauer and the brasses added fuel to the flames, the rest of the orchestra fluttering by like birds driven before a prairie fire. Mr. Stokowski, with clarifying insight, placed his Russians first last night, his classics at the end as a benediction. There were a half dozen recalls for both orchestra and conductor.

BUILDERS FAIL TO AGREE.

Wage Controversy Has Reached Deadlock, It Is Believed.

Representatives of the Building Trades Council and the Building Trades Employers' Association again sought yesterday to reach a settlement in the building trades wage dispute. No statement was forthcoming as to the result of the conference.

It is understood that a deadlock was reached in the negotiations. A meeting of the Board of Governors of the employers' association is to be held today and an announcement may be made concerning wages.

The employers have signified their intention of reducing the wages of semi-skilled men and of laborers $1 a day. The unions have refused to accept the reduction.

The Lockwood committee will hold an executive session in the office of Samuel Untermyer, 120 Broadway, at 10:30 this morning. The committee is expected to take up the course of procedure for the next four weeks.

CURRENCY PAY PLAN FOR MUSCLE SHOALS

PROFIT FOR GOVERNMENT

Figures on Net Return of $90,000,000 Based on Rental Payments.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, April 18.—Speaking before the Kiwanis Club today, Ernest G. Liebold, personal secretary to Henry Ford, said in part:

"The world has reached a stage where gold can no longer function as an international medium of exchange. It is a system whereby future generations pay for the folly of their fathers," he said in referring to the issue of interest-bearing bonds to pay for public improvements.

"Mr. Ford proposes to complete the Muscle Shoals project at a cost which is estimated at $30,000,000. Instead of raising this sum by a bond issue, it is proposed for the Government to authorize an issue of Muscle Shoals currency for the estimated cost of $30,000,000, which will be paid to the workers for their labor, just like any other currency, without taxing the public.

"Mr. Ford will pay the Government 4 per cent. on the $30,000,000 as annual rental. This would be paid to the United States Treasury and credited to a redemption fund for retiring the Muscle Shoals currency. At the end of twenty-five years the entire amount would be retired without one dollar of interest having been taxed upon the public. The property would be free of debt.

"The $1,200,000 annual rental, continuing on through the remaining 75 years of the proposed 100-year lease, would aggregate $90,000,000 clear profit to the Government, which could be used for tax reduction.

"On the other hand, a thirty-year $30,000,000 bond issue at 4 per cent. would run up in interest alone $4,000,000 more than the total of the bond issue."

AUTOS KILL 2 CHILDREN AND MAN; HURT 3

Trucks Run Down Boys of 4 and 2½ Years, Respectively—Man Dies in Yonkers Crash.

Melvin Franklin, 4 years old, of 1,651 Seventy-eighth Street, Brooklyn, was killed by an automobile truck as he attempted to cross the street at New Utrecht Avenue and Seventy-seventh Street yesterday. The truck was owned by the Federal Rendering Company of 816 First Avenue, Manhattan, and operated by William Mohr, 1,080 Second Avenue, Manhattan. Mohr saw the child dart from behind another automobile, but swerved too late. The child fell beneath the wheels.

Women and children in Chrystie Street near Delancy Street became excited last night when an automobile truck loaded with bananas knocked down and killed Vincesh Favvio, 2½ years old, of 161 Chrystie Street, in front of his home.

Peter Masula of 7 Fernbrook Street, Yonkers, was locked up yesterday for lack of $3,000 bail on a manslaughter charge after a touring car he was operating had run into an automobile truck on Saw Mill River Road, Yonkers, and killed Charles Landberg of Yonkers, who was a passenger in Masula's car.

HIRSHFIELD SUSPICIOUS OF AMERICAN BOOK CO.

Suspects Big Publishing House Is British Owned and Fears for School Histories.

With seven men and one woman in his audience, Commissioner of Accounts David Hirshfield held a brief hearing yesterday on the revision of American history textbooks. Two of ten scheduled speakers appeared. The Commissioner was plainly disappointed when the others did not show up and seemed disgusted that the audience, chiefly reporters, was not larger.

At the close of an address by George E. Morrison of Newburgh, formerly a Detroit newspaperman, Commissioner Hirshfield said that he would "look into" the American Book Company, which, he charged, had failed to cooperate with him in his investigation. Morrison said that the American Book Company appeared to control the school-book situation in this country, and that he had spent many years investigating "the connection" between the American Book Company and public schools in Michigan.

"I may even call for the company's books, as I think it is a British-owned corporation," Mr. Hirshfield interposed.

Miss Richman Asks Immediate Hearing, but Nicholson Is Ill.

Angus K. Nicholson of the stock brokerage firm of L. L. Winkelman & Co., 62 Broad Street, who alleged last week that Malvena Richman of 187 Riverside Drive had drugged and robbed him of valuables worth $6,000 and held him prisoner three days in her apartment, did not appear in the West Side Court as complaining witness yesterday. His attorney, J. H. Gilbert, asked Magistrate Levine for an adjournment for a week on the ground that his client was too ill to appear, and would have to go to a sanitarium.

Leonard A. Snitkin, Miss Richman's attorney, objected to the adjournment, but Magistrate Levine set the case down for Friday.

Miss Riehman has denied the broker's allegation that she robbed him of an emerald scarfpin worth $5,000, a valuable rhinoceros-headed walking stick and $300 in cash.

QUEENS GAS RATE ARGUED.

Public Service Board Hears Figures on Cost.

The Public Service Commission heard testimony yesterday on the application of the Queensboro Gas and Electric Company for permission to increase rates for gas from $1.15 per thousand cubic feet in Queens County and $1.40 in Nassau County to $1.60 in both counties.

Figures submitted by Joseph H. Goetz, counsel for the company, showed the cost of making and distributing gas as $1.0094; that the value of the company's plant was $5,611,000; that the gas sales in 1921 amounted to $822,856.20, and the cost to make and distribute the gas was $787,717.11. The figures are based on the 1921 cost for material and labor.

Preacher to Cross Continent Afoot.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 18.—The Rev. W. F. Lamewood, a local minister, declared today he would start Thursday for Washington, D. C., afoot. The minister said he expected to go blind soon and that he wanted to see a President while he could. The minister, who is past 60, will take about 75 pounds of luggage with him, which he said he would haul in a small wagon. He will start with $5 in cash.

Justice Cohalan Allows Ten Days in Which to Prepare and Submit Briefs.

The trial of the suit of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes against W. E. D. Stokes to set aside her transfer of her dower interest in her husband's property, alleged to be worth more than $5,000,000, came to an end yesterday when Samuel Untermyer, representing Mrs. Stokes, and Isidor Gainsburg, counsel for Stokes, summed up their case. The action has been on trial at various periods since last February.

Mr. Gainsburg presented his case first, saying that the courts had held that in suits in which fraud and duress were alleged, as in this case, as a basis for setting aside a sealed paper, the plaintiff must give just as conclusive evidence if she is the wife of the defendant as she would if she were a stranger. The attorney pointed out Mrs. Stokes was practically her only witness, and because she was interested the evidence in her behalf "must be so clear as to amount to a moral certainty."

Mr. Gainsburg said he intended to be as chivalrous as possible to Mrs. Stokes and for that reason did not care to characterize her testimony except to say that it was "absolutely lacking in proof, exaggerated to meet the exigencies of the case and attuned to the particular issues in the case."

"Never have I seen so much false swearing as in this case," Mr. Untermyer said.

Mr. Untermyer contended that the entire case hinged on the assertion that there was an ante-nuptial agreement, and said that unless the court accepted the proof offered on that point there was nothing left to the defense. Justice Cohalan agreed on this point, and asked that in the briefs to be submitted the attorneys dwell particularly on that point, and also on the proof of alleged duress and fraud. Justice Cohalan gave ten days in which to prepare and serve briefs, after which he will consider the case.

OHIO SENATE FIGHT LOOMS.

Efforts to Agree on Candidate Fail —Fess Announcement Today.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Harmony has not been effected in the Republican Party in Ohio. Effort to agree upon a candidate for the Senate acceptable to all elements have failed. Indications are that there will be a bitter factional fight in the primaries unless President Harding succeeds in uniting the various groups.

There have been four prospective Republican candidates for the Senate—Representatives Fess, Longworth, Burton and Walter L. Brown. All had hoped that President Harding would settle the differences. But the President has said he would not interfere in primary contests in the country and he has, therefore, kept his hands off the Ohio situation.

Representative Fess, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, serving his fifth term from the Seventh Ohio District, has decided that he will announce his candidacy and take his chances with the voters. It was announced today that he will make a formal announcement tomorrow.

The other candidates are hopeful that the Ohio leaders will finally decide a month before the primaries in August upon a selective convention which will meet to slate candidates acceptable to all sides. One of them said today that unless the Republican Party was united there was little hope of carrying the State for the Senate because of the strength of Senator Pomerene, seeking re-election.

Estates Appraised.

BUTZEL, MILLY J. (Nov. 21, 1920). Gross estate, $101,302; net, $94,956. Estate consists of cash, $15,138; real estate, $51,000; realty bonds, $10,604 and industrial and corporate bonds, $36,559. Ruby E. Cohn, daughter, is sole legatee and executrix.

FOWELL, ISABEL G. (April 4, 1921). Gross estate, $128,968; net, $124,429. Estate consists of real estate, $30,000; cash, $17,190; stocks, $81,607. A son, William R., Columbia University Club, is sole legatee and executor. The appraisal notes an agreement between William R. Powell and Lenore Ulrich, whereby the latter contracts to buy the home of the Powells at 254 West 75th St. for $30,000.

Superintendent Accused Leader of Disorderly Conduct and Calling Out Men.

William Zarenko, President of House Wreckers' Local 95, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, was discharged by Magistrate Hatting in Yorkville Court yesterday soon after his arrest on a charge of disorderly conduct made by James Boyle of 331 West Twenty-first Street. Zarenko figured prominently as a witness before the Lockwood Committee in the Brindell phase of the housing investigation. He was an anti-Brindell leader.

Boyle, the Superintendent of the work of demolishing two houses at 108 and 110 East Eighty-first Street, told the Court that Zarenko had appeared at the job and after acting in a boisterous manner called off twelve men who were at work there.

Zarenko said on the witness stand that he had visited the job to see Morris Lamont, President of the American House Wrecking Company of 119 Seventh Avenue. This company has the contract for the work Boyle superintends. When he did not find Lamont, he said, he talked with Nick Selvestovich, a foreman, and was addressing himself to the foreman when Boyle appeared and ordered him off the property.

Apparently Zarenko did not move away swiftly enough for Boyle called Policeman Edward McNamara of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, who put Zarenko under arrest on Boyle's complaint. Zarenko said that when this happened the twelve house wreckers who witnessed it packed up their tools and went away of their own volition. Anyway, the American House Wrecking Company had failed to abide by the conditions of an agreement made with the union on April 1, relating to the posting of a bond of $500 within five days to bind the agreement. The bond had not been posted, the union leader said.

Winners in the Competition for Them Announced Yesterday.

Winners of the nine prizes in the fashion contest held by the Knitted Fabric Group of the National Knitted Outerwear Association were announced yesterday at a luncheon given by that organization at the Hotel McAlpin. The models which participated in the contest were divided into three classes. In Class A, which took in garments to retail up to $16.50, first prize was won by a dress entered by the Collegiate Dress Company. Second prize went to a dress from the Grace Dress Company, while the third prize fell to a suit entered by the Wamous Sports Suit and Coat House.

In Class B, which included garments to retail up to $30.50, all three prizes were taken by suits entered by D'Angio Brothers. The Mayer Chic Company won first prize in Class C with a dress and coat, while second and third prizes were taken by dress and cape combinations from Ash & Sattig. Garments in this class were to retail up to $55. The garments in all classes were made of fabrics knitted from worsted or from silk and worsted yarns, and about 300 garments were entered for competition. The judges were representatives of Franklin Simon & Co., Bonwit Teller & Co., Baer & Lilienthal, S. M. Goldberg, Kirby, Block & Fischer, William Van Buren and Vogue.

Certificates of award were given to the winners by the Contest Committee, which had the matter in charge and which was headed by William Heller as Chairman. Copies of the winning models are to be placed on display in leading stores through the country beginning early next month, and an extensive campaign pointing out the virtues of knitted fabric garments will be carried on at the same time. Only one retailer in a city will be permitted to show the models.

Mr. Heller presided at the luncheon and brief addresses were made by M. Rottenberg, who is Chairman of the Knitted Fabric Group; John F. Stern, Mr. Ash of Ash & Sattig, Mr. Mayer of the Mayer Chic Company, L. M. Goldstein, Louis Shour and I. A. Wyner. In their talks the various speakers pointed out the advantages a knitted fabric has over a woven one in the matter of color, price, softness, draping qualities, speed of manufacture, &c. The assertion was made that a woman could get just as much wear from a garment made of a knitted fabric, at half the cost to her, as she could from garment made of a woven one.

The purpose of the contest was twofold—to bring out new and attractive models made from knitted fabrics for early Summer wear, and to bring to the attention of the women of the country the advantages of knitted garments. The firms which underwrote the affair were the Chapman Knitting Mills, the Chocolate Textile Company, the Ess-Arr Knitting Mills, Inc., Goldmark Knitting Mills, Kent Knitting Mills, Knitted Textile Corporation, S. S. Knitting Mills, Shaut Woolen Mills and the New Brunswick Knitting Mill.

FEARS FOR CIVIL SERVICE.

Reform League Attacks Harding's Order as to Postmasters.

The report of a special committee of the Civil Service Reform League made public last night at a meeting at the City Club alleges that President Harding, in modifying the executive order of President Wilson to permit the appointment of Presidential postmasters by selection of one out of three instead of the first man in every case had permitted the appointments to postmasterships "through political or personal considerations."

The special committee recommended the "immediate restoration by executive order of the rule requiring that the highest man on the list be appointed until action may be secured in Congress to bring these positions within the competitive classified civil service."

In a letter to national organizations, calling a conference on civil service reform at Washington on April 27, the National Civil Service Reform League pointed out that "there seems to be a dangerous organized effort on the part of various members of Congress and others high in Government places to weaken, cripple and perhaps destroy the present competitive system in the civil service of our country."

HEADS CHARTER COMMISSION

Henry de Forest Baldwin, whom Governor Miller, a few days ago, appointed a member of the New York City Charter Revision Commission, at a meeting of that body yesterday was elected its Chairman to succeed former Supreme Court Justice Francis M. Scott, who died recently.

Mr. Baldwin is a lawyer, a member of the firm of Lord, Day & Lord. He is a Democrat, but is not affiliated with Tammany Hall. During the Strong Administration he was an Assistant Corporation Counsel, resigning in 1898. He was a candidate for Justice of the Supreme Court on a fusion ticket in 1911, but failed of election.

Mr. Baldwin has been active in civic movements. He is a Director of the People's Institute and a member of Citizens' Committee of the Century, University, Downtown, McDowell and Reform Clubs.

Wells Alumnae Raise $210,000.

The annual luncheon of the Alumnae of Wells College was held at the Hotel Vanderbilt yesterday. Reports were read on the progress of the drive which is now in progress to raise $1,000,000 for the endowment fund. The largest contribution was for $100,000, but the request was made that the donor's name be withheld. This contribution brings the subscriptions to $610,000.

Hatching Up Hosiery Colors.

One of the chain store hosiery organizations is now holding an exhibition of the new Spring colors in co-operation with the Textile Color Card Association. It is the purpose of this company to show the public that all the new shades are to be included in the hosiery, window displays being made for that purpose. Fabrics featured in garments are to be obtained and displayed with hose dyed in the same or the predominating color. By this means it is believed the sale of hosiery will be stimulated and more pleasing color effects in the complete costume obtained.

Benefit of Careful Buying.

One benefit which follows the smaller but more careful purchases of clothing noted in many stores is the absence of heavy cancellations. A wholesale representative explained yesterday that, while the business has many problems to solve, cancellations have become less of an evil. "We have noticed," he said, "that, since buyers got cautious, they have limited their needs more carefully and when they place an order it is very sure of going through. Last year at this time, there were heavy cancellations, showing that many merchants had miscalculated their needs. This is not the case now even with large purchases."

New Motor Dust Wrap.

An automobile dust wrap is featured for the first time in a well known imported line at automobile rugs. The wrap comes in a fringed design of all wool and sells for $7 wholesale, and is a Summer novelty. The more staple offerings of the concern show a different color than the former lines. A new shade of blue is noted in the plaid back pattern of one robe, replacing the previous black and white and effects. Brushed wool effects are also to be had in a number of more vivid colors. The new line is priced wholesale at from $4 to $27.

Furs to Go on Show Today.

About $2,000,000 worth of raw furs from all parts of the world will be placed on display in the warehouses of the New York Auction Company, Inc., today prior to being sold at public auction in the Masonic Hall here next week. The staple furs in the collection, which is said to be well balanced and of generally good quality, are expected to attract more attention from prospective buyers than the fancier skins that prevailed during the Spring season. Wolf, raccoon, muskrat, skunk and red fox are among those that will most likely get a careful looking over. Red fox was said yesterday to be coming strongly as a choker item, and is expected to show well in any Fall business which develops in that article.

Retail Hat Season on May 8.

The retail season for Summer hats will open officially on May 8, according to an announcement made yesterday by J. R. Bolton, business manager of the Retail Millinery Association of America. This date was set, it was said, in order to allow sufficient time for a "clean up" on hats for the Spring season and yet give the retailers ample time in which to dispose of chapeaux for warm-weather wear. As has been the case in recent seasons, the association will play up two colors, and in connection with this will work with the New York Dress Goods Association. The selected shades, which will be taken from the new card of the Textile Color Card Association, will be announced shortly.

Fall Garment Lines Soon.

Early next month will see the preparation of Fall garment lines about completed, according to the present plans of the manufacturers. Owing to labor and business uncertainties, some houses feel it would be better to delay their openings as long as possible, so that the situation may become better adjusted. On the other hand, there is quite a strong sentiment in the market toward sounding out the possibilities of Fall trade. This recognizes the general opinion that the Fall will see much greater activity than now exists in retail lines. It is explained that, while many retailers are willing to operate only as the need arises for the present season, they appear to be decidedly more optimistic concerning next Fall.

Furniture Buyers Here.

Registrations at the semi-annual exhibition of the New York Furniture Exchange, which opened on Monday, were reported yesterday as fully up to those of a year ago. The manufacturers are showing Fall lines, and the exhibition will be continued for two weeks, closing on April 29. Buyers are not making heavy purchases, but the orders are considered satisfactory. Prices are on the same levels as last October, owing, it is said, to the fact that, while there have been certain reductions in raw materials, no decline has taken place in wages, which are still close to the peak rates, the average being 55 cents an hour, while the record was 65 cents. Furniture prices, it was explained, have come down about one-third from the peak values. The manufacturers are reported as welcoming the present Federal Trade Commission investigation.

Gray Goods Again Active.

Gray goods had another good day in this market yesterday. Sales for nearby delivery were made in considerable volume, and many prices that were accepted when the market opened were later refused. In the printcloth business taken for delivery in the next thirty days or so were 38½-inch 64-60s at 7¼ cents, with 7¾ cents asked. Eastern 38½-inch 64-60s brought 6¾ cents, with 7 cents now quoted. For 39-inch 68-72s early buyers paid 8¼ cents, with an eighth higher now asked. Asking prices for 39-inch 80-squares and 72-76s were 10¼ and 10 cents, respectively, with early sales of the latter made at 9¾ cents. For 39-inch 64-60s buyers paid 6¼ cents. In the sheetings there was further sizeable business in 5.50s at 6¼ cents, in 6.15s at 6¼ cents, in four-yard 48-squares at 8 cents and four-yard 56-60s at 8¾ cents net.

Look for Wool Hose to Repeat.

While opinions in the local hosiery trade do not wholly agree on the chances of a repetition next Fall and Winter of the excellent business done on wool hose during the season just closed, the indications are that these goods will again be in big demand when the cold weather rolls around. Supporting this view, the position is taken that many women and girls, once having learned the value of wool hose as a cold weather article, will continue to use them. The question as to whether next season will see a continuance of the high sports patterns and colors which prevailed during the last one or not is wide open, and comments given on both sides. Much will depend on the lasting qualities of the sports wear vogue in women's clothing. Regardless of this, predictions are made in certain quarters that the coming season will be the best for wool hose that have ever been experienced.

Says Credit Is Too Cheap.

Not the least important factor in the situation in which the ready-to-wear trades find themselves at the present time, it was said here yesterday, is the freedom with which credit has been granted during the depression in business. In other words, credit has been made too cheap. As proof of this is the case of a Middle Western retail concern that failed early last October with liabilities estimated at $200,000 and assets at $100,000. A composition of 30 cents on the dollar was confirmed by the court two months later. The same concern failed a second time about a week ago with liabilities estimated at $200,000 and with a number of local houses among the creditors. It was said that this case while extreme, could be supplemented by many others showing as much liberality in giving credit in attempts to stimulate buying.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The Standware Knit Products, Inc., a subsidiary of Rudolph Schreiber, Inc., has started the manufacture of a full line of women's bathing suits and sport coats at No. 1 Sunbeam Place, at 225 Fifth Avenue.

A mass meeting of delegates of the National Council of Traveling Salesman's Associations will be held at the Hotel Claridge on April 27 at 2 P. M. to hear of the protests made in different Legislatures.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Downward Reaction in Stocks, Bonds Move Irregularly—Foreign Exchange Lower.

The downward reaction which occurred in most markets yesterday was one of those incidents for which different people assign different causes, and will probably continue to do so. Occurring as this reaction did at the moment of Germany's disconcerting performance at Genoa, the impulse of Wall Street was to ascribe it wholly to that news; for Wall Street always prefers concrete and particular explanations. Even when one allows for the fact that the stock market was declining on Monday before the cables told of the Rasso-German treaty, and for the further fact that the recent pace and character of the speculation were of the kind which invites reaction, every one recognises that the situation created at the conference injects at least an element of uncertainty. The rise on the Stock Exchange had not been based on belief in immediate success of the German deliberations; on the contrary, all financial markets have been skeptical concerning them. But this was at least an unexpected turn with conceivably disturbing possibilities.

Yesterday's decline on the Stock Exchange was not sensational, however; the prevailing 1 to 2 point net losses were not much greater than those which occurred in the early days of last week and the week before, and although exchange on the principal European markets also went lower yesterday the net decline in most cases merely canceled the advances of the preceding day. It would therefore be a reasonable conclusion that the reaction has thus far been no more than might have been anticipated from the general condition of the markets, and that the influence of Monday's new German achievement in the way of diplomatic tact will be determined by the actual outcome of the matter.

In the stock market yesterday's largest declines occurred where they properly belonged—in the group of "oil stocks" which are infested with reckless speculation, conducted under professional auspices on the basis of professional "tips." When trading on Monday in the shares of one of these concerns reached 240,000 shares—as against 206,000 dealt in during the whole preceding week, 136,000 the week before that, and 60,000 three weeks ago—it would need a very dull mind not to understand what was going on. The ordinary course of the market would have put a stop to this clumsy business, with or without the mutual amenities of Rathenau and Tchitcherin. Elsewhere the special points of weakness yesterday were mostly those industrial stocks which had been advanced with particular violence during the past few days. For a time there was some diversion of interest through the bidding-up of the railway shares, a few of which rose a point or more in the early market. But this was transparently a manoeuvre of professional speculators anxious to check the reaction in prices elsewhere; the early advances were much more than canceled before the close.

It may be doubted whether the European news had any real influence on the investment bond market. A few of the foreign government bonds declined, notably the French issues. But there was no uniformity in the movement; some foreign loans went slightly higher. What was possibly more to the point, the reopening of the European stock exchanges after their three-day holiday brought advances yesterday of ¾ point in the French 5 per cents. and of ⅛ to 1 full point in British Government bonds, which reached high-record prices.

Sterling declined 1⅞ cents and recovered 1 cent of the loss; French exchange declined from 9.37 cents to 9.36⅛ and recovered to 9.36. This was last Thursday's rate; it was then the highest since 1919. Paris itself can hardly have been mentally overwhelmed by the turn of events at Genoa. THE TIMES financial correspondent cabled from Paris, at the beginning of last week, that the French market then fully expected that during the conference "the representatives of the Soviet will raise difficulties and probably work for that purpose with Germany."

MONEY.

TUESDAY, APRIL 18, 1922.

Call loans on Stock Exchange opened, renewed and ruled at 3½ per cent. throughout session, unchanged from Monday's low and closing, but down a half from opening and renewal. Funds were in abundance at this rate, over-the-counter loans going at 3. No change was reported in the rates for fixed period loans, a few thirty-sixty-day trades going at 4¼, with lenders asking 4½ for three to six months, on both classes. Commercial paper brokers report a quiet market, scarcity of prime name bills being a factor, ruling rate continuing at 4½@4¾, but endorsed mill paper shading this by a quarter of 1 per cent. Acceptances were steady at prevailing discounts.

U.S. Government Borrows at 3½%

A point of the greatest significance in our financial situation was the sale by the U. S. Government of its Treasury Certificates bearing 3½%. This is the lowest figure at which the U. S. Government has attempted short term financing since 1917. Immediately the prices of many sound Bonds reached new high levels.

This action is the direct reflection of official governmental opinion that we may expect a period of low interest rates. The number of high grade Bonds selling on a 6% basis or better are becoming fewer every day.

OIL MEN GO TODAY TO MEET OBREGON

Teagle, Van Dyke, Doheny, Lufkin and Sinclair Will Confer With Him on April 24.

WOULD POOL INTERESTS

Intention Is to Seek and Develop New Oil Lands and to Discuss Disputed Export Taxes.

Officers of five of the leading American oil companies with interests in Mexico will leave for that country today to attend a conference on the export taxes levied on petroleum by the Mexican Government last year. President Obregon and Adolpho de la Huerta, Minister of Finance, will be present at the conference, which is to take place on April 24 in Mexico City.

Those who are going to the Mexican capital are Walter C. Teagle, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey; J. W. Van Dyke, President of the Atlantic Refining Company; E. L. Doheny, President of the Mexican Petroleum Company; E. C. Lufkin, President of the Texas Company, and H. F. Sinclair, Chairman of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation.

An official statement issued yesterday by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey said: "This committee will discuss with the Mexican officials the question of the further development of oil production in Mexico," in addition to the export taxes. The statement also said: "It has already been made clear to them that such discussion does not contemplate special privileges for the proposed new consolidated company, but that, on the contrary, any modification of existing regulations and any new extension of exploration and drilling rights should apply equally to all parties interested in Mexican production."

Edward L. Doheny recently returned from an inspection tour of all of the Mexican Petroleum properties. He spent several days in Mexico City. In oil trade circles the opinion was expressed that Mr. Doheny paved the way for a speedy settlement of the oil tax controversy, which has been hanging fire for eight months or more, and made arrangements for the exploration of undeveloped properties of the various companies in Mexico—hundreds of thousands of acres.

The new consolidated oil company mentioned in the Standard Oil statement refers to the company proposed by the five concerns named for the purpose of pooling all undeveloped lands. The new company would take over all properties owned outright or by lease by the five companies on which no production has been obtained, but which are believed to contain vast quantities of oil. Much of the land to be taken over is in the Tuxpam district, which has been idle for about ten years.

One purpose of the consolidated company is to pool the expense of developing this property. Heretofore most of the oil produced in Mexico has come from land near the coast. Some of these fields have gone to salt water in recent years or have dropped in production. Now that new fields will have to be opened to continue production at a high rate, considerable capital must be expended for drilling, building of transportation lines, building of camps, establishment of water lines, &c. If the lands of the various companies are pooled as proposed, it is believed the expense would be minimized and development work facilitated. Recent reports are that the new company will be organized in this country and the stock distributed among the five large companies on a pro rata basis.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

Market Reactionary, Rates Lower Following Heaviness Abroad—French and Italian Lead Decline.

After recessing four days, or since last Thursday, foreign financial markets were heavy yesterday, a fact which was communicated to local dealings in European exchanges, rates here reacting under a selling pressure which originated abroad. French and Italian were conspicuously weak, after taking the lead in recent markets, while rates on London, Berlin, Belgian, Scandinavians and Central Europeans were heavy and lower.

In the subjoined table the quotation on sterling represents dollars and decimals of a dollar; all others represent cents and decimals of a cent. Quotations preceded by the decimal mark indicate a price measured in fractions of a cent.

The bulk of China's commerce, its producing and consuming power, lies in the eighteen provinces of the Southeast, of which Canton and Hongkong are the principal centers.

The Bank of Canton's head office is at Hongkong; it is a native bank, closely in touch with the business of that rich country; its New York Agency, in charge of native Chinese, brings to American business men direct and authoritative information on Chinese commercial and industrial affairs.

DUTCH LINE BONDS OFFERED TOMORROW

MANILA ELECTRIC CO. 7S

$2,500,000 Issue, Due in 1942, Being Floated at 98½—Packing Co. Makes $750,000 Offering.

White, Weld & Co. and Blair Co., Inc., will offer tomorow an issue of 20,000,000 guilders, 25-year 6 per cent. bonds of the Holland-America Line. They will be dated May 1. Simultaneous with the offering in New York, 10,000,000 guilders will be offered in Holland by a Rotterdam bank, an Amsterdam bank and R. Nees & Zoonen. This issue constitutes the only funded debt of the Holland-America Line. The funds will be used to complete the company's building program for 1922 and 1923. The bonds are offered on a basis of $925 for 2,500 guilders.

Bonbright & Co. are offering $2,500,000 Manila Electric Company 7 per cent. bonds, due in 1942, at 98½ to yield 7.15 per cent.

Otis & Co., Howe, Snow, Corrigan & Bertles of Grand Rapids and Powell Gerard of Chicago are offering today $750,000 first mortgage 7½ per cent. sinking fund bonds of Hammond, Standish & Co. of Detroit, who were among the pioneer packers of the Middle West. The issue is secured by a closed first mortgage on fixed assets of the company now owned in Detroit. The average annual net earnings for six years ended Oct. 31, 1921, were more than $2,600,000, after provision for Federal taxes. The bonds will be offered at par.

Remick, Hodges & Co., Biddle & Henry and Harris & Smith & Co. are offering a new issue of $950,000 City of Bethlehem, Pa., 4½ per cent. bonds. They are dated Jan. 1, 1922, and are due serially 1924 to 1932, at prices to yield 4.10 per cent. Of these bonds, $500,000 are bridge bonds and $450,000 street improvement. They are tax free in Pennsylvania and exempt from all Federal income taxes.

G. L. Miller & Co., real estate bankers, of Atlanta, Ga., have closed negotiations for financing a $900,000 apartment house to be built in Miami, adjacent to the Royal Palm Hotel. An offering of $300,000 of bonds, secured by the plant and the annual revenues from the property, is being made by G. L. Miller & Co. on a basis to net 8 per cent. The bonds are due serially.

Dillon, Read & Co. announced yesterday that the issue of $1,790,000 Grand Trunk Western Railway Company 6 per cent. equipment notes had been sold. Lee, Higginson & Co. and Ladenberg, Thalmann & Co. announced that the $4,000,000 Pauliata Railway issue of 7 per cent. bonds had been oversubscribed.

CONFER IN PARIS ON MEXICAN LOAN

ALL DESIRE A SETTLEMENT

Obregon Lays Down Rules for Distribution of Lands to Be Expropriated by Government.

PARIS, April 18 (Associated Press).—Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co., who has just arrived from the United States, met today representatives of France, Great Britain, Holland, Switzerland and Belgium to discuss the financing of a new Mexican loan. They discussed the conditions to be offered to Adolfo de la Huerta, Mexican Minister of Finance, when he goes to New York to discuss flotation of the loan.

It was reported that all the countries involved were desirous of coming to terms to facilitate the floating of the loan and to resume financial relations with Mexico. The negotiations are being kept secret, since the representatives of the leading countries prefer that the text of the agreement should be given out by Señor de la Huerta himself after it has been signed in New York.

MEXICO CITY, April 18 (Associated Press).—The bases under which the Federal agrarian law is to be administered are outlined in a decree, signed yesterday by President Obregon, which is expected to become effective today upon publication in the Diario Official.

The decree contains twenty-eight articles, which describe the methods of land expropriation and distribution, with a preface pointing out why certain people have inherent rights to the land which the Federal Government purposes to expropriate. Six classes of towns, ranging from considerable villages to the smallest communities, are named as beneficiaries, and the lands to be expropriated include cultivated as well as uncultivated terrain.

Restitution of lands to towns is not permitted under the decree when the actual possessor of the property can prove that his title to the same was obtained in conformity with the law of June 23, 1856, and when it can be shown that the lands asked for by the townsmen do not exceed fifty hectares in area (123½ acres) and have been possessed by the person named in the title for more than ten years. Properties of less than fifty hectares are to be untouched in all cases.

Each head of a family or individual more than eighteen years of age shall receive land, the amount varying according to the value of the soil. In the case of land under irrigation, or where the moisture is sufficient the year round, the allotments shall range from three to five hectares; lands dependent upon rains which are regular but not as abundant as in the foregoing allotments, from four to six hectares, and where rainfall is variable and often scant, from six to eight hectares.

The following classes are prohibited from acquiring allotments: Professional men, those who possess lands similar to those expropriated, persons having capital of more than 1,000 pesos, and Federal or municipal employes earning salaries of more than seventy-five pesos a month.

Structural Steel Orders Increase.

Structural steel orders placed in the United States in March sharply increased over the total for February, according to figures compiled by the Bridge Builders and Structural Society. The total for March was 139,300 tons, equal to about 77 per cent. of the country's capacity. This compared with 78,700 tons, or 43¾ per cent. of capacity, in February. Announcement was made that the society would disband on April 30, but hope is expressed that arrangements can be made for continuance of collection of the monthly figures reported above.

OFFER DETROIT BONDS.

Bankers Trust Company Heads Syndicate for $5,546,000 Issue.

A syndicate composed of the Bankers Trust Company, the National City Company, Harris, Forbes & Co., Remick, Hodges & Co., Kean, Higbie & Co. and Hannahs, Ballin & Lee, are offering $5,546,000 City of Detroit 4½ per cent. and 5 per cent. bonds. The 4½s are being offered to yield about 4.25 per cent. and the 5s to yield about 4.35 per cent. The bonds, dated Jan. 15, 1922, are a legal investment for savings banks and trust funds in New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut and other States. They are exempt from all Federal income taxes and are tax exempt in Michigan.

The Canadian Debentures Corporation, Ltd., is offering $800,000 7 per cent. first mortgage sinking fund bonds of the Canadian Paperboard Company, Ltd. The bonds, offered at 96.50, to yield more than 7¼ per cent., are dated April 1, 1922, and are due April 1, 1937. Interim certificates, dated April 1, 1922, will be issued pending delivery of the definite bonds. The bonds are secured by a first mortgage on the entire fixed assets of the company, which is the largest manufacturer of paperboard in Canada.

N. Y. C. SHOPS REOPENED.

Road Starts Three Plants With 775 Men on Piece-Work.

The New York Central Railroad Company yesterday announced the reopening Monday of three locomotive and car shops on a piece-work basis, giving employment to 775 men. A scale of wages 25 per cent. higher than in 1917 will be instituted, it was said. The shops are located at West Albany, where 500 men were taken back; Avis, Pa., with 175 men, and Collinwood, Ohio, with 100 men.

These shops have been idle more than six weeks. Last week the managers of the road conferred with representatives of various classes of workers on the question of piece-work, and the resumption of work in these three shops is held to be a development of these negotiations. Piece-work was discontinued during Federal control.

BANKERS MAKE HOTEL PLANS

The Commodore to Be Headquarters of National Convention.

The American Bankers' Association announced yesterday that the Hotel Commodore had been selected as headquarters for the annual convention to be held here Oct. 2 to 6, inclusive. Harvey D. Gibson, Chairman of the association's Hotel Committee, arranged the selection after a conference with the Hotel Association of New York, the membership of which includes ninety-two hotels in Manhattan.

It is expected that about 7,500 out-of-town delegates will attend the annual meeting. The Hotel Committee is mailing circulars to all members, giving the names and locations of hotels with which allotment arrangements have been made for the accommodation of convention guests and also giving maximum and minimum rates.

MOODY'S RATING SERVICE PROTECTS YOU

The Story of Two Wills

THREE years ago, one of our clients died, leaving about $200,000 to his widow. But he named a strong trust company as executor with instructions that the money be kept continuously invested in bonds rated "Aaa" by Moody's Rating Book Service.

Two years ago, another of our clients died, leaving about $100,000; but he appointed an inexperienced youth as executor, and left no instructions regarding the investment of the money.

IN the latter case, the good investments were promptly sold and within a year most of the money was lost in crude speculations. Today, the widow is being supported by her relatives.

IN the former case, the widow is enjoying a sure income of about $12,000 a year, and the value of the estate has appreciated over 15% as a result of the recent appreciation in the high grade bond market.

A Protective Service for Corporations

FEW corporations like to assume the responsibilities in connection with the transfer of their capital stock, even when the number of stockholders is comparatively small.

Heavy liabilities and penalties may be incurred through failure to comply with constantly changing statutes and rulings governing—

—Federal and State tax procedure;
—transfers from a decedent to an estate or a beneficiary;
—the replacement of lost certificates;
—the present authority of a person signing under a power of attorney.

Many corporations have found it more satisfactory to employ our special facilities for this work than to do it within their own organizations.

As your transfer agent we would attend to all transfers of stock; keep the stock ledgers; issue and countersign new certificates; furnish, whenever you requested it, a list of stockholders; pay your dividends; address envelopes; mail proxies, circulars, and annual statements.

Our booklet, "Trust Service for Corporations," describes this service more fully. We shall be pleased to send it and to advise you regarding the cost of this service as adapted to your requirements.

RADIO

Marvel of all Ages

The tremendous commercial importance of Radio has a direct bearing on many securities in the public eye. No invention, not excepting the aeroplane, automobile, telephone, telegraph, has attracted such widespread general interest. Radio, it is agreed, will eclipse all other inventions in the breadth and sphere of its importance. An industry running into hundreds of millions of dollars has sprung up almost over night. The forthcoming edition of the F. A. Brewer & Co. Review, a carefully prepared summary of financial news helpful to intelligent and conservative investors, issued monthly, will contain articles descriptive of some of the companies chiefly identified with Radio. # OIL CONTRACTS LET IN NAVAL RESERVES

Arrangement by Which Wyoming Field is Opened to Private Enterprise is Announced.

ANOTHER FOR CALIFORNIA

Sinclair's Mammoth Oil Co. Gets Former Contract and Pan-American Petroleum Co. the Latter.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Contracts for the opening of the naval oil reserves in Wyoming to private enterprise and the operation of those already opened in California in a manner designed to assure the navy permanent storage of fuel oil above ground were announced today by Acting Secretary of the Interior Finney.

A contract with the Mammoth Oil Company of Delaware, a new concern, of which H. F. Sinclair of the Sinclair Oil Company is President, provides for the tapping of the so-called Teapot Dome in Naval Reserve 3 in Wyoming, the Government to receive graduated royalties, ranging from 12½ per cent. to 50 per cent., for the entire area of the reserve.

Under a contract with the Pan-American Petroleum Company of California, the handling and exchange of crude oils from Naval Reserves 1 and 2, in California, is provided for, involving the exchange of the navy's royalty oil from the reserves for fuel oil in storage at points designated by the navy on the Pacific Coast.

The contracts are in line with the recently announced policy of the Government with reference to the disposition of the naval oil lands, worked out by Secretaries Fall and Denby, and instituting a departure from the former policy of storing naval oil in the ground.

Purposes of New Policy.

"For more than a year," Judge Finney's announcement said, "the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of the Navy have had under consideration the handling of the two naval reserves in California and the naval reserve in Wyoming, the latter known as the Teapot Dome, with the idea of working out a policy which would secure the greatest conservation and use for the navy of the oils in such reserves, prevent drainage by wells of private owners and adjoining lands and secure to the navy an available storage of fuel oil at convenient points readily accessible wherever and whenever needd. It was found that oil was bing drained from all of these reserves in very large quantities, amounting to millions of dollars of loss up to the present time, by wells on adjoining lands and that in all probability within a few years the Government reserves would be depleted.

"The Mammoth Company will drill "at least twenty wells within a limited time," Judge Finney said, and will construct a pipe line from the Wyoming fields to existing pipe lines in Missouri for the exchange of crude for fuel oils for naval use. Through which navy specified Bunker oil will be delivered at any point named from Guantanamo, Cuba, to the northeast corner of the United States.

A line of credit is provided for the exchange and storage of oil "without cash outlay by the Government" at any point fixed by the Navy Department along the Atlantic Coast. The Mammoth Company as lessee of the field shall, at its own expense and without obligation on the navy's part, provide gasoline, kerosene, lubricating and cylinder oil at market prices.

Pipe Line a "Common Carrier."

The pipe line, when built, will be a "common carrier" for all Government oils, which will be given priority of transportation both from the Teapot Dome and the adjoining Salt Creek field over the use of the pipe line by the lessee. The pipe lines already constructed with which the new pipe line will connect, Judge Finney said, represent an investment of $115,000,000, and the contract calls for an investment of not less than $36,000,000 in addition.

A feature of the new scheme, "not the least in importance," officials said, is the opening up to competition of the Salt Creek field, and the probability of increasing the price of oil from this field, which adjoins the Teapot, to the mid-continent price.

Through lack of competition because of lack of pipe line and refining facilities, it was pointed out, many of the small independents were unable to find a market for more than 40 per cent. of their capacity, which was sold through an operating company at a price usually much lower than the mid-continent price.

From 40 to 50 cents a barrel, according to Judge Finney's statement, will be added to the price of Governmental royalty oils, which now amount to 8,000 barrels daily. This is secured, the statement added, by an option held by the Government "to sell royalty oils on the basis of mid-continent prices if and when desired."

The contract affecting the California reserves was awarded to the Pan-American as the "best and lowest bidder." The losses from drainage "in these reserves," Judge Finney said, "have been enormous, running into many millions of dollars. The approval of this contract will enable the Government to save the remaining oil in these reserves and exchange it for fuel oil in storage for the benefit of the navy."

Iron Cap Copper Reports a Loss.

The annual report of the Iron Cap Copper Company for 1921 shows gross income of $71,700, but a loss, after the payment of taxes, interest and other expenses, of $200,996. After allowing for depreciation and depletion charges the report shewed a net loss for the year amounting to $222,646.

CARLTON IS ELECTED U. S. RUBBER DIRECTOR

Other Members of Board Again Chosen—President Reports Business Satisfactory.

Newcomb Carlton, President of the Western Union Telegraph Company, was elected a Director of the United States Rubber Company at the annual meeting of the stockholders yesterday. The other Directors were re-elected.

Charles B. Seger, Chairman of the company, issued a statement after the meeting in which he pointed out that the company's business generally showed a steady improvement since the close of 1921, and that the sales for the first quarter of 1922 were "considered satisfactory."

"Tire business has shown substantial gain in unit sales over the corresponding period of last year," said Mr. Seger, "and an increase in dollar volume of sales notwithstanding a lower level of prices compared with last year.

"Trade conditions among tire dealers point to a substantial increase in demand over last year. The high quality of the company's products is reflected in increased demand, especially for Royal cord tires and tubes.

"There has been a steady increase in orders for mechanical rubber goods, which is particularly indicative of improvement in general business conditions, especially as current orders are largely for immediate delivery.

"Footwear orders indicate that there are no abnormal stocks in the hands of dealers, and while there has been conservatism in placing orders for Fall delivery, we look for normal business as the season progresses."

UTICA PAPERS SOLD.

Syndicate Takes Over Herald-Dispatch and Sunday Tribune.

UTICA, N. Y., April 18.—Announcement was made today by John G. Fulmer, President of The Utica Sunday Tribune, which publishes The Utica Herald-Dispatch, daily evening paper, and The Sunday Tribune, that the entire stock of the company has been acquired by Erwin R. Davenport, Frank E. Gannett and Woodford B. Copeland, who control The Rochester Times-Union and The Elmira Star-Gazette. Mr. Gannett is editor and publisher of The Ithaca Journal-News.

The four evening papers will be operated as a group, the same policy being pursued in each case, it was said. The Dispatch was established in 1896, and was merged with The Herald in 1906. The late Jacob Agne Jr. and John C. Fulmer were its principal owners. It has been Republican in politics, but will be independent under its new management, with Mr. Gannett as editor-in-chief and Mr. Davenport as publisher and President of the company.

FOREIGN STOCK MARKETS.

Government Bonds Advance Again at Paris and London.

LONDON, April 18.—Trading was quieter after early firmness on the Stock Exchange today. Gilt-edged securities were strong, however, while oil shares and British industrials were firm. Old 2½ per cent. consols, ¼ point higher at 59⅜; British 5 per cent. war loan, ⅛ higher at 100⅝; 4½ per cent. war loan, 1 point higher at 95⅛.

Rand Mines, unchanged at 3⅝; De Beers Mining, ⅛ lower at 19⅛.

PARIS, April 18.—Prices moved irregularly on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes were 75 centimes higher at 53 francs 40 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan, 5 centimes higher at 78 francs 50 centimes.

Exchange on London, 18 centimes lower at 47 francs 46 centimes per sovereign; American dollars were quoted at 10 francs 78½ centimes, against 10 francs 78⅛ centimes last Thursday.

URGE WAR FRAUD INQUIRY.

Johnson and Woodruff Ask All Members of House for Backing.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 18.—Representatives Johnson of South Dakota and Woodruff of Michigan, ex-service men, are seeking backing for a wholesale investigation of alleged fraudulent war contracts. They introduced resolutions on April 11 demanding inquiries into the disposal of surplus property by the War Department, the sale of the Bosch Magneto Company, the activities of the Chemical Foundation Company and the conduct of the office of the Alien Property Custodian.

These resolutions, they assert, are now "reposing peacefully" in the Rules Committee, and they asked by mail today every member of the House to sign a form urging the committee to bring up the resolutions.

RESERVE BANK SAVES LIGHT.

Will Change Clock From May 1 to Sept. 23.

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York announced yesterday that it would conform to daylight saving from May 1 to Sept. 23, this applying to New York and also to Buffalo, where there is a branch bank.

Clearings at the New York Clearing House will take place during the period at 10 o'clock local time, the equivalent of 9 A. M. present time. Clearings at the Buffalo Clearing House will take place at 11 o'clock on all days except Saturday and then at 10:15.

BUYS BETHLEHEM MOTORS.

New Yorker High Bidder at Sale by Receiver.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., April 18.—Howard B. Hall of New York City was high bidder for the property of the Bethlehem Motors Corporation at the receiver's sale held here today. His bid for the property in its entirety, including the real estate and personal property, both at Allentown and Pottstown, was $800,000.

The only other bid was that of the Creditors' Syndicate Committee, which offered $560,000.

After the receiver had recorded the bids the sale of the assets separately began, but at the conclusion of the bidding it was evident that the aggregate bids for separate parcels would not come near to the offer of Mr. Hall.

The sale is subject to confirmation by the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania.

Torbenson Axle Co. Reorganization.

Announcement was made yesterday that J. O. Eaton, formerly President of the Torbenson Axle Company, and other Cleveland interests, have bought the share of that company formerly owned by the Republic Motor Truck Company. The axle company has been reorganized. It will have outstanding 80,000 shares of common stock of no par value. Holders of its old preferred stock will receive four shares of new common for each share now held.

UNITED GAS PROFITS GAIN.

The United Gas Improvement Company, for the year ended December 31, 1921, shows net profits of $2,717,033, after allowing for taxes and charges, including a $1,795,047 loss from operations of the Philadelphia Gas Works. This is equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $1.82 a share on par value $50—earned on the $47,000,000 common stock, as compared with net of $2,000,000, or $1.61 a share earned in 1920. After allowing $915,986 for preferred dividends, and $2,447,192 for common dividends, the report showed a deficit of $130,031 for the year's operations. In 1920 the company showed a deficit of $2,604,771.

United Alloy Steel Shows Profit.

E. A. Langenbach, President of the United Alloy Steel Company, at the annual meeting of stockholders held yesterday said that the company during the first quarter of the year had shown profits of approximately $300,000. The company has three months' supply of coal on hand. John McConnell and Elton Hoyt were elected Directors to succeed J. A. Brull and E. L. Mann.

American Locomotive Election.

Retiring Directors of the American Locomotive Company were re-elected at the annual meeting of stockholders held yesterday. A total of 378,347 shares were voted at the meeting. The company now has 10,700 stockholders, according to statements by officials.

ROAD SHOWS DROP IN MARCH

Kansas City Southern's Net Decrease $64,436 From a Year Ago.

The March report of the Kansas City Southern Railroad, the first of the Class I carriers to report for this month, shows gross earnings amounting to $1,726,000, a decrease of $79,691 compared with the gross business in March, 1921. The net, after taxes totaled $320,000, a reduction of $64,436 against the March, 1921, net for that year. Operating expenses were cut from $1,357,691 in March, 1921, to $1,246,000, representing a saving of $43,000.

For the first quarter of 1922 the road showed gross revenues of $4,889,000, a decrease of $797,100 compared with 1921. Net after taxes, was $907,000, a decrease of $268,000.

La France Fire Engine Profits.

The American La France Fire Engine Company, Inc., for the first three months of 1922 reports an operating profit of $205,217, compared with $203,814 in the same period last year. Net income after interest, but before taxes, totaled $194,000, compared with $183,000.

Marland Oil Income.

The Marland Oil Company for the year ended Dec. 31, 1921, reports gross income of $6,653,603, compared with $9,826,043 in 1920. Net income, after all deductions, including operating expenses, interest and inventory adjustment, amounted to $1,562,764, compared with $6,849,615 in the previous year.

THIS WAS THE ANSWER: By carrying an interest-bearing account with either the London or Paris Office of The Equitable, you may—

1. Enjoy the advantages of an American bank, employing American methods, in the handling of your foreign business.
2. Pay foreign bills by check, thus effecting a saving in interest.
3. Estimate import costs on a definite exchange basis, thus eliminating the speculation involved in meeting obligations at a future date.
4. Buy exchange to replenish your balance when you consider rates to be most favorable.
5. Establish a valuable local reference overseas.
6. Secure first-hand trade and credit information.
7. Save your traveling representatives time and trouble through the Foreign Travel Service of our Paris Office.

The officers of the Foreign Department will gladly tell you in detail how The Equitable can be of service in the conduct and development of your overseas business.

UPTURN IN COTTON ON ACTIVE TRADING

Unfavorable Weather Reports Stimulate Buying—Prices Gain 3 to 25 Points.

For the first time in many weeks cotton not only held the previous day's advance, but made further gains yesterday. hTe action of the market encouraged more active trading, the volume of business being the largest of the month. Weather conditions were less favorable than recently, stimulating a buying movement that carried new crop positions into new high ground for the season. Several lines of May hedges were covered, contracts being supplied by local spot interests. It was not until both July and October had advanced over 17% cents that the advance halted. After a 20-point reaction final prices showed a gain of 3, to 25 points.

Whether due to political news from Genoa or to liquidation of cotton from this side, Liverpool made a poor response to Monday's sharp advance here. As a result opening prices were only a few points higher than the previous close, considerable cotton coming out on a basis of 17¼ cents for both July and October. Steadiness in the face of disappointing cable advices followed less favorable weather conditions in many sections. Rains where dry weather is needed, together with predictions of showers in some parts of the belt, with frosts in others, created enough buying to absorb all contracts without price recession.

Japanese interests proved active buyers, taking July and October contracts at advancing quotations. More active trading at an advance into new territory encouraged commission house business as well as increasing the demand from professional operators. Many who have not been in the market for weeks, having taken cotton the previous day, increased their lines when trading broadened.

A feature of the upward movement was the gain in October over July. For the first time this season, October, which represents the crop now being grown, sold several points over July, an old crop position. A few weeks ago July was selling half a cent over October. Increasing general interest in new crop positions has advanced late months, leaving operations in both May and July to those having hedges outstanding either here or in New Orleans. While one group covered May hedges around 40 points over July, contracts were supplied by houses that have held control of the May position for some months.

New Orleans operators took a quantity of July during the day, with buying by several professional operators on the theory that an extensive short interest in that month would have to be covered on the theory that an extensive short interest in that month would have to be covered eventually. Though a quantity of July was for sale at 17.60, 17.65 and again at 17.70, this cotton was all taken. Demand for October ran that month over 17¾ cents before the buying movement quieted down. Trading broadened out with a larger volume of business. Exports continued liberal, 90,000 so far this week compared with 50,000 bales for the entire week last year.

With an advance to 17¾ cents for July, the market ran into more cotton than could be absorbed. Though very little selling pressure occurred in new crop months, houses holding the May position sold heavily. Several lines of July appeared for sale, the South sending selling orders through various houses. Realizing started the last hour, bringing reselling on the part of room traders and causing a 20-point setback before closing. The extent of pressure on May was disclosed by a gain of only 3 points in that month compared with a quarter of a cent advance in January.

COMMODITY PRICES.

An advance of 2¾ cents the bushel in wheat, to $1.54, which is within a fraction of the highest price for the year to date, featured dealings in yesterday's local cash markets. In this group corn declined a half cent to 77¾ cents. Other changes were found in slight gains in butter and cotton, while Middle West land receded 10 points. In the metals, which are generally firm, lead moved up to 5.15 cents the pound, the record price for the year.

WHEAT STARTS HIGH, BUT DROPS AT CLOSE

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 18.—The technical position in wheat was weakened after an early bulge which carried May up to $1.44. When general selling started by commission houses and the local element, they found support limited a good part of the time, and the close was at net losses of 1⅝@2 cents with May leading.

Around $1.39 and under, heavy buying of May credited to leading interests that had been active in selling early checked the break. Part of the early selling was credited to Eastern longs. The May situation is such that the market is not expected to be influenced as much by the news as by the pit situation and rapid price changes are expected to be the rule rather than the exception.

There was evidence of a large export business having been put through on the decline, partly in old crop grain, with the seaboard claiming around 400,000 bushels, but there was close to 1,000,000 bushels of new Winters also worked, although the trade in general did not know it.

Liverpool closed 2 pence higher on all deliveries, making a disappointing showing on the May, but equalled the net advance for the July in Chicago as compared with last Thursday.

Sentiment after the close was decidedly mixed. Some of the closest observers look for a lower range early, with probably a good reaction early, although a great deal will depend on the cables from abroad. Crop reports from Europe continue to be on the whole rather unsatisfactory.

The shorts in May wheat are making every effort to secure grain for delivery and bought 120,000 bushels, mainly at Kansas City, to come here during the day. There were 166 cars of No. 3 hard Winter received from Kansas City out of a total of 192 cars shipped as No. 2, the greater part of the grain missing grade due to too heavy an admixture of heat-damaged grain. The weight and general quality were good. The shipment will be loaded into a boat and clear later in the week for the Washburn Crosby Buffalo mill. Wheat coming in from Omaha has been grading No. 2 almost without exception.

Unfavorable crop reports continue to come from western half of Kansas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and the Panhandle of Texas, with private estimates showing a loss of 10 per cent. of the acreage in the Panhandle and 35 per cent. in Kansas.

Foreigners have been rather persistent buyers of July and the September and the greater part of the new business is going into the deferred deliveries.

Corn and oats closed 1¼ cents lower, with the scattered liquidation in evidence in the May deliveries, stop loss orders being caught at 60 cents for May corn, which carried the price down to 59½, with only a minor rally from the inside figure.

Vessel men say that 1,000,000 bushels of corn will be loaded out here and 1,000,000 bushels at Milwaukee this and next week for Eastern shipment. Very little of it is said to have been sold. The embargo against shipments of grain to Fort William and Port Arthur has been lifted by the Canadian national railroads.

Primary arrivals of wheat today were 390,000 bushels; week ago, 293,000; last year, 975,000. Shipments were 450,000 bushels; week ago, 268,000; last year, 510,000.

Corn receipts were 295,000 bushels; week ago, 510,000; last year, 328,000, and shipments 620,000 bushels; week ago, 379,000; year ago, 435,000.

PARK PROTECTORS OPPOSE SCULPTURE

DIRECTORS' VOTE IS 10 TO 7

Dangerous Precedent Feared in Permitting Use of Space, Says George Gordon Battle.

The Parks and Playgrounds Association decided yesterday to oppose the holding of a sculpture exhibition in Central Park in September and October next. The decision of the association was conveyed to Park Commissioner Francis D. Gallatin in a letter which said that the project was "not a park purpose," would set a dangerous precedent and was contrary to law.

A tabulation of a vote by the organization's Board of Directors accompanying the letter showed that ten were against the exhibition, seven favored it and three failed to record their attitude. Commissioner Gallatin has given tentative approval to the project, which has been favored by some interested persons and organizations and disapproved by others.

The letter of the Parks and Playgrounds Association, signed by George Gordon Battle, its President, says:

"Hon. Francis D. Gallatin, Commissioner Department of Parks, Borough of Manhattan, Municipal Building, New York City.

"My Dear Commissioner—The Parks and Playgrounds Association of the City of New York, of which I have the honor to be President, has, as you know, for several weeks had under consideration the application of the National Sculpture Society to use a portion of Central Park on the lawn north of the Metropolitan Museum of Art for the purpose of holding an outdoor sculpture exhibition next Fall.

"A committee of our Directors first had a informal meeting at which you were kind enough to be present, together with Mr. Daniel Chester French and Mr. Adolph A. Weinman of the Sculpture Society. On this occasion the nature of the application was explained. It was then determined to have a full meeting of the Board of Directors at which the whole matter could be discussed.

Special Meeting Called.

"Accordingly, a special meeting of the board was held on April 11 at the Barkers' Club, 120 Broadway. On this occasion also you did us the honor to be present, while Mr. French and Mr. Weinman of the Sculpture Society also appeared, together with the majority of the members of our board. Mr. French and Mr. Weinman presented the grounds upon which they made the application, stating in effect that it was appropriate to exhibit sculpture amid trees and grass and the other outdoor surroundings of the park; that the proposed exhibition would constitute a formal garden containing dignified pieces of sculpture; that such a garden was peculiarly appropriate near the Metropolitan Museum as a link between the museum itself and the open spaces of the park; that the exhibition would be temporary, lasting about six weeks; that there would be no permanent damage to the park of any sort as the space occupied by the exhibition would be restored after the exhibition to its original condition; that there would be no encroachment made upon the park space; that the exhibition should be considered as a park purpose; that it would have great educational value. In this connection it was stated that Messrs. Olmsted and Vaux had originally intended that this space north of the Metropolitan Museum should be occupied by a formal garden.

"In opposition to these considerations one of our Directors, Hon. William R. Willcox, a former Park Commissioner, who has devoted interest for years to the preservation of our parks, stated that in his judgment it would be a most unfortunate precedent, saying that while the exhibition of the National Sculpture Society would undoubtedly be of the highest character, and while the applicants, of course, were actuated by the very best motives, still the exhibition would in itself be to a certain extent commercial in its character in that it would serve to bring to the attention of the public the work of the exhibitors. Mr. Willcox reviewed the very many attempts made, almost always with the best motives, to use our park space, and particularly Central Park, for exhibition purposes, and emphasized the continuous and effective opposition of our association to these projects. He expressed his very strong disapproval of the application.

"Mr. William Bradford Roulstone, the Chairman of our Parks Committee, took the same ground, stating his reasons at length.

"Mr. Charles Thaddeus Terry stated that he thought it might be permissible to have a formal garden with such an arrangement of statuary as would be permanently appropriate for such a garden.

Opinion Somewhat Divided.

"In this connection, Mr. Willcox and Mr. Roulstone called attention to the fact that in the proposed exhibition there would be a much greater concentration of statuary than would be usual or fitting in a permanent formal garden.

"Mr. Gutzon Borglum, one of the Directors of the association and himself a distinguished sculptor, was in favor of the application but recommended that in the arrangement of their plans there should be a natural and not an artificial placing of statuary.

"Mrs. Nelson H. Henry and Mrs. Tunis G. Bergen, also of our Board, expressed their opinion in favor of the project, which especially appealed to them on account of its educational value.

"Senator Straus, while granting these arguments, thought that it would be unwise to make such a precedent.

"The other Directors who were present at this meeting expressed their views on one side or the other, the majority being opposed to the application jointly upon the ground that it would be a very unhappy and dangerous precedent.

"After this discussion it was determined that, in view of the importance of the matter, the opinion of each Director of the association should be ascertained; accordingly, a communication stating fully all the facts was mailed to each member of the board and answers have been received except from one or two Directors who are absent from the city. The majority of the Directors expressed themselves in their replies as being opposed to the application on various grounds and jointly, as I have said, on the ground that an unfortunate precedent would be set.

"Our association fully recognizes the fact that there is something very appropriate and proper in the exhibition of sculpture in our parks. We also concede that the educational value of such an exhibition would be great and the good taste and moderation that has been shown by Mr. French and Mr. Weinman in the presentation of their case has very much impressed all the directors. Nevertheless, giving due weight to all of these considerations and with very full deliberation, our association must record itself as strongly opposed to the proposed exhibition. To grant the application would be to open the door to innumerable propositions to use Central Park for exhibitions of every character, and although the proposed exhibition of the National Sculpture Society would be a private exhibition for private purposes even though there would be an incidental educational effect. Against the use of the parks for private purposes our association has always set its face like a flint. We have strenuously in season and out of season resisted all encroachment upon the spaces of the parks. The people of our crowded city and particularly the children urgently need all the fresh air and sun that the parks can afford, and indeed far more than they can supply. Central Park would continue to give its best services to the people of New York if it is used strictly as a park and not a place for exhibitions of any character however well conducted.

"Furthermore, our association believes that the use of the Park for this purpose would be another contravention of the law as laid down by the Court of Appeals in the case of Williams v. Gallatin as to whether it would be lawful for the Safety Institute of America to use the arsenal building in the Park as a museum for the exhibition of its safety and sanitary appliances. The Court of Appeals conceded that the purposes of the Safety Institute were utilitarian and educational in character; that the aims of the institute were humanitarian and the objects of its founders most laudable; nevertheless the Court held by unanimous vote an opinion written by Mr. Justice Pound that the purpose of the Safety Institute of America was not a park purpose, saying "to promote the safety of mankind and to advance the knowledge of the people in methods of lessening the number of casualties, &c., is the purpose of the Safety Institute of America"; "to provide means of innocent recreation and refreshment for the weary mind and body is the purpose of the system of parks," and the Court added, "the legislative will is that Central Park should be kept open as a public park ought to be and not be turned over by the Commissioner of Parks to other uses. It must be kept free from intrusion of every kind which would interfere in any degree with its complete use for this end."

"For these reasons, and because we believe that this exhibition of sculpture by a private society is not a park purpose; because we believe that it would afford a very dangerous precedent and because we believe that it would be contrary to the law, our association very respectfully and earnestly objects to this application and herewith files its protest against it.

"In conclusion, we wish to express our deep appreciation of the courteous attention which you have paid our association in this as in all other matters. We recognize and value the devoted and highly intelligent interest with which you are conducting the affairs of the parks under your jurisdiction.

"With assurance of esteem and respect, believe me to be,

"GEORGE GORDON BATTLE,

"President."

The Directors voting in the affirmative were Gutzon Borglum, Alfred J. Boulton, Mrs. Tunis G. Bergen, Mrs. Nelson Herrick Henry, Mrs. V. G. Simkhovitch, Miss Pauline Robinson and Charles T. Terry.

The negative vote was as follows: William Bradford Roulstone, William R. Willcox, Miss Lillian D. Wald, Senator Nathan Straus Jr., Mrs. John Clapperton Kerr, William H. Williams, Frank Lyman, Gilbert Colgate, Miss Alice Lewisohn and George Gordon Battle.

Those not heard from were Mrs. John E. Berwin (out of town), Frank C. Munson and Mgr. Lavelle.

109 BRONX LOTS SOLD.

Home builders paid an average price of over $800 per lot for the 109 lots of the Faile Estate in the old Seneca Park section of the Bronx in the vicinity of Boston Road and 222d Street, sold at Auction in the Vesey Street salesroom yesterday by Joseph P. Day. A total of $89,560 was obtained for the property.

The first lots 26 by 112, located at the southeast corner of East 222d Street and Chester Street went to Bernard Weisberg for $450. The same buyer bought the triangular plot at the southwest corner of East 222d Street and Chester Street for $350, and the adjoining lot for $375.

Dr. G. Kaplan secured the lot at the northwest corner of Boston Road and East 223d Street for $775. The same buyer also bought the adjoining four lots on East 223d Street for $300 each. Seven lots at the southwest corner of Boston Road and East 224th Street went to Edward F. Ziegler for $5,250.

ASTOR HOLDING IN RESALE.

The six four-story tenements with stores, each on a lot 18 by 75 feet, at 96 to 108 Avenue A, between Sixth and Seventh Streets, have been resold by Benjamin Menschel to the Avenue A Motion Picture Theatre Corporation, Rudolph Sanders, President.

A 1,500-seat moving picture theatre will replace the present buildings. Mr. Menschel acquired the property on Monday from the trustees of Henry C. Drayton and Caroline Phillips under the will of William Astor. Morse, Underwood & Rodney were the brokers in the resale of the property.

Bronx Borough Sales.

Samuel Shapiro purchased from Miriam Blumberg the one-story taxpayer on the northeast corner of Third Avenue and Lorillard Place, on a plot 51 by 123 by 40 by 90 feet irregular, containing nine stores and basements. The property has an annual rental of $5,000 and was held for $50,000.

The Kiowa Realty Company sold to Edward M. Wolff 1,850 Bailey Avenue, being the southeast corner of 230th Street, 25 by 100, at present occupied by the New York Telephone Company.

Louis Gold & Co. sold the plot of ground recently purchased by them on the west side of Boston Road, between 167th and 168th Streets, adjoining the Crescent Theatre, to a builder who will immediately improve same with four two-story business buildings.

M. M. Reynolds sold for Katherine Hannon 1,240 Theriot Avenue, a two-family dwelling, to M. Murphy, and sold for Mrs. Jessie Burns a lot on 177th Street, 125 feet from the corner of Pugsley Avenue, on the north side of the street, to Daniel Lahey.

Herman A. Acker sold for the Chester D. Judis Building Corporation to an investor the one-story taxpayer in course of construction at the southwest corner of Burnside and Davidson Avenues, on a plot 125 by 101. The building contains ten stores. The property was held at $160,000.

Samuel Brener resold to a client of Spotts & Starr, the one-story taxpayer containing stores, on a plot 76.6 by 99.8, on the east side of Broadway, 25.6 feet north of 178th Street. Mr. Brener recently bought the property from Adolph Lewisohn.

Madison Avenue Corner Leased.

The former home of Robert Bonner, well known clubman, at 563 Madison Avenue and the adjoining parcels at 561 Madison Avenue and 53 East Fifty-sixth Street consisting of four five-story buildings altered into stores and studio apartments has been leased for a term of forty-two years to Jacob Volk Realty Company of 103 Park Avenue at an aggregate rental of over $1,250,000, or $30,000 yearly.

Mr. Bonner acquired the corner for his home in 1871 and subsequently as he realized the permanent value of the section he added the other parcels to his holding and then recently converted it to high class business and studio purposes.

On the expiration of the present leases two years hence, the new owner contemplates improving the plot with a new twelve-story building. Directly opposite this site the American Art Galleries are constructing their new home on the entire block front on the east side of Madison Avenue between Fifty-sixth and Fifty-seventh Streets.

Dwight Archibald and Perry were the brokers in the transaction.

Private House Buyers.

Former Police Commissioner Arthur Woods, now in the Department of Commerce at Washington, D. C., sold his residence at 185 East Seventy-fourth Street. It is a 20-foot English basement house and was acquired by Mr. Woods in May, 1920, from George W. Thompson. The sale was negotiated by the Brown-Wheelock Company.

L. J. Phillips & Co. sold for Abraham Goldsmith his four-story dwelling at 50 West Seventy-fifth Street, held at $40,000. Dr. Joseph Coleman, the purchaser, will occupy the house next Fall after extensive alterations.

Pease & Elliman sold for Jacob Lippman, the four-story dwelling, 19 feet front, at 46 East Eightieth Street, between Madison and Park Avenues, to a buyer for occupancy. The property had not changed hands for more than thirty years.

Pease & Elliman leased for Miss Lelia Henning to Claire Elise the entire building at 120 West Forty-fifth Street for a long term.

Broadway Taxpayer Resold.

Samuel Brener resold to a client of Spotts & Starr the one-story taxpayer on a plot 76.6 by 99.8 on the east side of Broadway, 25.6 feet north of 178th Street. The property was recently acquired by the seller from Adolph Lewisohn.

LATEST DEALINGS IN REALTY FIELD

REPORTED A RECORD PRICE

Deal Involves Resale of North River Savings Bank Building— Active Apartment Trading.

At a figure said to be a record price for a 25-foot parcel of property on the west side of Thirty-fourth Street, between Fifth and Sixth Avenues, Frederick Brown, a realty operator, resold the North River Savings Bank building, at 21 West Thirty-fourth Street, for $500,000 to a client of Clark T. Chambers. The structure, which occupies a lot fronting 25 feet on the street and having a depth of 98 feet 9 inches, was purchased last December for speculation through Joseph P. Day.

The buyer, whose name Mr. Chambers refused to reveal at the present time, is said to be a cloak and suit manufacturer. He paid all cash for the property.

Apartment House Trading.

Julius Tishman & Sons, Inc., have purchased 64 and 72 East Eighty-seventh Street, which together with their recent purchase of the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Eighty-seventh Street, comprising 1,054 and 1,056 Park Avenue, gives them a plot of 50 feet on Park Avenue and 133 feet on Eighty-seventh Street, which they intend to improve with a fourteen-story apartment house. Duff & Conger, Inc., and Edward W. Scott Jr. were the brokers in the transaction.

The seven-story San Salvador apartments at the southwest corner of Central Park West and Ninety-eighth Street have been transferred by D. F. Marcus to the newly formed Central Exchange Realty Corporation, represented by J. A. Seidman as attorney. It occupies a site fronting 50.11 feet on Central Park West and 100 feet on Ninety-eighth Street.

Daniel B. Freedman, operator, bought from the Althea Rudd Ward estate, Henry W. De Forest trustee, the northwest corner of Broadway and Ninety-third Street, a five-story apartment with stores, on lot 25.2 by 100. The Brown, Wheelock Company negotiated the deal. A couple of years ago Mr. Freedman bought the large holdings of William R. Peters at the southwest corner of Broadway and Ninety-fourth Street, comprising a frontage of 100 feet on Broadway and 225 feet on Ninety-fourth Street. With his latest acquisition he now controls the block on Broadway with the exception of a 75-foot Higgins estate leasehold.

The Estate of Margaret E. Hughes has disposed of properties valued at about $500,000 in a series of deals negotiated by E. Francis Hillenbrand, as broker.

The six-story walk-up apartment house with fourteen stores, at the northwest corner of Amsterdam Avenue and Eighty-fourth Street, on a plot 40 by 100, was sold to a client of Thomas F. Keogh.

The six-story elevator apartment house, known as the Gertrude, at 326 West Eighty-third Street, on a plot 40 by 102.2, was sold to a client of Cohen Brothers, attorneys. It is located 140 feet east of Riverside Drive.

To a client of Judge Clinton Flint, of Freeport, L. I., Mr. Hillenbrand sold for the Hughes Holding Company the three four-story flats with stores at the southeast corner of Third Avenue and Seventy-third Street, on plot 75 by 100, and the four-story tenement with stores at the southeast corner of Macdougal and Third Streets, on a lot 20 by 65.

Daniel H. Jackson bought from Joseph Herman 521 and 523 West 182d Street, adjoining the corner of Audubon Avenue, a five-story new law apartment on plot 50 by 80. It is rented at $12,400 and is held at $70,000. M. Florin was the broker in the transaction.

The Ottenberg Estate sold 36 West 116th Street, a five-story apartment with stores, on lot 20 by 100. The property rents for $10,000 and was held at $60,000. The purchaser is an investing client of George Steinman, Inc., who were the brokers in the transaction.

Spear & Co. sold for the Havemeyer Real Estate Company, of which W. Butler Duncan is President, the five-story apartment house at 65 to 69 West Twelfth Street, to the Harding Realty Co., Inc., James A. Polsky, President.

Edwin E Vollhart sold through J. Lemle the northeast corner of Eighty-third Street and East End Avenue, a four-story double flat with stores on a lot 26 by 61.

P. & B. Fridmann leased for Miss Lelia Henning to Claire Elise the entire building at 120 West Forty-fifth Street for a long term.

$205,000 Loan Placed.

Charles B. Van Valen, Inc., obtained from a savings bank a loan of $205,000 at 6 per cent. on the Lido Hall apartments, at the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and 110th Street. The building is nine stories and basement, occupying a plot 70 by 100 feet. They have a rental of $56,000 per annum.

The M. Morgenthau Jr. Company placed a first mortgage of $145,000 for a term of years, on 112, 114 and 116 East Eighty-first Street for the East Eighty-first Street Corporation. This is a plot 100 by 102.4 feet, on the south side of Eighty-first Street, between Park and Lexington Avenues. The property was recently been altered and modernized and is leased to Dr. Carlos L. Henriques for a term of years.

The mortgages were made by the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, which has returned to the mortgage market.

The Royal Baking Powder Company, William Ziegler Jr. President, leased through Alfred C. Marks from the Pershing Square Building Corporation the entire twelfth floor in the new Pershing Square Building, now in course of erection on Park Avenue, from Forty-first to Forty-second Streets. The lease is for twenty years at an aggregate rental of about $1,000,000, or about $50,000 yearly. The area of floor space is about 17,800 net square feet, and will be occupied by the Royal Baking Powder Company with its subsidiary companies.

Contract Awarded for Yankee Ball Park.

The contract for constructing a new baseball park and stadium for the American League Baseball Club of New York has been awarded, according to Brown's Letters, Inc., Construction Reports. Plans and specifications were prepared by the Osborn Engineering Company, and the contract for the work, to cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000 has been awarded to the White Construction Company.

Business Property.

O'Reilly & Dahn have sold for a client to Ennis Sinnott 1,587 Third Avenue, a six-story loft building on a plot 25 by 110 feet.

William J. Roome & Co., Inc., sold for the estate of Dr. Pearce Bailey 32 Jane Street, a four-story studio building on a lot 20 by 67, situate 55 feet east of the corner of West Fourth Street, to John L. Garvey. This property has been held by the estate for a great many years.

Controller Craig Before Realty Board

THE BROOKLYN MARKET.

Will Improve Seventieth Street Lots With Thirty Two-Family Houses.

M. Rutchik sold to Marboro Realty Company thirty-seven lots, fronting 240 feet on the south side of Seventieth Street, 200 feet west of Twenty-second Avenue and 480 feet on the north side of Seventy-first Street, 220 feet west of Twenty-second Avenue. Thirty two-family eleven-room stucco houses will be erected on the plots. I. Salsberg was the broker in the sale of the property.

William Lisa, Inc., sold for Supreme Housing Corporation, Isidore Solomon President, to S. Barken three new houses consisting of store and two apartments with all modern improvements, on a plot 60 by 100, located on the east side of Coney Island Avenue, 100 feet south of Avenue J, between Avenues J and K. This property was held by the owners at $45,000.

The store and seven-flat brick house at 500 Sixth Avenue, near Prospect Avenue, was sold by Chessie Sandler to a client of Edward B. Kegel for investment. The same broker also sold 4154 Seventh Street, near Prospect Park West, a three-story brick two-family house, for Ascher Rosen to a client for occupancy.

The two-family brick house at 7,412 Sixth Avenue, Bay Ridge, was sold by Sullivan & O'Connor for the Ednar Construction Company to Captain McGerty for occupancy.

Bulkley & Horton Company sold 783 Prospect Place, between Rogers and Nostrand Avenues, a two-story two-family stone residence, on a lot 20 by 100, for Katherine Clark to a client for occupancy.

The three-family frame house at 257 Twenty-third Street was sold by Edwin M. La Roche to a client of the F. C. Sauter Agency for investment.

The same agency sold 468 Fifty-second Street, a six-family brick house, for John Suydam to a client for investment.

Harry M. Lewis, as broker, resold for Herman Wieckhorst to Lillian and Rose Ketcham for occupancy the three-story brick dwelling, on a lot 20 by 100, at 246 Cumberland Street, between DeKalb and Lafayette Avenues.

Realty Notes.

The purchaser of 719 Madison Avenue, recently sold by Douglas L. Elliman & Co., Inc., is Miss Adele Miller.

Brown-Wheelock Company and Folsom Bros., Inc., were the brokers in the sale of the five-story dwelling at 56 Park Avenue, for the estate of James C. Fargo, to the trustees of the Trinity Church Corporation.

H. D. Cromer, occupying an apartment at 128 Twenty-third Street, Jackson Heights, has purchased apartment No. 51 in the same building, which he will combine. Francis J. McGowan has also purchased an apartment in 141 Twenty-fifth Street.

The next regular meeting of the Harlem Property Owners' Association will be held tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock at the Chatham and Phenix National Bank, 67 West 125th Street.

The Denison Realty Corporation is the purchaser of 244 and 246 Broadway, the five-story Schulte Building, on a plot of 8,000 square feet. The deal was an exchange transaction, and in part payment the Schulte corporation accepted a $55,000 second mortgage. The Charles F. Noyes Company negotiated the transaction.

Buying in the Suburbs.

Charles Junod sold a large plot of ground on Monterey Avenue at Pelham, N. Y., to Harry S. Haupt who intends to erect a large dwelling on the same. The property was held at $18,000. Fish & Marvin were the brokers.

The same brokers sold for the Fulton Improvement Company to a client eighteen lots on Rochelle Terrace at Pelham which are to be improved with six houses. The property was held at $35,000.

J. Albert Johntra sold for Bertha A. Cahill three lots on the east side of Twenty-second Street, 260 feet north of State Street, Broadway-Flushing, to Paul A. Baumeister. Mr. Baumeister intends to erect a dwelling on the property for his own occupancy.

Pell & Tibbitts sold for Edo E. Mercelis a new stucco house at Fort Washington overlooking Manhasset Bay to Mrs. Eleanor Bergstron Estes of Texas.

Wheatley Hills Real Estate Corporation sold for Mrs. William C. Langley her country estate at East Williston, L. I., situated on the west side of Roslyn Road. The property comprises about 16 2-3 acres, improved with house, stable, garage, tennis court, farm barns, &c. The property was held for sale at $60,000. The purchaser will occupy it as an all-year residence. Mr. Langley recently purchased the Boyesen property at Westbury, which he will occupy this year.

STORE

UNFORTUNATELY, Fifth Avenue, the world's Quality Street, has only two sides.

But the spell of the Avenue has done the obvious, the logical thing. It has spread into the cross-streets—and naturally some of these have been more favored than others.

Right in the heart of things, on this busy through street, there is a particularly attractive store proposition for a tenant of character and discrimination.

Located in the new Borden Building, on the south side of the street and almost midway between Fifth and Madison, this store is now ready for occupancy—with or without equivalent space on the second floor.

In the same building, there are also two or three second floor units—one of them on the corner—that are among the most desirable in this entire section.

ASK almost any New Yorker—or the visitor from out of town—where Times Square and The Times Building are.

Every one knows the location—in the centre of the hotel and theatre district and close to the retail shopping section—the focus of surface and subway lines. Count these advantages in considering a location for your offices.

Inspect the second floor of The Times Building, 1,500 square feet, north end, directly facing Times Square Windows on three sides (ten in all), having exceptional advertising value.

CITY REAL ESTATE.

Manhattan—For Sale or To Let.

THE word bargain is often abused, but a genuine bargain is usually discerned by any common sense person. It takes time, patience and intimate knowledge of the realty market to select and secure bargains for prospective investors, but it is not a very difficult task to do so if we consider the unforeseen circumstances of daily occurrence, which compel some owners, for a myriad of diverse reasons, to seek a quick purchaser for their properties. Some of the properties sold by us last month, among which the 6-story tenement, 240-244 East 106th St. and 446-448 East 117th St., were resold by the purchasers at a substantial profit. There is a reason; they were genuine bargains. We have some more. PEGGIA-Times Building. Tel. Bryant 4000.

A GENUINE bargain, two 5½-story tenements in Harlem, occupied by 44 Italian families, who are most desirable tenants because the least troublesome to landlords and very prompt in paying rent; 50x100, 4 basement stores, 128 rooms, porcelain sinks and hot water. Annual rent very low, $7,188. (Average rent $4.50 a room.) First mortgage $25,000 5% payable $1,250 will take back second mortgage. Price $38,000. No offers considered. PEGGIA, Times Building. Tel. Bryant 4000.

EXCEPTIONAL OPPORTUNITY.
Estate will sell 2-story apartment, 108 West 84th St.; rent over $5,000; price $38,000; very cheap; steam heat, hot water supply; unusually good condition. Apply J. E. Mitchell, 522 West 34th St. Phone Chelsea 620.

NEW SPEED LAWS FOR CITY ADOPTED

Eight Miles an Hour Now Permitted —Fifteen-Mile Rate Maximum in Crowded Districts.

The Aldermen yesterday adopted a resolution amending the speed ordinance regarding automobiles as recommended by a special committee on traffic regulation. The question as to what rate of speed should be permitted in turning a corner furnished the main argument. The old ordinance stipulated four miles an hour and the committee recommended that it be increased to eight. Alderman Friedman, leader of the Republican minority, said that as a driver of a car he had found that turning a corner at four miles an hour was very difficult, and that eight miles an hour would not be reckless driving, as a car going at that speed could be stopped within one and a half or two feet.

Alderman Wirth of Brooklyn thought that the corner provision was the only weak spot in the new ordinance.

"Why increase the speed," he asked, "when it has been found that most of the accidents occur at corners?"

The ordinance provides that a speed exceeding fifteen miles an hour in congested districts shall be prima facie evidence of reckless driving, but in outlying districts the speed may be twenty-five miles an hour. A crosswalk in the middle of a block must not be crossed at a rate greater than six miles an hour. A rate not exceeding twenty miles an hour is allowed on any bridge, park drive, parkway or park street.

The board passed a resolution giving the freedom of the city to Marshal Joffre, who will arrive here next Sunday.

The board allowed Borough Presidents Miller $11,000 in special revenue bonds to remodel a part of the Criminal Courts Building to provide court rooms and clerks' quarters for the new parts of the court provided for at the last session of the Legislature.

EMIGRATED THROUGH STORE

Back Door in Canada, Front Door Over Line—Owner Is Sentenced.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 18.—Accused of using his grocery store at Jamerson's Line, on the American-Canadian border, as a secret channel through which hundreds of immigrants have illegally entered the United States, Harry Gordon pleaded guilty in the Federal Court here today. He was fined $125 and committed to jail for one day.

The grocery store, Federal officers said, spanned the boundary line, and immigrants entered the back door in Canada, coming out the front door in the United States.
